Today

Big Day Tomorrow.
Ten Years Away.
What Is Beyond.
...r and Germany.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

(Copyright, 1928.)

THE big day comes tomorrow, and the two most deeply interested probably feel uncertain.

The usual thing will happen. No need to say exactly what it is, in this case. Another day of happiness for both candidates means a good deal.

THE biggest vote ever cast is assured, biggest by many millions. This is due not alone to deep interest in the issues, but especially to the radio, carrying THE PERSONALITY OF CANDIDATES into the homes.

WHEREAS in former elections a few hundreds of thousands heard speeches and arguments, in this campaign tens of millions listened, heard distinctly and based opinions on voice and personality, more than on arguments or promises.

THE two issues brought to the surface, and a third that should influence no vote, but that will influence millions, unfortunately, arouse the strongest human emotions.

The big issues, openly discussed on both sides, are PROHIBITION AND PROSPERITY.

Prohibition argument is based on much sincerity and much bitterness. Prosperity is a question of common sense.

AND prosperity will decide this election. If the voters believe that the country is well run, prosperous, with promise of continuing and increasing prosperity, they will vote to prolong the Republican administration.

If they agree with Mr. Raskob that our prosperity is a myth, and that a Democratic administration would do better, they will vote the Democratic ticket.

AND there is nothing sordid about that. Government is established, first, to provide justice; second, to provide prosperity and happiness based on prosperity.

And there is no substitute for prosperity.

THE ending of the big war is already 10 years back in history, a short time for men of 60, a long time for young people.

Boys and girls of 20, now shaping the next generation, were only 10 years old when the big war stopped. It is as unreal to them as the Civil War.

THE questions on each Armistice Day are, "When, if ever, will another such war come to curse the foolish white race; what can we do to keep out of it, if it must come?"

THE answer to the second question is, "KEEP READY FOR IT."

We were NOT ready last time, and that fact cost us billions of dollars and might have cost millions of lives, but for the sudden ending.

EINSTEIN, relativity scientist, about to announce another great discovery, declines to indicate its nature or to tell whether, like relativity, "only eight men in the world can understand it."

This writer, having read three or four books on relativity, can testify that the authors did not understand it.

THAT the universe should be either infinite or limited is unthinkable to our feeble minds. Finite insects, we cannot grasp infinity and we cannot imagine "an end" to space.

Einstein says the universe is not infinite, it goes so far, about one billion light years, then curves back on itself.

Ignorance replies "very fine, but what is outside of that curve?"

SILLY is the effort to persuade voters of German birth or descent that Herbert Hoover was "an enemy of Germany" in the war.

Capt. Lehmann, of the Zeppelin, who called on Mr. Hoover on arriving in the big airship, knows something about what Mr. Hoover did for German women and children.

He said: "Had it not been for Herbert Hoover and his efforts for the relief of Germany, thousands and thousands of our people would have starved after the war."

MR. HOOVER, as a matter of fact, was rebuked by rabid anti-Germans because he opposed a continuation of the blockade refusing to co-operate in efforts to starve Germany into submitting to harshest terms.

Replying to such criticism and answering the question, "Why are you feeding Germany?" Hoover said: "From the point of view of my Western upbringing, I would say, for one thing, it is because we do not kick a man in the stomach after we have licked him."

To that he added, "From the viewpoint of the humanitarian, I would say that we have not been fighting with women and children, and we are not beginning now."

STOCK exchange seats in New York sold for $10,000, then $50,000, then $100,000, and now for $469,000. The stock exchange realized that this is a big country and business is good. Therefore, the old stock exchange was rebuilt—its size doubled.

FLYING TO VOTE

MRS. W. H. VANDERBILT

Today Mrs. W. H. Vanderbilt, the former Emily O'Neill Davies, is in the air somewhere between Macon, Ga., and Washington, D. C., where she will board an express train after nightfall to carry her into New York in time to cast her presidential vote tomorrow. Mrs. Vanderbilt has been visiting near Macon.

VOTE PLEAS ON AIR

PAY GOUGE REBEL IS FIRED BY STATE

HARRISBURG, Nov. 5.—Dismissal of the first state employe for failure to contribute 3 per cent of his annual salary to the Republican State Committee became known here today on the eve of the general election.

William A. Eason, Jr., of Duncannon, an inspector in the Bureau of Bedding and Upholstery, Department of Labor and Industry, was the employe discharged. The reasons given in the letter sent to Eason by his superiors was "inattention to duty."

Eason was dropped from the payroll effective November 1. The 3 per cent assessment on his annual salary would have been in excess of $50. Eason has been an inspector for the bureau more than four years. He was stationed at Wilkes-Barre. When the letter asking for "voluntary contributions" was sent to state employes, October 17 was the date fixed as the final date for sending in the checks. The dismissed inspector sent a contribution of $15 to the Republican state committee the day before the last date mentioned in the letter asking for gifts. Two days later he received a letter from William A. Riddle, deputy secretary of labor and industry, telling him that after November 1 his services would not be required.

When Eason communicated with Riddle he was informed that the letter of dismissal was sent on instructions from Charles A. Waters, secretary of labor and industry and himself the Republican nominee for auditor general.

Eason went to his bank and stopped payment on the check for the $15 contribution.

Today police hold Vincent Rice, 17-year-old high school athlete, said to have confessed that he strangled the girl in her home while her mother was absent. The boy is mildly interested in police proceedings, but greatly interested in Saturday's football scores. She kissed him, he says, over his protest and for that, he confesses, he strangled her.

CAMPAIGN CLIMAXES IN TALKS TONIGHT

By GEORGE R. HOLMES.
International News Service.

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—The most unusual and complex presidential campaign in the political history of the country roared down the stretch to the finish today, with the leaders of both sides shouting "We Win!" At the same time, however, a few of those same leaders are secretly wondering just what is going to happen, anyway, in tomorrow's battle of the ballots.

The two candidates will make their final appeals to the electorate tonight by radio.

Herbert Hoover will speak from Palo Alto, Cal., at 9 o'clock this evening over a national network. He will utilize only 15 minutes of the hour alloted to the Republicans by the National Broadcasting Company. The remaining time will be used for a musical program.

At 10 o'clock Gov. Alfred E. Smith will take the "mike" here for a final talk of one hour. It will be the Democratic presidential nominee's second radio address of the day. At 12:30 p. m. he spoke on farm relief.

BOTH CONFIDENT

Having digested these final speeches over the air, America's forty million voters will make their decision tomorrow in what promises to be the most closely contested election since 1916.

The principals themselves, Herbert Hoover and Gov. Al Smith, are confident enough, and apparently genuinely so. They have seen the madness of the crowds that flocked about them; into their ears has poured the enthusiastic acclaim of the multitudes, and their eyes have scanned the glowing reports passed up to them by their lieutenants. Being human, they have been affected by what they have seen and they are confident.

Gov. Smith emerged from a two-hour conference with John J. Raskob, the Democratic generalissimo, saying:

"The reports and advices clearly indicate a Democratic victory tomorrow."

Herbert Hoover, nearing the end of his long journey to the Pacific Coast, informs his associates that he does not doubt the correctness of their reports of victory tomorrow.

Chairman Raskob claims 402 electoral votes for Gov. Smith.

Senator George H. Moses, eastern director of the Hoover campaign,

FORNEY FACES NEW GRILL BY JURY

Alfred W. Forney will be given another chance to tell the grand jury what he knows of graft in the city and county.

A federal prisoner, Forney again will be taken from his cell, haled before the county grand jury and asked to name "the big fellows" who allowed him to install thousands of slot machines and to explain how the millions of dollars that poured into those machines were split.

District Attorney Gardner made the announcement today that Forney, among the 244 indicted last Friday, would be recalled.

HASN'T TOLD ALL

"I cannot believe," Gardner said, "that Forney has told all he knows."

Gossip around the Court House today dwelt, too, on the severity which could be exercised in certain sentences in the event of convictions.

There was considerable interest in the true bill of 16 counts returned against Forney. Fifteen counts accused him of maintaining gambling devices (slot machines) and the sixteenth named him a common gambler.

YANKEE DOODLE CRASH KILLS FAMED 2

PRESCOTT, Ariz., Nov. 5.—The Prescott morgue holds today the bodies of Capt. Charles B. D. Collyer, crack New York aviator, and Harry J. Tucker, wealthy Santa Monica sportman. Positive identification was made late yesterday.

They were killed Saturday night in the wreck of their record-breaking super-monoplane, Yankee Doodle, in which they were attempting a non-stop flight from Los Angeles to New York.

The Yankee Doodle and her occupants went down in a manner in keeping with their careers. Only the imagination can picture their last conflict with the elements they had so often mastered.

All the powers of the storm gods were brought into play to conquer the monoplane, holder of records for transcontinental flights both East and West.

HIT SIDE OF CANYON

The last flight of the Yankee Doodle was waged in darkness and storm above the Broadshaw mountains. Snow, sleet, rain and wind dragged down the gallant airplane, already crippled by disabled engines.

Some twenty mile south of Prescott, in a wilderness of forest and

CHICAGO JUDGE FIGHTS GUNMEN; ROUTS THEM

CHICAGO, Nov. 5.—(A.P.)—Municipal Judge Howard W. Hayes' notion about armed bandits is to get tough with them. The Judge practiced his theory last night when two young men tried to hold him up.

He didn't raise his hands at "stick 'em up." Instead he knocked one of the pair to the ground. They wrestled as the second gunman pointed his pistol at the Judge's head.

"Let go or I'll shoot," the gunman warned.

HOOVER GIVEN HOME STATE WELCOME

By LAWRENCE SULLIVAN.
International News Service.

HOOVER SPECIAL EN ROUTE TO PALO ALTO, Cal., Nov. 5.—Herbert Hoover returned to his home state today to await the verdict of the electorate upon his candidacy for the presidency of the United States.

Despite his long journey from Washington, which started at 5 p. m. Thursday and included 14 rear platform appearances as well as four prepared addresses, Hoover came home smiling, confident of victory and "happy to be back" after the arduous campaigning which has kept him from the trout streams of his homeland since early August.

There was that mysterious gleam in Herbert Hoover's eye as he rolled over the familiar country-side of California, and those who knew him best declare that gleam means but one thing—the approach again of a spell of angling and casting amid the redwoods.

"ELECT ME FOR FARM RELIEF" --SMITH

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—(AP.)—Appealing for support from the agricultural West, Gov. Smith today delivered another blow at Herbert Hoover's attitude on the farm question and declared that a solution of this long vexing problem could be accomplished in but one way—by voting for the Democratic national ticket tomorrow.

Speaking over a coast-to-coast radio hookup from a studio of the National Broadcasting Company, the Democratic presidential nominee again affirmed his belief that tomorrow's election would return him victorious in this campaign of campaigns and asserted that the "industrial East joins with the agricultural West in its desire for a restoration of Democratic government.

"I believe that tomorrow will bring a great Democratic victory," the Governor said, "and I assure you that that victory in turn will bring a solution of the agricultural problem that will restore prosperity to the farm and pro-

Sen. Coyne Sued For $2,000 on Bail Bonds

State Senator James J. Coyne today was made defendant in two suits filed by United States Attorney John D. Meyer to collect on two forfeited $1,000 bail bonds, on which Coyne was surety. The government also asks $33.60 interest on each bond since they were declared forfeited.

Coyne becoming bondsman for Carmelli Luki, Bridgeville, and Eugene Calliari, 1306 Penn avenue, arrested in September, 1927, on liquor charges, pledged property assessed at $33,350 and located at Forbes street and Oakland avenue. The bonds were declared forfeited April 9, last, when the defendants failed to appear for trial.

Hindenburg Welcomes Zeppelin Crew and U. S. Passengers

By OTTO D. TOLISCHUS.
International News Service.

BERLIN, Nov. 5.—The crew of the German trans-Atlantic dirigible Graf Zeppelin and the three United States Naval officers who crossed in the airship were received in audience today by President Von Hindenburg, who expressed the hope that such flights would bring Germany in closer friendship with far-away countries.

After shaking hands with his visitors the President addressed them, stying:

"I want to express my esteem and admiration for your national deed and the manner in which the Zeppelin defied storms and fog. Your wonderful reception in America, for which we are most grateful, shows that the Zeppelin is admirably suited to bring nations, which are now separated by seas, closer together."

Turning to the three United States officers, President Von Hindenburg said:

"I hope this will further cement our friendship."

Three Americans are commander M. Pierce, executive officer Lakehurst, N. J., Naval Sta- Lieut. Charles C. Bauch, watch officer of the Los Angeles, and Lieut. T. G. W. Settle, engineer officer of the Los Angeles.

The Graf was moored to Staaken mast after an hour's effort, following a flight over the gaily decorated city while crowds in the streets cheered and waved hats and handkerchiefs.

Th super-dirigible arrived over this city at 8:50 a. m. (2:50 a. m. Pittsburgh time) after a stormy voyage from its hangar at Friedrichshafen.

The dirigible did not come directly North but detoured to the West to avoid terrific storms directly south of this city and north of Friedrichshafen.

After circling above the gaily-decorated city, while thousands cheered from roof-tops, the Zeppelin, escorted by a squadron of airplanes, headed for the Staaken airfield, where it was anchored to a mooring mast.

Although there were 2,000 policemen on duty at the Staaken airport when the Zeppelin was brought to earth, the huge throng was held in check wit difficulty.

punishment, would find himself staring at a jail sentence of 16 years and a fine of $8,000—a year and $500 for each count. If, of course, such sentences were carried out concurrently, the total jail time would be no longer than one year, and if they were not the total jail time might be only eight years, under the Ludlow Act, which allows time off for good behavior.

Gardner had other things to think of besides Forney today. He had the November grand jury, sworn in before Judge James B. Drew, the stern foe of graft, and he tossed a score or more subpenas to the county detectives to be served on persons who are wanted to testify when the October grand jury reconvenes on Wednesday.

company in the last three years. On January 1, 1926, the supply department of the Western Electric Company changed its name to the Graybar Electric Company, which name was derived from the names Gray and Barton, the founders of the business 60 years ago. Never before in business history had a company of thiss izec hanged its name so completely, and there was much conjecture at the time as to its success. Business increased more than 15 per cent in its first year of operation under the new of Braybar.

Now, three years later the Graybar employes are buying this business.

The Graybar Electric Company is the largest distributor of electrical supplies in the world. Its business in 1928 will be approximately $75,000,000 and is conducted through 71 distributing houses located at strategic points across the country. There are approximately 600 salesmen selling some 60,000 items of merchandist to over 35,000 customers. The catalogue covering items sold by Graybar consists of over 1,200 pages.

The Graybar Electric Company, under its new ownership, will be capitalized at 60,000,000, consisting of $3,000,000 in common voting stock, and $6,000,000 in preferred non-voting stock. The entire common voting stock will be owned by the Graybar Management Sorporation.

PURCHASE PLANS

There will be three methods by which employes can purchase stock:

First—Outright cash purchase.

Second—By annual installments over five years.

Third—By payment of $2.00 per share per month, deducted from salary.

In consummating this sale and purchase agreement, provisions have been worked out that will insure to the present Graybar employes the perpetuation of the pensions, sickness and other benefit plans which they enjoyed while in the employ of the Western Electric Company or the Graybar Electric Company up to December 31, 1928.

The management of the Graybar Electric Company will continue as at present.

TONIGHT MARKS WINDUP OF CAMPAIGN

CLAIMS RIDICULOUS

To most observers and to the leaders on both sides these 400-claims are equally ridiculous. They can be justified by nothing except the political habit of campaign managers on the eve of an election to claim everything in sight.

Both sides can find reasons aplenty for confidence, but not by such figures as the rival chairmen have evolved with their pencils and tables.

The surface indications, that is, straw votes, betting odds and newspaper "experting," all indicate a Hoover victory. Yet there are puzzling elements and baffling cross-currents present in this election that have never entered into any previous election in American history and exactly what they portend only tomorrow can tell.

PUZZLING FACTORS

A list of these new and puzzling factors might be extended indefinitely, but generally they can be grouped under three headings, to-wit:

1. The presence for the first time of an acute religious controversy in the election of an American president.

2. The presence for the first time of an acute controversy over prohibition in a national election.

3. A new army of approximately 10,000,000 voters added to the nearly 30,000,000 that participated in the 1924 election.

To the forecaster, who can accurately analyze the actual ballot strength contained in this trio of new elements tomorrow's election is an open door. But to most observers, trying to chart their course by old, tried and familiar landmarks, they present a composite conundrum that can only be solved tomorrow night by the counting of some 40,000,000 votes.

POINT TO 1916 UPSET

A majority of the newspaper experts have selected Hoover to win. It is usually "safe" to predict Republican victory in national elections, for as Senator George H. Moses naively observed, there are normally 5,000,000 more Republicans than Democrats in this country. To which the Democrats retort that this is no normal year. The Democrats liken it to 1916, another year in which the experts predicted Republican victory—only to wake up two days later to find a Democrat elected.

Perhaps 1928 may be another 1916. Perhaps it won't. But it is going to take a poll of the religious prejudices, if any, and the wet-and-dry views of some forty million American citizens to determine whether it is or not.

Registration for tomorrow's election totals between 43,000,000 and 45,000,000 out of the estimated 60,000,000 eligible to vote. The party leaders expect to see a popular vote of some 40,000,000, which is almost 11,000,000 greater than was cast in the Coolidge-Davis-LaFollette contest four years ago, a record up to that time.

Women account for a great part of the increase, new voters coming of age for some, and the rest is ascribed to popular interest fanned to fever heat by the unprecedented and unusual issues of religion and prohibition which are inextricably wound up in tomorrow's contest.

Deadwood Dick 82, Dime Novel Hero, Takes to Air

ST. PAUL, Minn., Nov. 5.—(AP.)—Deadwood Dick, long-haired scout of the Black Hills and dime novel hero, has celebrated his eighty-second birthday anniversary with an airplane ride, the first flight of his life.

He flew 600 miles from Rapid City, S. D. It was the second time he ever had been out of the Black Hills.

"Well, it beats oxen for speed," he commented today, after a night's rest.

Ox teams brought him to the Black Hills 52 years ago, when the Dakotas were "the end of the world." Deadwood Dick's real name is Richard W. Clark.

BAN ON SUNDAY FOOTBALL ENFORCED

The police Sunday football ban resulted in a game being started in Bloomfield and ending in Glendale. Scattering as a squad of patrolmen appeared the Geneva Tigers and Glendale Tigers, playing on the Bloomfield grounds, hired trucks and resumed their contest at Glendale, near Carnegie.

The game had ended in a fight, however, before all of the fans who went to Glendale in all sorts of trucks and machines could reach the scene.

Spurred by a threat from Director James M. Clark, of the Department of Public Safety, to take drastic action if the ban was not enforced police visited all of the grounds on which Sunday games were usually played.

Frankstown avenue police kept a close watch on the field near Leech farm, on the Washington boulevard, and on the Mellon field, Beechwood boulevard. No attempts were made to play, however.

STEAMER GOES AGROUND

MANILA, P. I., Nov. 5.—(AP.)—The steamer Michigan, operated by the States Steamship Company, of Portland, Ore., was aground today on a reef off the Island of Samar, 300 miles southeast of here and was believed a total loss.

The U. S. Destroyer John D. Ford and the steamer Golden Gate were reported standing by. Efforts at salvage were reported futile. The crew was still aboard the Michigan, all safe.

mote the welfare of the entire country."

AGREES WITH LOWDEN

The Governor said he agreed with former Gov. Lowden and Senator Norris, Republican Independent, of Nebraska, that there can never be any satisfactory solution of the farm problem unless it is based upon an effective control of the sale of exportable surpluses with the cost imposed upon commodities benefited.

He said this was the "great fundamental, underlying principle for farm relief upon which Mr. Hoover and I differ absolutely."

Referring to Mr. Hoover's reference to the Democratic farm program as state socialism, the governor said:

"You and I and your leaders and all who have been struggling in your behalf—all of us together—are transferred to the Socialist party because we wish the government in your behalf to follow the same principle adopted in the Federal Reserve System for the protection of money and credit."

Mr. Hoover, he continued, "talked about an extra session of Congress in his St. Louis speech.

"An extra session for what?" the governor asked, adding:

"Under his advice, the President of the United States vetoed farm relief measures which were twice passed by a Republican Congress. He had nothing to offer in place of it. What has Mr. Hoover got to offer in place of it today? If he is true to what he has always said, he would certainly veto any bill passed upon the principle of control of the exportable surplus. You certainly do not think he is going to sign a bill, whether it is passed at a special session or a regular session, based upon that principle which he calls state socialism."

TWO FLIERS KILLED

mountain, the Yankee Doodle crashed into side of Creek Canyon. It is believed the tragedy occurred about 9 o'clock Saturday night.

Echoes of the last desperate fight with death were heard shortly before 8 o'clock in the hills south of Prescott. Through the welter of the storm were heard the sounds of an airplane in distress. Its motor was pounding fitfully and it evidently was seeking a landing place.

Shortly after 8 o'clock men at the Storm Cloud mine, 18 miles south of Prescott, heard the coughing drone of an airplane motor. For about an hour the sounds of the losing struggle came brokenly to their ears.

FOUGHT TO END

During all this time, it is believed, Collyer was fighting for a landing place. But the attempt was made in darkness and storm in a rugged country. It was unavailing.

Men from the Storm Cloud mine set out at dawn to search for the airplane. Five miles from the mine they found the wreckage of the plane and the two bodies.

The scene of the crash was Creek Canyon in the Bradshaw Mountains. The plane apparently had struck the side of the canyon with terrific force. Pieces of the craft scattered along the wall of the canyon, and the bodies lay at considerable distance from the wreck.

Burned Girl's Kin Employ Detectives To Probe Death

LAKE BLUFF, Ills., Nov. 5.—(AP.)—Relatives of Elfrieda Knaak, refusing to believe the young school teacher had burned herself fatally to purify a "psychic love," have hired detectives to make an independent investigation of the circumstances under which Miss Knaak was found in the furnace room of the Lake Bluff village hall.

ASA KEYES

In the same courts in which he so often prosecuted others, District Attorney Asa Keyes, Los Angeles (Cal.) county, now finds himself under fire. He has been indicted on charges of "wilful and corrupt misconduct in office" and the grand jury has asked that he be fired as district attorney.

Alvin Knaak, brother of the dead girl, said the investigation would center about Charles W. Hitchcock, night policeman and former motion picture actor, for spiritual love of whom the girl said she had purified herself by putting her arms and legs into the furnace.

Knaak said that words whispered to him by his sister before she died convinced him that her story of self-immolation was not altogether true.

"Someone else at least had a moral responsibility, if not a physical responsibility, for Elfrieda's burning," he said.

Private detectives assigned to the case by State's Attorney A. V. Smith were considering the possibility of the girl's having been put in the furnace by a man, although the coroner's physicians declared after an autopsy that Miss Knaak had not been attacked.

500-GAL. STILL SEIZED

BROWNSVILLE, Pa., Nov. 5.—A 500-gallon still, one of the largest ever seized in Allegheny county, was uncovered last night in the home of W. J. Riley, of South Union township. VETERANS FIGHT TAX AMENDMENT

LEA WAMHOFF ELLIOTT M'KENZIE

Members of Aspinwall Post 77, American Legion, declare that if Amendment No. 5 to the state constitution is passed tomorrow, the post would have to pay $450 taxes a year on the organization's property (above). Five years ago, they point out, the people of Pennsylvania amended the state constitution specifically exempting from taxation all posts of honorably discharged soldiers, sailors and marines. Now, they say, such organizations, previously classed with religious and charitable societies, are not included in the exemptions specified in Amendment No. 5. They inquire why and, in the picture, Legionnaire Harry C. Lea, past commander, is explaining the situation to C. Harry Wamhoff and William C. Elliott, Jr., county executive committeeman, gives the Legion view to Clark McKenzie.

MEN PREFER GUNS, WOMEN KILL SELVES WITH POISON

C. F. Schmid, "suicide and homicide specialist" who is a member of the sociology faculty of the University of Pittsburgh, has discovered in exhaustive studies of suicides throughout the country that three times as many men commit suicide as women and that the majority of people who take their own lives do so on Monday.

Women prefer poison, men, firearms, he finds, and single persons kill themselves in much higher proportion than married people. The professional group, according to his study, contributes many more cases than unskilled laborers.

Prof. Schmid's statistics, which are soon to be published by the University of Washington, where he was located before accepting the appointment at the University of Pittsburgh, reveal there have been no more suicides during the past year than there were in former years nor is the suicide rate among students greater than among other groups as is commonly believed.

Pittsburgh is fifty-second among cities in the number of suicides during the past 10 years.

morning the Republican nominee sped past cheering roadside assemblages for the fourth successive day en route to his Palo Alto home, where tonight he will deliver his final campaign appeal over a coast-to-coast radio hook-up.

Despite the hurried schedule mapped for the "Victory Special," Hoover yielded to the plea of California friends for additional stops in the state and added Sacramento, Lodi and Stockton to the list of places slated for platform greetings and informal talks.

Under the new schedule, the arrival at Palo Alto was put forward to 2 p. m., Pacific time, with a five-minute stop at Sacramento at 9:35 a. m.; Lodi, 10 a. m., and Stockton, 11:05 a. m.

The broadcast will begin at 6:45 p. m., Pacific time. Hoover is expected to confine himself to an appeal to the voters to exercise their franchise. He has declared the campaign definitely closed, so far as his own contribution is concerned, by his St. Louis speech last Friday, and his final advocacy of Republican protection and prosperity at Pueblo, Col., Saturday night.

An unqualified claim to a minimum of 300 electoral votes for Hoover and his running mate, Senator Charles Curtis, of Kansas, was the final summary of the Republican managers aboard the Hoover train as it neared journey's end.

Ralph E. Williams, national committeeman from Oregon and vice chairman of the national committee, said that a month's survey just completed indicated a possible Hoover total of 400 votes in the electoral college, against 266 needed to elect. Williams, who traveled with Hoover as far as Ogden, Utah, declared he foresaw no danger in either the border states of Kentucky, Tennessee, Oklahoma and Missouri, nor the farm belt, in which the Democratic managers have advanced an unprecedented campaign for agrarian support.

APPEALS TO TOWNS

"My survey during the past four weeks shows," Williams said, "that if the people in the country and the small towns go to the polls, Mr. Hoover will carry the elections by the western, midwestern and middle Atlantic states alone, with an electoral vote of at least 300 against the necessary 266. From other sources of information, I am convinced he will secure an additional 100 electoral votes from other states which I have not surveyed, and that his total electoral vote will be between 375 and 400, out of the total of 531 in the electoral college.

"My own official survey covers the following states where Mr. Hoover will secure large and substantial majorities if, as I have said, the voters go to the polls and do not leave all the voting to the large cities: Washington, Oregon, California, Idaho, Montana, Wyoming, Utah, Colorado, Nevada, Arizona, North and South Dakota, Minnesota, Oklahoma, Tennessee, Kansas, Nebraska, Iowa, Illinois, Missouri, Michigan, Ohio, Indiana, Kentucky, West Virginia. To which may be added at once Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Delaware, or a total of over 300.

"Advices also show that the drift toward Mr. Hoover in Wisconsin, Maryland and North Carolina will carry him over these states, making a total of 333, without any consideration of the states where I have personally made no survey, but which should give an additional number of electoral votes."

PHONE TALK TO U. S. THRILLS STOWAWAY

TERHUNE IS LIONIZED IN BERLIN

By CLARENCE "RED" TERHUNE, First Aerial Stowaway.

(Copyright, 1928, by New York American, Inc., and by King Features Syndicate, Inc. All world rights reserved.)

BERLIN, Nov. 5.—I got my biggest thrill yesterday since I hid myself a week ago in the mail bags on the Graf Zepplin at Lakehurst.

I got a telephone call from my sister, Mrs. Edna Hall, from St. Louis, 5,000 miles away from here.

While it took me three days to get to Germany traveling by the fastest passenger service in the world, it took only five minutes for sister's voice to get here from St. Louis. It was one of those events which give a fellow an awful thrill.

WILL RETURN TO U. S.

As a result of this call, I have decided to obey sister's request that I return to America at once. I will probably sail in two or three days. Possibly on the Leviathan, as I prefer to ride on an American boat if possible.

Tonight I was the guest at a performance of a musical play called Casanova, having been invited by the show's star, Michael Bohnen, and his wife, Mary Lewis, who sings at the Metropolitan Opera in New York. It was a beautiful show and something like the shows that Mr. Ziegfeld produces back home—lots of beautiful girls and music and pretty stage displays and settings.

I had many callers today in my rooms at the Adlon Hotel, most of them calling me the "blind passenger," which is the German name for stowaway.

Over here they say I was the highest paid dishwasher in the world. For washing dishes three day aboard the Graf Zeppelin, I got this trip here, something which cost the regular passengers $3,000. That made my wages really $1,000 a day.

I never expect to receive such high pay again in my life.

'KICK' OUT OF PALACE

I had an enjoyable ride about Berlin today and saw historical and interesting points. I got a great kick out of seeing the Kaiser's old palace and they even pointed out holes made by bullets when machine guns were pointed at the building during the revolution.

It was also interesting to get a look at President Von Hindenburg's official home. In front of this place two soldiers stand guard in two-hour shifts. While on their posts they are not permitted to move a muscle except to shift their guns from one hand to the other every half hour.

I was entertained at dinner today at the home of a prominent American. Gee, it was surely good to have some old-fashioned roast beef and gravy and baked potatoes and carrots mixed with peas, etc. Just like we get over in the United States.

It was the first real home-like meal I have had since leaving my boarding house at Rye, N. Y.

I guess I have been asked to taste about 25 different kinds of wine and liquor since coming here and, while I tasted them, I can't seem to like any of that stuff. I also have been offered a lot of cigarets and cigars but those also I cannot stand.

DENVER PAPERS CONSOLIDATE

DENVER, Col., Nov. 5.—(AP.)—F. G. Bonfils, publisher of the Denver Morning Post and the Denver Post, announced last night that the Denver Post has purchased the Denver Evening News and has sold the Denver Morning Post to the Rocky Mountain News.

This morning was the last issue published by the Denver Morning Post, and this afternoon's issue will be the last published by the Denver Evening News.

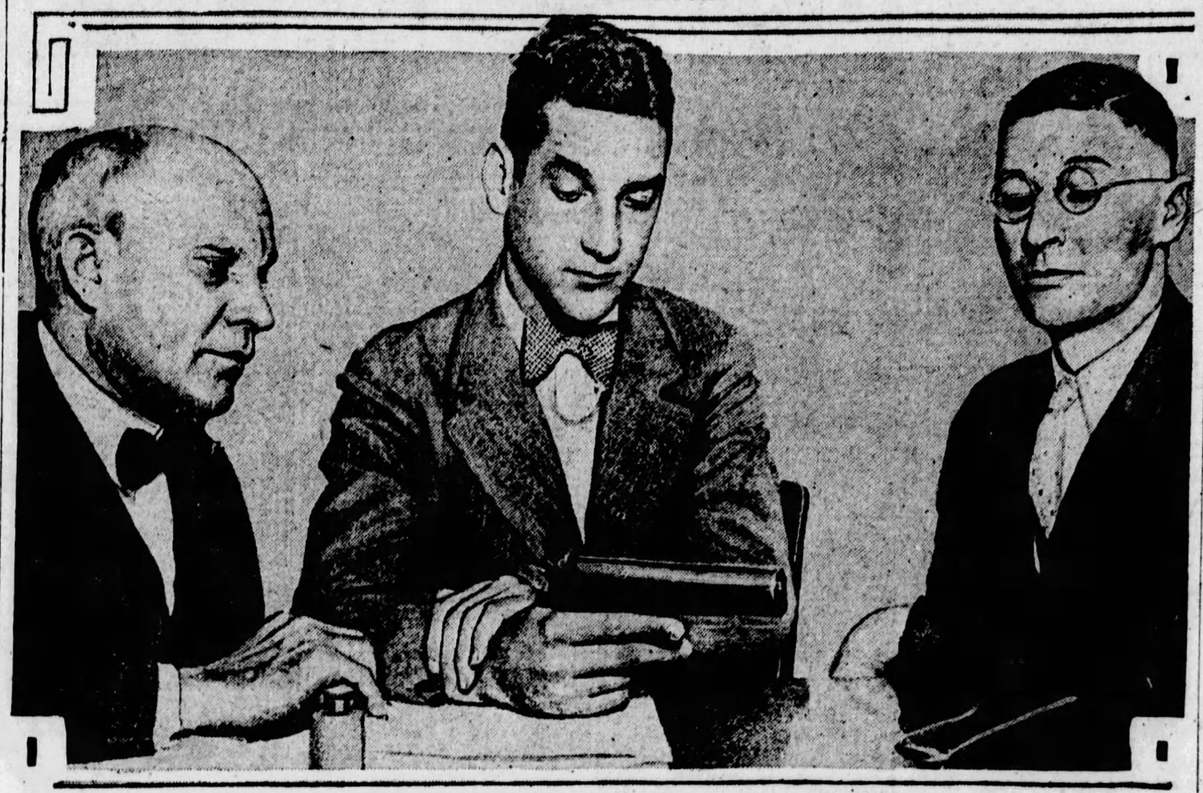
The Denver Post and the Rocky Mountain News will continue as separate and distinct publications under absolutely different ownerships and having no connections whatever, the announcement says. Mr. Bonfils will continue to publish the Post, and the Scripps-Howard organization will go on publishing the Rocky Mountain News.

KANSAS GRID RECEPITS STOLEN; NO CLUE FOUND

LAWRENCE, Kan., Nov. 5.—(AP.)—Police today were without clues in the $1,300 robbery of the office of the athletic director of the University of Kansas Saturday afternoon and the holdup of the Sam Hunter home. Fingerprints were obtained from the Hunter home, but authorities said that good prints could not be found at the office where the gate receipts of the Kansas-Nebraska football game were taken.

SOUGHT THRILLS, COLLEGE LADS FIND JAIL

RICHARD GALLOGLY



GEORGE HARSH

From a quiet study at Oglethorpe University, Atlanta, Ga., George Harsh and Richard Gallogly, sons of Southern rich, ventured to carouse. They enjoyed life until they became blase, turning to crime for thrills.

DRINKING "BOUTS"

Drinking "bouts," wild-life, followed and then there was a series of holdups and in one a man was murdered. The boys confess, jaunty and confident. Once, to demonstrate his deadly aim, Harsh missed by inches the center of this clock, high up on the college tower.

RICHARD GALLOGLY

For a killing in a holdup such as the artist pictures here, Harsh and Gallogly are held for murder. Today they are in jail, laying plans for defense. And police are seeking to find a third rich boy, involved with them.

KILLED SCHOOLGIRL FOR KISS, YOUTH SAYS

RICE CALMLY AWAITING HIS FATE

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN, International News Service.

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—Vincent Rice, fatest jazz age slayer, today presented a baffling study in criminology as he sat in a prison cell, apparently unmoved, and awaited developments following his amazing confession that he strangled Alice Josst, pretty 15-year-old high school girl, because she "kissed him" over his protest and said, "come on and be a sport."

That's the story of this good-looking, smartly dressed "sheik" of 17—and he's sticking to it.

The girl's friends don't believe it, for Alice had an excellent reputation, and even the police are skeptical of that phase of the confession which deals with the motive. The rest of the confession the authorities believe, that, as young Rice said, he became angry with the girl while being entertained alone in her home, struck her with his fist and then strangled her with the cord of an electric iron.

"Alice was a good girl," her mother, Mrs. Lucie Josst, a widow, sobbed as she made arrangements for the burial of her daughter. "God will punish him for what he has done."

Young Rice, cool and seemingly unconcerned, sat in his cell this morning in Richmond County Jail, Staten Island, awaiting the turn of the wheels of justice.

Justice moved fast. The Richwood county grand jury this afternoon indicted him for first degree murder. The indictment was returned to Supreme Court Justice John Johnston after five witnesses had been examined for an hour by the jurors.

GANG SHOOTS DOWN MAN

The murder of Joseph Mosca, 38, of 1112 Wheeler street, Brushton, baffled police and city detectives today. Mosca was found slain with bullet wounds in the right and left chest late last night by Capt. Nuncie Marino and Lieut. Frank Shine, who responded to calls from neighbors who reported that they had heard four shots fired in Wheeler street near the victim's home.

A .32 caliber revolver was found under the victim who was lying face downward. A discharged cartridge in the pistol led police to believe that Mosca had exchanged shots with his slayers. Although several persons said they heard the shots, no witnesses to the slaying could be found.

The finding of the gun and the statement of the slain man's wife that she had warned her husband not to leave the house last night convinced police that the man had incurred the enmity of either black-handers or some gangsters. Several Italians were questioned by police early today, but none could throw any light on the case.

Mosca, the father of two children, employed as service man at the Pennsylvania Water Works, in Wilkinsburg, was en route home when slain, police said. Attaches at Pittsburgh Hospital where the man was taken by police declared that death was instantaneous.

Several Italians who were with Mosca earlier in the evening were quizzed but were unable to give detectives any clues.

HUGH NEVIN, BANKER, DIES

Returning to his office after being absent for a month's illness, Hugh Nevin, 55, of 3201 Beechwood boulevard, treasurer of the Monongahela Trust Company, and president of the First National Bank, of Homestead, died Saturday in his office. He had been treasurer of the trust company for 16 years and was vice president and director of the Hays National Bank.

He was born in Enon Valley, Pa., and was educated at Westminster College. He first taught school, but later entered a bank in Elizabeth, Pa., working as a clerk. He worked in several towns near Pittsburgh before moving into the city. He was treasurer of the Pittsburgh district of the United Presbyterian Church. He also was treasurer of Homestead hospital and was active in Boy Scout work here. He was a member of the South Hills Country Club and the Third United Presbyterian Church. He leaves his wife, four sons, two daughters, two brothers and a sister.

AUTOIST SLAIN IN DENVER

DENVER, Col., Nov. 5.—(AP.)—The body of an unidentified man, shot through the heart, was found slumped in the seat of his automobile in a residential district here yesterday. Police believed he had been murdered.

Several blocks from the automobile detectives picked up a revolver believed to have been used in the shooting. The man, well dressed, had a tailored suit and an overcoat which had been made by the Anderson Tailoring Company, New York.

2 RUN DOWN BY FUNERAL CAR

WHEELING, W. Va., Nov. 5.—(AP.)—Amawood Davis, 22, and Elias Johnson, 42, Negroes, of Washington, Pa., were injured today when struck by a funeral car on the National Pike east of here. They were brought to a Wheeling hospital.

The hearse, owned by the Smith Service Company, of Brooklyn, N. Y., was en route West, and the driver, Joseph McGinley, of New York City, said the two Washington residents had hailed a bus and stepped out on the road in front of his machine. McGinley was not detained by police.

It was said at the hospital that both victims would likely recover.

DEMOCRATS HERE GUARD AGAINST FAKE BALLOTS

Reports that plans are being made in some districts to defeat the Democratic nominees by using a duplicate set of ballots were received today by David L. Lawrence, Democratic county chairman, he told newspapermen.

"I've heard that from several sources," he said. "The plan seems to be to mark and return one set of ballots, destroying those actually deposited in the boxes. I have warned our watchers to be on their guard against such a trick and I now warn election boards not to participate in any such practice."

A corps of private detectives has been retained by the Smith-for-President Lawyers' Committee to guard the polling places in districts where fraud may be attempted, C. A. Jones, chairman, announced today.

Mr. Jones also announced that all evidence of fraud collected at tomorrow's election will be placed before the United States district attorney because of the heavy penalties provided for law violation when the election of a Federal candidate is involved. There is a maximum punishment of $5,000 fine and 10 years imprisonment.

ACT PROTECTS VOTER

Mr. Jones' statement reads in part:

"The Supreme Court of the United States has construed this act to be constitutional and that it constitutionally extends protection to the right to vote for a candidate for a Federal office although the election be held under State election laws. The Supreme Court further said in regard to the protection afforded by this act, 'We regard it as equally unquestionable that the right to have one's vote counted is as open to protection by Congress as the right to put a ballot in a box.' It is, of course, well known that district and ward leaders do not of their own uninstructed choice attempt to offset by fraud the will of any electorate as expressed by their ballots. It is always a part of some plan or scheme to aid a particular candidate or party at the instance of someone higher up, hence, the illegal concert of action, punishable under the Federal law, where election frauds are perpetrated.

"Our committee has already received reliable information as to where compacts and agreements have been entered into to count out one candidate for the benefit of another in the coming election. These agreements, if carried out, of course, mean but one thing, and that, a deliberate theft of the peoples' suffrage in the districts and wards embraced by the agreements. We intend on election day to have men present, particularly in the wards and districts where election frauds have already been threatened, to collect the evidence. On such evidence of any provable violation of an elector's right to vote without intimidation from any one and to have his vote honestly counted and recorded prosecutions will be asked for in the Federal Court.

TO GUARD RIGHTS

"In this connection our committee has been informed from a number of sources that certain employers in this district are threatening their employes with loss of their jobs in case they do not vote according as the employer directs. It may be that these statements from employers amount to no more than an expression of their individual political opinions, but the similarity of the declarations and the concert of their utterance indicate that they may have gone so far as to render themselves subject to prosecution under the Federal law above referred to. Our committee, therefore, suggests that each voter exercise his right of suffrage according to the dictates of his own judgment and that if any employe suffers the loss of his job as a reprisal for so doing, that the matter be brought to the attention of our committee.

"While the 'Smith for President' Lawyers' committee, as its name indicates, is composed of lawyers who are supporting the candidacy of Gov. Smith, nevertheless, its concern is that each and every citizen be protected in his right to cast his ballot for the candidate of his independent choice, uncoerced and unintimidated by anyone, and that when his ballot has been cast that it be honestly counted and returned."

One Eye Gone, He Loses Other in Mine Blast

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., Nov. 5.—(AP.)—Blinded in one eye two years ago in a premature blast, Joseph Barbeni, 41, a miner, of Parsons, was rendered totally blind by a similar accident Saturday.

Barbeni lost his right eye two years ago in the Laurel Run colliery of the Hudson Coal Company. Yesterday afternoon at 5 o'clock in the same colliery he was preparing to fire his final blast for the day. He placed the charge and lighted the fuse, but before he could get away the explosion occurred and flying coal and rock struck him in the face.

Profs to Quit If Students Grade Efficiency

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Nov. 5.—(INS.)—Resignations of some of the University of Michigan's best instructors was predicted today by Prof. Claude H. Vantine, of the history department, if the proposal to have the students grade the efficiency of instructors is carried out.

Prof. Vantyne deplored the plan, which he said would find freshmen spying on their instructors.

He is quoted further as saying that he has never seen the faculty so aroused as it has been since publication of the announcement. He has been here 25 years.

JUDGE RAPS ATTORNEYS' HAGGLING; DELAY SUITS

Nettled at the failure of attorneys to appear when their cases were called today, Judge T. J. Ford, sitting in the assignment room, announced that a further delay of 12 months or more would be forced by placing cases at the bottom of the list.

A dozen or more cases had been called, with no response from attorneys when a second call was made. Then the jurist announced that in the future when lawyers do not answer on the second call the cases would be continued by putting them at the bottom of the list.

As a result of dropping cases to the bottom of the list today, it was said a number of the suits would be settled. Attorneys have been in the habit of delaying suits while they haggled over terms and the new rule, it is believed, will result in the settlement of some long standing litigation.

SMITH OUT FOR 'MELTING-POT' BALLOTS

By CHARLES N. WHEELER,
Noted Political Analyst.

CHICAGO, Nov. 5.—While unheralded in the public prints, organization of the so-called foreign language groups in behalf of Gov. Smith has been the most comprehensive and thorough ever achieved in a presidential campaign.

Congressman A. J. Sabath, of Chicago, leader of the block in Congress that has fought for years for more flexible immigration laws, has represented the Democratic National Committee in the direction of this canvass in Illinois, Missouri, Indiana, Iowa, Wisconsin, Minnesota, North and South Dakota and Nebraska, and has aided in the supervision of propaganda in New Hampshire, Massachusetts, Connecticut, Maryland, New Jersey, Pennsylvania and New York.

As surprising as it may appear to some folks who are not familiar with the ramifications of organization work in such contests, it is upon this racial classification that the Democrats are relying for a Smith victory in some of the close states, rather than upon the farm revolt.

MELTING POT

Statistics compiled under the direction of Congressman Sabath, which are supported by both Federal and state surveys, show that the United States east of the Mississippi River and north of the Ohio River and the Maryland line, is rapidly becoming a melting pot of foreign strains that promises in some spots, like Chicago for example, eventually to submerge the so-called native and the entire Nordic stock.

The appeal, which has gone forth in millions of pamphlets printed in some 30 different languages, has been based mainly on two grounds:

1. Liberalization of the immigration laws.
2. Anti-prohibition.

Literature and speakers have embraced virtually every language known to the civilized world. The best writers in each class have been attached to the Democratic organization, particularly in Illinois.

It is Congressman Sabath's assumption that fully 80 per cent of this entire family of racial groups will support Gov. Smith.

CAMPAIGN THOROUGH

An interesting side light on the thoroughness with which the Democratic leaders have been preparing for Gov. Smith's campaign for two years is furnished in Chicago.

When it was suggested that the Federal government begin deportation of all aliens implicated in bootleg activities, an organization was quickly perfected for the purpose of naturalizing thousands who had failed to take out their papers.

Tabulation of records in the Chicago courts as of today discloses that approximately 40,000 immigrants have been naturalized in this city alone in the past two years.

Every one of them, Congressman Sabath believes, will plunk a vote in the box for Gov. Smith.

Another interesting sidelight of

GIRL AIR PILOT INJURED TREKS 18 MILES FOR AID

BRADFORD, Pa., Nov. 5.—(AP.)—Having walked 18 miles through woods, notwithstanding fractured ribs, Miss Helen Crandall, of Alfred, N. Y., who owns and operates an airplane, was under the care of physicians today.

She made the hike to get aid for her co-pilot, George Eyer, of Hornell, N. Y., who was injured when her plane crashed in a forest eight miles from here Saturday night.

It was near dark. Eyer was caught in the wreckage with a fractured skull.

Miss Crandall fought her way through thick underbrush, which tore at her clothes and sapped her strength. She knew that finding the way back to the woods might be difficult, so as she walked she tore pieces from her clothes and tied them to tree branches.

Finally she found a farmhouse. Back through the rain and the forests she led five men, her way marked by the fluttering bits of cloth. Removing Eyer, they made a rude litter.

It was Sunday afternoon when they reached the farmhouse, whence an automobile took both fliers to a Bradford hospital.

'MELTING-POT' BALLOTS

STRATEGY

Republican chiefs in charge of this branch of the campaign circulated among the Poles Prof. Fischer's book on how Herbert Hoover played an important role in the saving of modern Poland.

The Democrats simply had the book reprinted in German, without comment, and sent it to key men everywhere in the German-Smith ranks.

Statistics as to Chicago's melting pot may surprise some of the folks who do not keep track of the immigration figure with respect to many racial groups.

Two years ago, when the estimated population of Chicago was 3,100,000, the total population of American designation was only 737,800.

In 1920 the entire Nordic population of Chicago was about 55.15 per cent of the whole population.

In the entire state of Illinois two years ago the native-born totaled 2,645,159 in an estimated population of more than 6,000,000. Naturalized and alien totaled 1,206,951, or more than 20 per cent, and children of immigrants totaled 3,232,770, about 48 per cent. In 1920 the percentage divisions were, as to Chicago:

GAMBLER KING REFUSES TO NAME MAN WHO SHOT HIM

ROTHSTEIN'S FAILURE TO PAY POKER DEBT BLAMED

tion was too critical to attempt to remove the bullet from his abdomen. Rothstein declined to name his assailant, or even whether he recognized the man who fired the shot.

The only definite clue was a .38 caliber revolver, found by a taxicab driver in front of the hotel. The weapon was broken. Five of its chambers were empty, and one containd the shell of a discharged bullet. Police believe that the weapon had been dropped from a window of the hotel.

This belief led to the theory that Rothstein had been shot in the hotel itself, and not on the street as first believed, and an investigation of the hotel's occupants was started immediately.

Previously it had been reported to police that Rothstein had been shot in front of the Wyoming Apartments on Seventh avenue by a person in a black sedan, going north, as it passed Rothstein.

Later, however, police discovered powder marks on Rothstein's clothes, indicating that he had been shot at close range. While they thought it possible that the black sedan may have passed very close to him at the curb, it was believed more probable that he was shot in a room of the hotel, across the street, and then made his way downstairs.

It was learned that shortly after 9:30 o'clock last night, less than two hours before the shooting, Rothstein was accosted by two men in front of Lindy's restaurant, which he owned, at Fiftieth street and Broadway. The three argued for several minutes. Then Rothstein dismissed the men abruptly and vanished in a taxicab.

The shooting first became known when Rothstein staggered into the service entrance of the Park Central and asked for a taxicab. He was wounded near the heart, so severely that he could hardly stand.

SEND FOR WIFE

He approached Lawrence Fallon, the house detective, and gasped:

"I've been shot. Get me a taxi!"

After being taken to the hospital, Rothstein suddenly exclaimed:

"I want my wife. Send for her."

Mrs. Rothstein, the former Carolyn Green, had not been living with her husband, although they were not divorced. She entered the hospital and waited for her husband to come out of the either.

Later Mrs. Rothstein urged her husband to reveal who shot him.

"No, dear," he gasped weakly. "You know I can't."

Robbery was eliminated as a motive when $9,000 in currency was found on Rothstein's person. All of the money was in crisp, new bills. Rothstein's wallet contained $6,500, and the remainder was carried loosely in his pockets.

The elimination of robbery as a motive led police to believe that the gambler was shot because of a grudge. They offered the unofficial explanation that Rothstein had failed to pay half of a $500,000 poker debt which he was said to have incurred about a month ago, just after the world series. Rothstein was shot because of his inability or unwillingness to meet a note which he gave for the $250,000 debt, according to this theory.

Word of the shooting spread like wildfire.

The news-hungry sensation seekers were eager for every scrap of information about the "blue-sky limit speculator," the man who has been reported to have made hundreds of thousands of dollars on a single bet and whose name has been linked with huge wagers in countless sporting events; the man who could lose a bet of half a million dollars without the quiver of an eyelash.

The gambler took the shooting in the same spirit. To him, it was just another deal gone wrong.

Capt. Edmund Meade, mincing no words, said at the hospital:

"We want you to make what may be an ante-mortem statement."

Rothstein grinned and answered:

"What do I care. If I got it I'll take my medicine."

MYSTERY IN CASE

Except for the report of the mysterious figure said to have fired at Rothstein from the curtained window of a black sedan, no one has been discovered who saw Rothstein's assailant. Police believe that the assailant shot the gambler in the hotel and escaped by running through the swimming pool balcony of the hotel and out through the Seventh avenue entrance.

Rothstein may have been shot in the first sub-floor of the hotel, in the barber shop, wash room or swimming pool room, or on one of the upper floors, police pointed out.

While Rothstein flatly refused to give detectives any information, police were told that several threats had been made on his life. One of his bodyguards was "beaten up" a week ago.

"I am not going to pay, and if I am killed no one is going to get the money," Rothstein is reported to have said in answer to these threats.

Rothstein, however, enjoyed a reputation as a "square shooter," he always fulfilled his obligations, according to his associates, and rumors that he was the "master mind" of questionable betting coups never were proved true.

WOMAN TEMPERANCE LEADER FOR SMITH

RENO, Nev., Nov. 5.—(AP.)—Mrs. Bessie R. Eichelberger, former secretary of the Nevada Women's Christian Temperance Union, who led in the fight for ratification of the prohibition law by this state, announced in Reno today that she would cast her ballot for Gov. Alfred E. Smith. Mrs. Eichelberger said she did so "with sincere wishes for a sober and sane nation" and that she was in favor of Gov. Smith's proposals to change the prohibition law.

What Doctors Think of the Laxative Habit

In all history, no Indian was ever known to have constipation. Nor need YOU. He chewed the bark of a tree called cascara. Today, we have the candy Cascaret.

Cascarizing the bowels never forms a laxative habit. If already formed, an occasional Cascaret will usually break the habit. For cascara strengthens the muscular walls of the bowels, and their need of any aid at all grows constantly less. What other cathartic has this characteristic? The writer knows of none.

An evacuation brought gently about by cascara will, nine times in ten, be followed by full functioning of the bowels on the morrow—and for days after. For there is no REACTION as with sickening salts, or any of the man-made purgatives that go through one's system like a bullet.

Physicians tell us cascara is the ideal laxative—and the tongue tells us candy Cascarets are its ideal form. At least a million people know this; what a pity there are any who don't! Especially parents, because children love to take a Cascaret. After which, for days-on-end, the bowels will be seen to work of their own accord.

The only habit from cascara is that of regularity! Cascarets tone and train the bowels. But at the first sign of returning sluggishness another Cascaret is as effective as the first.

There isn't a druggist who hasn't Cascarets, so WHY experiment with laxatives?

TAXPAYERS OF PENNSYLVANIA
WHY PAY
223½ MILLION DOLLARS FOR THE USE OF 138 MILLION DOLLARS

When the Same Results Can Be Obtained Without the Payment of $85,560,000 Interest?

This Is the Question You Will Decide Nov. 6

Fourteen Amendments to the State Constitution are to be voted upon in the approaching election. Five of them (Nos. 2, 3, 4, 9 and 10) would authorize increasing the State's indebtedness by $138,000,000. The projects themselves are entirely worthy. But the State's fiscal officers—Auditor General Edward Martin and State Treasurer Samuel S. Lewis—have demonstrated that they can be financed out of current revenues.

The Five Amendments for Loans Are:

No. 2—$8,000,000 For Pennsylvania State College
No. 3—25,000,000 For Purchase of Land for State Forestry Purposes
No. 4— 5,000,000 For State Armories
No. 9—50,000,000 For Additional Highway Purposes
No. 10—50,000,000 For Welfare Purposes

Why Are These Amendments on the Ballot?

Because: When the Legislature considered these proposals in 1925, it seemed that the issuance of bonds was the only method of financing these projects. However, the financial condition of the Commonwealth has improved to such an extent that now the revenues far exceed expenditures, thus making it wholly unnecessary to borrow money for these purposes.

Mr. and Mrs. Taxpayer and Miss Taxpayer

You now pay no taxes—personal, realty or income—for STATE purposes.

If these amendments pass, new taxes are inevitable.

Radiola 18—the "wonder box" of radio—is unquestionably the most popular type of broadcast receiver

It was a sensation when it was introduced. It revolutionized radio set design. It made battery-operation obsolete in wired homes.

It was the pioneer in the use of the wonderful alternating-current Radiotrons—the vacuum tubes that have made possible simplified operation from the house current.

Many leading manufacturers of quality radio instruments are now building receivers of the "18" type—but there is only one Radiola 18.

And only the combined resources of RCA General Electric and Westinghouse could produce so fine an instrument at so low a price.

RCA Radiola 18—A finely designed receiver of broad range and capacity for simplified house-current operation. Wonderful tone fidelity and realism. Solid mahogany cabinet, walnut finish. $95 (less Radiotrons).

RCA Loudspeaker 100A—Most popular reproducer ever built. Ideal for use with Radiola 18. $29

Any RCA Radiola Dealer will demonstrate this Radiola in your home. Purchase may be made on the convenient RCA Time Payment Plan.

DEAF, NOW THEY HEAR, 2 TELL SPROUL

A father and son both sang praises last night in the Glory barn, Carson street, after they had told from the platform how they had been cured of deafness through attendance at the barn and the faith they had acquired. S. A. Heil and his son Frank, both of Slippery Rock, were the men who said they had gained help through faith. The father had been almost deaf for 50 years and the son suffered a similar ailment 10 years.

Five hundred persons answered the altar call yesterday and professed acceptance of Christianity. About 7,000 persons attended the services. The subject last night was "God and Gratitude."

Magistrate A. D. Brandon of Morals Court spoke at the barn last night after Evangelist John W. Sproul had delivered his sermon. Magistrate Brandon told of his acquaintance with Sproul when the evangelist lost his voice and also told of how he recovered it through acquired faith. Brandon praised Sproul's work at the tabernacle.

AMBRIDGE BRIDE DENIED BAIL IN MATE'S DEATH

MAN, HANGING IN CELLAR, NOT SUICIDE, KIN'S VIEW

By AL GOUGH,
Staff Correspondent.

AMBRIDGE, Pa., Nov. 5.—Oftimes it isn't the woman who pays!

Andrew Duda, 58, bridegroom for a day, if he were alive today might be able to tell more about this, but it remains for a coroner's jury to uncover the facts in this particular case.

Duda was found by his bride, the former Mrs. Mary Cooper, 32, of Baltimore, hanging from the beams in the basement of his home, 338 Duss avenue, Saturday morning, the day after their marriage in Pittsburgh.

Five sons and two daughters of Duda, by a former marriage, believe their father met with foul play. As a result Coroner H. C. McCarter, of Beaver county, ordered the woman's arrest and detention without bail as a material witness. The inquest will be held Wednesday.

Duda's sons and daughters told police how their father had lavished money on Mrs. Cooper who is considerably younger than himself for more than two years. Duda's wife, according to the children, died three years ago. About a year after her death, they said, he met Mrs. Cooper at a dance. He bought fur coats, diamonds, an automobile and beautiful clothing. Sometimes she came to their father's house to live for a few days, they said, and police several times were called in on family quarrels.

DRIVEN FROM TOWN

Ambridge police declare the woman was warned to leave town several times, but she returned as often as she was "run out." Usually, they say, Mrs. Cooper went to Baltimore where it is said she maintains a beautiful home at Turner's Station, a suburb near Sparrow's Point.

Only three of Duda's children have been living at home, three others being married and the oldest son making his home with one of the married daughters. George, 18; Rose, 20, and Steve, 22, were living at home up until Friday night when Rose and Steve left because their father came home with his bride.

George works at night and was asleep when his father and stepmother arrived from Pittsburgh where they obtained their marriage license. Steve came home from work about 5:30 and when his father told him of his marriage, Steve announced his intention of leaving. George decided to stay with his father, declaring he would "help him out with 'that woman.'"

Rose was at work in a confectionery store and didn't arrive home until midnight. She was unable to get into the house, so went to the home of her sister, Mrs. Marie Bayuse in Economy, where another brother, John, made his home.

FINDS MAN HANGING

George went to work as usual Friday night, he said, and his father opened the door for him upon his return at 6 o'clock Saturday morning. George told police he went directly to bed and slept until awakened by his step-mother when she ran to his room with word that his father had hanged himself in the cellar.

George told Coroner McCarter he believed his father was alive when his bride discovered him, but she failed to cut him down, delaying until he went with her into the cellar. He said he tried to revive his father, while his step-mother went for a doctor, but the physician arrived too late.

A note written in Slavish was found by the bride, but she refused to turn it over to police saying it was a will left to her by her husband. Coroner McCarter said the note would be introduced as evidence at the inquest Wednesday. Duda's sons and daughters say they believe the note might contain some explanation of their father's act and are fearful lest their step-mother destroy it.

None of the children are able to understand why their father would want to end his life, they say, and they have appealed to county authorities to investigate Duda's death thoroughly.

EMPLOYES OF GRAYBAR TO PURCHASE COMPANY

Employes of the Graybar Electric Company are buying the business from the Western Electric Company, Edgar S. Bloom, president of Western Electric, announced today.

The ownership of the company will be in the hands of the Graybar Management Corporation, recently organized to enable the officers and other employes of the Graybar Electric Company to purchase the business. All of the capital stock of the Graybar Management Corporation will be owned by the officers and other employes of the Graybar Electric Company.

SECOND UNIQUE STEP

This move marks the second of two important ones made by this company in the last three years. On January 1, 1926, the supply department of the Western Electric Company changed its name to the Graybar Electric Company, which name was derived from the names Gray and Barton, the founders of the business 60 years ago. Never before in business history had a company of this size changed its name so completely, and there was much conjecture at the time as to its success. Business increased more than 15 per cent in its first year of operation under the new of Graybar.

Now, three years later the Graybar employes are buying this business.

The Graybar Electric Company is the largest distributor of electrical supplies in the world. Its business in 1928 will be approximately $75,000,000 and is conducted through 71 distributing houses located at strategic points across the country. There are approximately 600 salesmen selling some 60,000 items of merchandise to over 35,000 customers. The catalogue covering items sold by Graybar consists of over 1,200 pages.

The Graybar Electric Company, under its new ownership, will be capitalized at $9,000,000, consisting of $3,000,000 in common voting stock, and $6,000,000 in preferred non-voting stock. The entire common voting stock will be owned by the Graybar Management Corporation.

PURCHASE PLANS

There will be three methods by which employes can purchase stock:

First—Outright cash purchase.

Second—By annual installments over five years.

Third—By payment of $2.00 per share per month, deducted from salary.

In consummating this sale and purchase agreement, provisions have been worked out that will insure to the present Graybar employes the perpetuation of the pensions, sickness and other benefit plans which they enjoyed while in the employ of the Western Electric Company or the Graybar Electric Company up to December 31, 1928.

The management of the Graybar Electric Company will continue as at present.

If Al Smith Got Into the ...White House...

Tammany would dominate the government at Washington because he has been the acknowledged servant of that political machine.

Tammany would realize its ambition of 100 years to seize the reins and impose its political policies upon the people of the United States.

The spoils system would have unlicensed sway.

The shades of Boss Tweed and Richard Croker would rejoice that the plans they laid for unrestricted and nation-wide bossism had come true.

Tammany free trade would take the place of Republican tariff protection to American labor, industry and prosperity and the products of cheap European labor would drive the products of well paid American working people out of their own markets.

This would mean hard times, idleness and misery.

Tammany politics would succeed sound financial policies in government management and prosperity would be endangered.

Tammany would let down the bars of European low wage labor, and working people here enjoying satisfactory wages would be at the mercy of a perfect flood of labor from abroad.

No district in the United States would be harder hit by the Tammany policy of a low tariff and increased immigration than Pittsburgh and Allegheny County.

The only safe way to stop Tammany and protect labor, industry and prosperity here is to vote for Hoover and Curtis and the entire Republican ticket November 6th

WHAT'S ON THE AIR

By DARRELL V. MARTIN.

RADIO will do its part in piling up a tremendous vote in America tomorrow. Herbert Hoover, Alfred E. Smith and Norman Thomas, the three presidential candidates, will step before the microphone tonight to make their last appeal for support. The major political parties have practically monopolized the network facilities of the National Broadcasting Company and the Columbia Broadcasting Company.

The case of Hoover will be rested with his last campaign speech at 9 o'clock tonight over a combined network of the National Broadcasting Company and the Columbia Broadcasting Company.

His Democratic opponent, Smith, will speak over the same hookup from 10 until 11 o'clock.

Perhaps the most pretentious program is that offered by the Republican National Committee at 9 p. m. over the WJZ network, which includes KDKA. A galaxy of opera and theatrical stars will take part in a musical rally, "America's Men of Destiny," which will be given in nine episodes depicting the Revolution, the War of 1812, the Monroe Doctrine, the Civil War, the Spanish-American War, the World War, National Relief Work, the Coolidge Administration and the past, present and future of Herbert Hoover.

Amelita Galli-Curci and Frieda Hempel will sing. Other notables include Marie Sundelius, Charles L. Wagner, Francis Wilson, Grant Mitchell, Florence Reed, Francine Larrimore, Pauline Lord, Elsie Ferguson, Laura Hope Crews, Henrietta Crosman, Olive Wyndham, Helen Ford, Florence Nash, Roberta Arnold, Raymond Hitchcock, Ian Keith, Walter Huston, William Hodge, Marion Green, Neysa McMein and George Abbott. The music will be furnished by the Choral Symphony Orchestra and the Apollo Glee Club.

"Men of Destiny" will run 45 minutes. The final 15 minutes of the program will be consumed with a 15-minute address by Herbert G. Hoover from his home in Palo Alto, Cal.

Another special feature of the Republican demonstration is the broadcasting of a speech by James Francis Burke from his home at 820 Devonshire place, over WJAS at 11 o'clock.

Senator M. M. Neely, of West Virginia, will give a political address over KDKA at 8 p. m. Mr. Neely is a Democrat.

R. P. Cronin, Jr., Pittsburgh correspondent of the Associated Press, will tell this evening how this news service will co-operate with KDKA in broadcasting election returns tomorrow night. He will speak at 6:15 p. m.

The usual musical programs will be given over WCAE this evening, opening with the Choristers at 8 o'clock, the Gypsies and the General Motors Family at 9:30 p. m.

Ed Loway, theatrical star, is the chief entertainer on the Vitaphone Jubilee program over WJAS at 9:30 o'clock.

Norman Thomas, Socialist candidate for President, will speak over WJZ, WBAL and WHAM tonight at 8:30 o'clock.

Complete programs follow:

National Hookup To Broadcast Election

Watch Tuesday's Pittsburgh Sun-Tele radio program for a complete account of the system to be used by broadcasting stations in relaying the returns in the presidential election. Hollywood and Local News About Stage and Screen Plays and Players

JOHN BARRYMORE IS TO WORK IN TALKING FILM FOR WARNER BROTHERS

By REGINA CREWE.

(Copyright, 1928, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 5.

THE coming of the New Year will find John Barrymore working on the Warner Brothers' lot as hero of "The Tavern Knight," a photoplay based on Raphael Sabatini's story of that name. The picture will be the first all-talkie in which the star has appeared, and he will be surrounded by a cast of exceptionally talented players. It is expected at this time that Dolores Costello will again be Barrymore's leading woman. Although this is not definitely determined.

The association between John Barrymore and the Warners dates back to his movie debut, which was made in "Beau Brummell." Since then the actor has made some pictures for United Artists, but continues to feel gratitude which he expresses by giving them first call on his services. Barrymore has just completed "King of the Mountains," directed by Ernst Lubitsch for United Artists.

Mix Initiated By "Whoopees"

"BIG TIME" is the title of the Fox photoplay which offers its contribution to the long list of show business films of the past and present seasons. Marion Nixon has been signed for the girl role, and Howard Hawkes will direct. Another catchy picture title used by Fox is "Strong Boy," which is the one in which Leatrice Joy and Victor McLaglen play the big parts. Farrell MacDonald assures some laughs in the film, which was originally called "The Baggage Smasher."

Tom Mix received his initiation into the newest of Hollywood's "inner circles" the other evening, when he became a full-fledged member of the "Whoopee Club," following a ritual of goat-riding and similar stunts. The idea of the gatherings is for the boys and girls of Hollywood village to get together and make whoopee, the official uniforms being gingham gowns and overalls. Billie Dove is president of the club, and among the charter members are Lupe Velez, Seena Owen, Irving Willat, Roland Drew, Sharon Lynn, Marie Prevost, Phyllis Haver and others.

Columbia is falling into line with its first 100 per cent talking picture, "The Donovan Affair." The production will be begun as soon as Jack Holt, its star, completes his present Paramount photoplay. Frank Capra is to direct. Holt is another of those fortunate individuals who holds double contracts, one with Paramount, one with Columbia. Thus he alternates between the two studios.

Hecht Through With Studios

APPARENTLY Ben Hecht meant what he said about not returning to Hollywood. Rupert Julian, who is to direct a picture from Hecht's recently purchased story, "Regiment of Doom," asked Hecht to come on out and help with the story's adaptation, but Ben wired back that he wasn't interested in Hollywood, and that Julian could fix up the story anyway he desired. Ben must be well along toward the accumulation of his first million from "The Front Page" royalties.

Paul Perez, who quit a job with Universal in New York to try his luck in Hollywood, has been engaged to write the titles for Clara Bow's picture, "Three Week Ends." Another city boy who has made good in the sticks.

Director Al Santell and Sam Goldwyn haven't yet selected a leading man for Vilma Banky. But the odds are three to one that when they are ready to shoot Rod LaRocque will be selected to play opposite his wife. Director and producer should give up all ideas of going to New York to cast some stage player. Rod is the logical person to play opposite Vilma. Since he has joined the free lance field he has repeatedly expressed a desire to play in her pictures.

Colman Balks At Tale Picked

THERE is some question regarding the filming of "Condemned to Devil's Island" as Ronald Colman's next starring vehicle. Colman, himself, is said to be averse to the story, which, it is said, does not lend itself to a romantic photoplay. The star's choice is "The Tale of Two Cities," which he has wanted to play for years.

Screen players who possess voices and stage experience are certainly in high demand these days. Universal figures this out when it signed John Boles to a five-year contract. Scarcely was the ink dry when Universal sub-let Boles to Warner Brothers for the lead in "The Desert Song." And now he has been loaned again, this time to Fox, as the star of the Fox film, "The Great White North." Nancy Carroll is the girl and Charles Klein is director of the picture.

The traffic in actors is one interesting phase of the motion picture industry. They are loaned and borrowed for a consideration. And naturally, in most cases, the salary, or price, demanded for them is in excess of the figure mentioned in the contract binding them to one organization. The difference is sometimes split between the producer and the player. In other cases, the producer alone profits through his foresight in signing up a good bet.

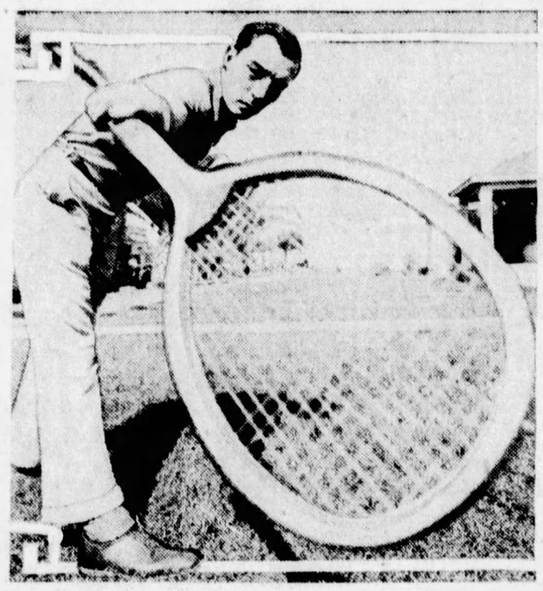
Leila Hyams Seems in Luck

LEILA HYAMS seems definitely set to play the lead opposite Buster Keaton in "Spite Marriage." Since leaving Warner Brothers and signing with Metro, Leila has been announce for a choice of various parts, but upon each occasion a last-minute change in the cast of the picture has left her with nothing to do. Now, however, it seems certain she will play opposite the frozen face comedian, Edward Sedgwick will direct.

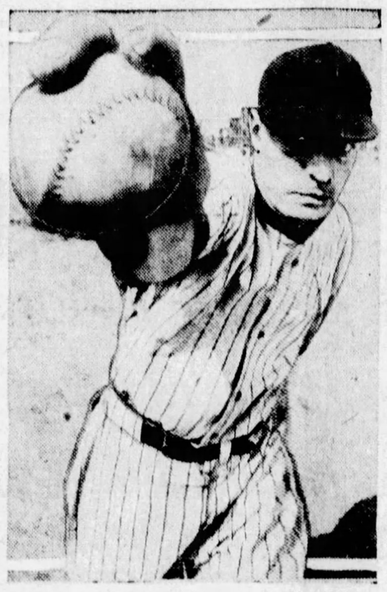
When Bayard Veiller directs "The Trial of Mary Dugan" he will have a double difficult task on his hands. For, while the audible version of the picture will be an almost exact translation of the stage play, all the usual movie technique will be used in the silent picture. Becky Gardner is now working on both adaptations.

As soon as Dorothy Dwan completes work in film starring Tom Mix, she will begin at once as star on a film to be made by a Canadian outfit called the Thunder Bay Film Company. Many of the exteriors will be filmed in Ontario, but the majority of sequences will be made in Hollywood. It is a Western picture which gives Dorothy plenty of chance to display her prowess as a rider.

LOOK AND SEE :-: WHAT'S HAPPENED :-: TO BUSTER



Buster Keaton's tennis racquet takes on prodigous size as he displays his prowess at the net game.



His hand appears to have grown enormously but it had to for the handling of a ball this large.

That's a terrible club he's swinging but it needs to be large considering the job it has to do.

But when we saw this gigantic glove we knew it was all just a trick of some prankish cameraman.

MUSIC PLAY OPENING TONIGHT

The Sigmund Romberg musical romance, "The Desert Song," opens tonight in the Alvin. Its scenes are laid in the desert wastes of Morocco, and the plot centers around the Red Shadow, a mysterious leader of the Riff tribes. In the lead roles will be Alexander Gray, Bernard Granville and Bernice Claire.

Tuesday night, in the Nixon, for the first time on any stage, Ziegfeld's latest production, Eddie Cantor, in "Whoopee," will be presented. It is a musical play by William Anthony McGuire, author of "Kid Boots." It features an ensemble of beautiful "glorified" American girls.

For one week, beginning next Monday night, the George McManus cartoon comedy, "Bringing Up Father," will be the attraction in the Pitt. The company includes a cast of players and a chorus and orchestra. There will be matinees Thursday and Saturday.

DIES AFTER TEACHING 6 YEARS FROM BED

CRAWFORDSVILLE, Ind., Nov. 5.—(AP.)—After six years of illness during which he conducted mathematics classes in his bedroom, Prof. Edgar K. Chapman, 49, head of Wabash College physics department for 18 years, died at his home here.

QUICK RELIEF FOR COLDS SINCE 1889

No time for handkerchiefs

Racing through black night and blacker weather . . . snow squalls . . . clouds . . . . When the wings are icing up, and a sixty-mile cross-wind is tearing at the ship, and there is danger ahead, and an instrument board full of dials to watch—that's no time for handkerchiefs.

To stand the terrific nerve strain, the pilots of the night air mail must keep in the pink of condition despite unusual exposure. That is why so many of them immediately take GROVE'S BROMO QUININE at the first warning symptom of a cold.

A sneeze, a slight fever, a dry throat, a vague feeling of chilliness—and they promptly take GROVE'S BROMO QUININE tablets, knowing that quick action may help them side-step the threatening cold entirely by reason of the tonic and laxative action of GROVE'S BROMO QUININE. Or if the cold has already made headway, GROVE'S BROMO QUININE helps throw it off and fortifies the system against grip and influenza . . . . To be sure of getting the original and world's largest selling tablets, emphasize GROVE'S in asking for GROVE'S BROMO QUININE. Price 30c.

SUSPEND TWO POLICEMEN IN GAMING CASE

FAULKNER TO FACE JURY IN YACHT CLUB FLAREUP

Two patrolmen, who waited until their prisoner "cashed in" during a poker game in the Pittsburgh Yacht Club, where they arrested him, have been ordered suspended by Inspector Charles Faulkner. The two patrolmen, Harry Williams and Ray Romah, along with Inspector Faulkner, will be called before the grand jury by District Attorney S. H. Gardner, to tell what they know about the operation of the club, located in a house boat in Allegheny River at the foot of Madison avenue.

The patrolmen were sent to arrest Frank Lawrence, of 21 Alpine avenue, whose wife had complained that her husband was spending his money for liquor and gambling at the club. When the officers arrived Lawrence was sitting in a poker game, and they waited until he cashed in and then arrested him.

In Morals Court Sunday, Lawrence at the suggestion of Magistrate A. D. Brandon, swore out a warrant for the arrest of William Archie, club proprietor. The club was raided Sunday afternoon. Archie and five visitors were arrested, and a quantity of liquor was confiscated. Archie admitted operating the club and was held for court charged with violating the Snyder act and keeping a gambling house.

PRINTERS OPPOSED TO AMENDMENT NO. 1

Pittsburgh printers went on record as opposing constitutional amendment No. 1, to be voted on Tuesday, at a meeting of the Pittsburgh Typographical Union No. 7 yesterday afternoon. The amendment is a blow to all organized labor in the state, they claim. The state claims that it will use the inmates of state penal institutions in furthering certain work. The printers allege the inmates are not mentally adapted to work of the skilled trades.

WHEELING, W. Va., Nov. 5.—(AP.)—O. B. Pryor, superintendent of the Elm Grove Coal Company said that a fire which started in the mine this morning while 206 men were in the workings had been extinguished. All the miners escaped.

After necessary repairs, the mine will be able to resume operations this week, Pryor said.

MANHUNT FOR 29 ESCAPED CONVICTS

HOUSTON, Tex., Nov. 5.—(AP.)—A far-flung search was under way throughout Southeast 31 convicts who escaped from the Clemens state prison farm in Brazoria county yesterday afternoon.

Two of the convicts had been captured early today, W. H. Mead, general manager of the state penitentiary system, announced. Few details of the break or hunt were available here because of faulty telephone connections.

The escape was made when the prisoners knocked bars on a window aside and crawled singly through the small aperture, eluding inside and outside guards as they fled.

About 20 other prisoners refused to join the break, but also refused to sound the alarm, and the delivery was not discovered for 15 minutes. All the men were dressed in regulation prison white duck clothing.

PATRICIA PITT'S SPRIGHTLY COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH'S SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

Three of Season's Buds To Make Debuts This Week

AND here we are in that gay social month November, with three more fascinating weeks after the pretty deb has danced through this one. This period will never be forgotten by the debutante. She will live every moment in the present, because she won't have a minute's time to think of her school days left forever behind her, or of the responsibilities promised to her by the future.

Such a period between the past and the future is an interlude, according to Eugene O'Neill. This interlude in the life of the debs of 1928 will not be strange, I'm sure, as the word strange is thought of with its O'Neill connotations. But it will be a delightful interlude, woven of strains of music and youthful laughter.

THREE buds, who will make their bow to the social world today, tomorrow and Wednesday will be among the first to determine the pattern of this month. As you know, they are Janet MacGregor, Bettie Guiler and Katherine Schley.

* * *

BETTIE GUILER, daughter of the Leonard Kent Guilers, will be presented at a tea her mother will give in the family home, Squirrel Hill avenue, tomorrow. Mrs. Guiler will have as her aides Mrs. Robert T. Reineman, Mrs. Edward K. Davis, Mrs. Louise E. Reineman, Mrs. John M. Freeman, Mrs. H. Allen Machesney, Mrs. Alexander Murdoch, Mrs. Norwood Johnston, Mrs. Robert Swan, Mrs. Charles Albert Dickson, Mrs. Thomas O. Cowdry, Mrs. Edward B. Heckel, Mrs. George J. Willock and mothers of some of the other debs, Mrs. Henry Oliver Evans, Mrs. William T. McCullough, Mrs. John Follansbee, Mrs. Stephen Stone, Mrs. Charles West and Mrs. Will Knox Dunlap.

The debutante will be assisted by her sister buds.

KATHERINE SCHLEY, who will be presented at a tea her grandmother, Mrs. Chambers McKibbin, will give Wesdnesday in the Hotel Schenley, has asked the debutantes and Nancy Brown and Katherine Anne Evans to aid her.

Her grandmother will have as her aides Mrs. William Henry Schoen, Miss Margaret Farrell, Mrs. Stansbury Sutton, Mrs. J. C. Moresby White, Mrs. Charles T. Manning, Mrs. Thomas Evans, Jr., Mrs. William T. McCullough, Mrs. Grant Curry, Mrs. Edmund Pendleton Dandridge, Mrs. Allen Cooper Stevenson, Mrs. Haines A. Machesney, Mrs. Walter H. Schneider, Mrs. John H. B. Phillips, Miss Gertrude Smith, Mrs. A. W. Wyckoff, Mrs. Mortimer C. Miller and Mrs. George D. Edwards.

Dist. of Columbia Protests Over No Vote

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.—(AP.)—While millions of American citizens are casting their ballots throughout the country in tomorrow's election, the half million residents of the District of Columbia will be represented in a demonstration of protest against their inability to exercise the electoral privilege.

A constitutional amendment to provide the voting privilege for the residents of the district who at present are voteless has been proposed by a committee of the district's residents.

Characterized as Washington's "day of humiliation," the national capital's appeal for the voting franchise will include the taking of moving pictures for national representation of a float decorated to show its voteless condition in front of the White House.

POLAND BECOMES ALERT REPUBLIC, DYBOSKI SAYS

Things are looking up in Poland. Out of the torn post-war condition there is fast emerging an alert republic with new industries and new attitudes. Where once Poland regarded agriculture as its one and only field of production, there is now industrial production. Instead of an untutored freedom in education there is now a tendency to instruct the student in his choice of subjects. In the place of crowded, unappealing homes there is springing up the comfortable, clean type which accompanies an improved standard of living.

Such was the picture painted of his native country today by Prof. Roman Dyboski, noted educator, of the University of Krakow, Poland. He is in America lecturing before various schools. He spent today in Pittsburgh, the guest of Dr. Thad. Starzynski, of 310 Roup avenue, and A. M. Ocetkiewicz, Polish consul to Pittsburgh.

"We are aiming to strike a happy balance between industry and agriculture," Prof. Bybsski said. "We are learning much from American methods. In our schools heretofore we have allowed the students utmost freedom in choosing their subjects. But now we are leaning more to the American idea. We ask the student to not restrict himself to a few studies but to take up a varied group. Those Poles who have returned from America to their native country are responsible for the better homes. They build homes for themselves such as they saw or had in America. These are good homes and immediately their neighbors seek much the same."

This morning Prof. Dyboski spoke on "Literature and Art in Poland" before the Twentieth Century Club, whose luncheon guest he was. This afternoon he appeared before the Social Science Group of the University of Pittsburgh to tell them of "Poland Old and New." Tonight Consul Ocetkiewicz will be host at a dinner in the University Club.

MELLON URGES ELECTION OF HOOVER

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.—(AP.)—Secretary Mellon urged the election of Herbert Hoover to the presidency in a statement yesterday in which he termed it "indisputable" that the country is enjoying real prosperity.

The Treasury head asked the country to go to the polls and to vote to carry on the policies of President Coolidge. He expressed the opinion that Mr. Hoover had a "much firmer grasp and a more comprehensive understanding of the nation's business and problems than are enjoyed by Gov. Smith."

THINK OF REAL ISSUES

His statement follows:

""The campaign is drawing to a close, and the voters of the nation are faced with a serious responsibility. As we go to the polls on Tuesday, let us lay aside all feelings of bitterness and prejudice engendered by a heated campaign. Let us think only in terms of the real issues, and cast our ballots in accordance with our calm, considered judgment as to what is best for the country and for the people who compose it.

"It is indisputable that the country is enjoying a period of genuine prosperity and well-being, to which the policies of the present administration have made a substantial contribution. The government at Washington has been conducted on a high standard, whether judged by the test of administrative efficiency or soundness of policy, both in the domestic and foreign field.

CHANGE HARMFUL

"If the people are satisfied with the kind and quality of government they have had—and I believe they are—they should insure a continuance of its benefits by retaining the services of those who have made good. When conditions are satisfactory, there is nothing more disturbing and damaging than a change of management or of policy.

"This is all the more true when the alternative policies offered by the opposition are of doubtful wisdom and carry with them a real threat to confilence and business stability. I do not believe we should substitute a competitive for a protective tariff. I do not believe that the government should go into business of buying and selling agricultural commodities or fixing their price, or undertake to operate public utilities, such as power plants and distribution systems. Nor am I satisfied to see adopted the financial policies that have prevailed at Albany in place of the prudent management that has existed in Washington under President Coolidge. It is not a question of choice between two roads of equal availability; it is a question of choosing the right road or the wrong one.

HOOVER BETTER FITTED

"Finally, the campaign has demonstrated that, by reason of his broader experience, training and knowledge, and 'is closer contact with national affairs, Mr. Hoover has a much firmer grasp and a more comprehensive understanding of the nation's business and problems than are enjoyed by Gov. Smith.

"We have the opportunity, by electing Mr. Hoover, to carry on the policies of President Coolidge. Let us take advantage of that opportunity and make sure that the high standards that have characterized his administration of the Federal government will be maintained and further developed."

Governor Fisher Says:

"Additional Road Funds MUST be found, either by the Bond Issue (Amendment No. 9) or by an increase in revenues (additional taxes!)

He says further: "The Highway Department DOES NOT receive contributions from the General Fund, therefore DOES NOT draw on the taxpayer for support!"

Political opposition to the Good Roads Bond Issue would have us believe that Amendment No. 9 would mean more taxes. This is not correct, by the Governor's own statement.

A Vote FOR Amendment No. 9 Is A Vote For More Good Roads With No Increase in Taxes!

Act 254 renders it impossible for the State to acquire toll bridges and make them toll-free to the motorist except through Bond Funds. If we defeat the Road Bond Issue we will continue to pay bridge tolls within the State.

GOOD MORNING

Morning sunshine slipping between the curtains says,

"It's time for folks to be up"

A distant tinkling of dishes and little heads pop from under the covers, where they have been snuggling. Little noses sniff eagerly, the delicious aroma of DUNLEVY'S PORK SAUSAGE—then a mad scramble ensues, each striving to be first to reach the dining room, and greet mother, who has already said, "Good Morning" with Dunlevy's Pork Sausage.

Let the Kiddies Ride—

To and From School

When the weather is bad—and during the winter months with snow and sleet—guard your little kiddies' health; keep dry their little feet.

Send them on their way in a Yellow Cab under the watchful eyes of one of our careful drivers who—no doubt—has tots of his own. They will be perfectly safe in our cabs—never fear.

The cost is slight—two, or more, can ride as cheaply as one and they will not be exposed to the elements of winter; no wet feet—no colds.

Give this idea a trial and you will find it both logical and practical—we offer you book tickets for convenience and economy.

CAN WOMEN OF AVERAGE MEANS AFFORD EXCLUSIVENESS?

The well recognized exclusiveness and style leadership of merchandise which comes from Lewin-Neiman Co. has created an incorrect impression about our prices.

Lewin-Neiman makes no pretense of being a "cheap store" as that word is generally understood.

It holds no appeal for those with whom cost is the first and only consideration.

For that legion of discriminating women who must count their dollars, whose tastes revolt at the commonplace, whose pride demands the unusual, the Lewin-Neiman store holds vital interest on price appeal.

Nowhere will things be found more reasonable, when our prices are considered, in true relation to Value Received.

There is only one way to demonstrate this fact—your personal visit of investigation.

The Spinning Wheel Is Gone

A quaint relic of pioneer days—admired for the memories of sturdy ancestors it calls to mind; but none wish to go back to the days of homespun. In this modern day and age the wash tub is also out of date.

When it is more efficient—and economical—to send it to the laundry, why bother with the wash tub?

Send it to the laundry and save time, labor, worry and money. Let us convince you—send it to the laundry for a month and check up on the saving in time, labor, fuel, money and worry.

After a trial you, too, will agree that washing at home is a habit as quaint as the old-fashioned spinning wheel.

In the early days of Electric Lighting it was considered a great thing just to press a button and flood your living room with a centralized white glare, emanating from one or two clear bulbs, imperfectly shaded.

BUT

Everything is comparative. There is no analogy between the crude lighting effects of yesterday and the softly diffused flood of golden sunlight that may be yours today. And this result is obtained from Lamps, Lamps, and yet more Lamps.

AMOCO GAS

Every man remembers the thrill he got when he stepped out in his first shoes equipped with rubber heels. He missed the old shock to which he had been accustomed and the absence of noise as his foot struck the pavement was not altogether to his liking. From years of enforced habit, he had almost grown to like the shock to his body and sound of hard heels on the pavement. But the elastic, springy tread of the rubber heel is here to stay and hard heels have gone the way of the one-hoss shay. So it is with Amoco Gas. The same thrill awaits the car owner who has never taken a fill at the Amoco pump. When he does, he will feel lonely without the usual knocks in his car. He will get a decided thrill, because Amoco seems to have taken a lot of weight from his car. After he becomes accustomed to this new gas, he cannot go back to the old product, and his experience will be the same as with the rubber heels. When, in a pinch, he must fill with another gas that is "JUST AS GOOD" he will notice the difference.

THE AGE OF SPECIALISTS

Not so long ago versatility was considered an asset in practically any line of endeavor. The man who could "TURN HIS HAND" to a variety of odd jobs was considered valuable.

But the world moves onward and yesterday's tonic is today's poison, so to speak. The heyday of the "Jack-of-all-trades" is just a memory. The man of the hour is he who has concentrated his entire effort on one, and only one, particular subject. This is surely the "Age of Specialists."

And in no phase of commercial life is the acumen of the thoroughly trained specialist more to be desired than in the Fur Business. Chemical science has now progressed to such an extent that after special processing the fur of the lowly hare becomes such a remarkably clever imitation of more costly pelts that the average "fur dealer," honest though he may be, is oftentimes deceived. And so it is with other furs.

For these reasons one must rely, to a certain degree, not only on the integrity of the dealer, but also on his knowledge of furs. We have been established for more than a quarter of a century right here in Penn Avenue. We Know Fur. And the rapid expansion of a select clientele is evidence of our honesty.

GAINADAY ELECTRIC WASHER

"A Mother Worthy of a Gift, and a Gift Worthy of a Mother"

How many of us have ever given our Mothers a gift worthy enough? I have and am proud of it. Fourteen years ago I bought my Mother one of the very first three GAINADAY WASHERS put on the market. At that time we had a family of ten—a good test for that machine. One washing was done every week, and many weeks two washings. As years went on, the family, through death and marriage, dwindled down to Mother and Dad, but the GAINADAY still holds its same place in the lanudry. Still washing once every week. In all those years, there has been practically very few repairs needed. Just a few minor ones which Dad made himself. Isn't that a gift to be proud of? And isn't that a Record to be proud of?

STRENGTH OF SMITH HERE REVEALED IN STRAW POLL

The preponderance of defections from the Republican ranks, the Democratic drift of the LaFollette vote and strong support of Gov. Alfred E. Smith by new voters, all accounting for the exceptional strength of the Democratic candidate in Allegheny county, are shown by the straw vote canvass of the county by The Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

The strong Republican current to Smith, compared with the Democratic swing to Herbert Hoover, is shown on this basis to the poll of the county: 1,763 men and 1,118 women supporters of Coolidge in 1924 now favor Smith and 237 men and 158 women who supported Davis favor Hoover.

Smith will capture 75 per cent of the LaFollette vote of 1924, based on the straw vote index. LaFollette voters will divide on this ratio: Smith, 833 men and 654 women; Hoover, 295 men and 173 women. LaFollette received nearly four times as many votes as Davis in the county, the 1924 totals being as follows: Coolidge, 149,296; LaFollette, 79,095; Davis, 21,984.

The poll indicates that voters who did not vote in 1924 favor Smith in the city and Hoover in the county, outside Pittsburgh, although the grand total favors Smith. The proportions are: County, 447 men and 287 women for Hoover, 481 men and 408 women for Smith; Pittsburgh, 241 men and 177 women for Hoover and 306 men and 312 women for Smith; county, excluding the city, 208 men and 110 women for Hoover and 175 men and 96 women for Smith.

This ratio of non-voters in 1924 must not be considered as an indication of the trend of the enormous increase in registered and enrolled voters in the city and county.

The poll was confined to electors who were enrolled or registered previous to this fall.

In Pittsburgh party drifts are indicated on this basis: Smith will win 1,266 men and 856 women who supported Coolidge and Hoover will win 117 men and 100 women who voted for Davis. The trend of the LaFollette vote in the city is: Smith, 571 men and 477 women; Hoover, 176 men and 118 women.

The totals of the county canvass are as follows: Hoover 7,043, including 4,361 men and 2,684 women; Smith, 5,762, including 3,411 men and 2,351 women.

These voters divided their allegiance in 1924 as follows: Coolidge 8,328, including 5,145 men and 3,183 women; Davis 901, including 571 men and 330 women; LaFollette 1,955, including 1,128 men and 827 women; not voting 1,633, including 928 men and 695 women.

The poll, as announced Sunday, shows that Hoover wins 55 per cent of the vote, indicating that he will carry Allegheny county by 30,000 to 35,000 and Pittsburgh by 6,000 or 7,000, depending on the total vote cast. The poll of the county was part of the Pennsylvania canvass conducted in connection with the nation-wide poll by the Hearst papers.

Read this before you buy any Cough medicine

{Take 2½ minutes to learn these important facts}

"Will it relieve my cough quickly?" — REM will, or you can have your money back. The fact that not one customer in a thousand ever wanted it back tells the story.

"Is it harmless?" — REM is,—there's positively nothing in it to hurt you.

"Is it an experiment?" — REM is no experiment. 43 years of pharmaceutical experience are back of it.

"Does it soothe the irritation and soreness?" — That's one of the most noticable qualities of REM. It clings to the throat, starting relief quickly. Right away you'll notice a soothing, cooling effect.

"Does it 'cut the phlegm'?" — REM does. It clears the air-passages and thus makes it easier to breathe during the day and sleep soundly at night.

"Does it taste bad?" — Not REM! It's easy to take. Even children seldom have to be coaxed to take it.

"Is it economical?" — REM is. Simple coughs usually yield to a single bottle. Remedies that don't help are expensive at any price.

"Does it claim more than it can do?" — REM is no "cure-all". We frankly tell you it's no good for anything but a cough,—but how remarkably good it is for that!

"Are all cough medicines pretty much alike?" — Indeed they aren't! No other cough medicine on the market has the same formula as REM, and "it's the formula that counts!"

NOW you know why . . .

DORMONT STIRRED BY DAYLIGHT ROBBERIES

SIDEWALKS OF PITTSBURGH

by HAVEY J. BOYLE

THE recent story here of Arthur W. Thompson and some innocent safe-cracking recalled to some of the boys the strange things about safes that occurred during those halycon days in old Allegheny when that section was known to famous crooks of various parts of the country as "Little Canada." In those days the North Side served as a hideout for rascals and rogues who were "at liberty," not in the sense of being out of jail but in the theatrical sense of not working.

Jimmy McKay, who held forth in a grog shop of considerable renown in those days, can entertain you by the hour with the wiles and fancies of light-fingered gentlemen who would have made the Artful Dodger seem but a neophyte even after he had obtained his diploma from Prof. Fagin of Dickensian fame.

BARTENDERS in the old days were not inquisitive persons who asked too many questions. Sometimes a gentleman would go in to an Allegheny rendezvous and there deposit for safe-keeping a number of watches.

One evening in such a place a gentleman deposited a few diamonds and a number of watches on the bar, asking the bartender to put them in the safe. The gentleman with so many valuables, having had a busy day, retired early to bed. He was not asleep more than four hours when he was informed that the police were on his trail. This not only disturbed the gentleman's sleep, but forced him to impose ever so slightly on his friendship with the bartender. In short, he had to hasten to the bar-room, pick the lock of the door, open the safe, and take out what with a broad definition might be termed his property—the watches and diamonds. Of course, he didn't touch another article in the safe. There are ethics in every line. This, and a 100 other stories of equal interest, are spun anytime you catch Jimmy McKay in the proper humor.

Paul Jaworski, whose homicidal exploits rival the doings of historical criminals, was on his way "home" from Cleveland. He was riding to his doom since his ultimate execution is a matter of a short time. In his most recent affair he had been shot a number of times, wounds that paralysed his one side, besides generally making him a very weak man. The picture then is of a man, paralysed and ill, and on his way to the electric chair. Someone in the large party accompanying Jaworski lighted a cigaret from a match. A second man in the party asked for a light from the same match. Jaworski then wanted to light his cigaret. "The third light off the match?" significantly asked someone of the noted killer. Jaworski smiled at such grim humor. Even so, some days later his bed in jail caught fire.

JAWORSKI knows his reporters. A lady writer who specializes in sobs and thrills with dancing eyes and tremulous voice asked Jaworski how many people he had killed. Jaworski knew what would please the blood-thirsty lady, so he replied: "Twenty-six." He chuckled, later, when he told how he had aimed to please the tear-specialist. Paul will have his little joke. He killed four.

* * *

"Let's go out and make whoopee?" suggested a sophisticated young man to his girl friend, using the word invented by Walter Winchell to denote fun-making. "Don't say whoopee," said the girl. "Only the peasantry say 'whoopee.' Why don't you say: 'Let's go out and make 'boom-boom.'"

POLICE HOPE TO CAPTURE INTRUDER

Dormont police are on the lookout for a daylight robber who has been preying on homes in that community, but thus far have been unable to capture him.

Will Rogers Says

NEW YORK, N. Y., Nov. 5.

McAdoo finally came out for Smith, and to offset that Democratic gain, why Coolidge came out for Hoover. So that leaves only myself in the open.

I have been studying the two parties and here is their difference: Hoover wants all the drys and as many wets as possible, Smith wants all the wets and as many drys as he can get. Hoover says he will relieve the farmer, even if he has to call Congress. Smith says he will relieve the farmer even if he has to appoint a commission.

Hoover says the tariff will be kept up, Smith says the tariff will not be lowered. Hoover is strongly in favor of prosperity, Smith highly endorses prosperity. Hoover wants no votes merely on account of religion, Smith wants no votes solely on religious grounds. But both would accept the Mohammedan vote if offered.

Hoover would like to live in the White House, Smith is not adverse to living in the White House. And in order to get in there either will promise the voters anything from perpetual motion to eternal salvation.

So I am out openly for myself. If I have any religion, I have at least not advertised the fact. If I want the Constitution changed, or if I want it left as it is, I know that's the people's business and not mine.

I have never spent twenty years abroad nor have I spent 20 years in the shade of Brooklyn Bridge. I have neither lived off taxpayers, or corporations if I was born of poor parents. Either in city or farm, I have kept it a personal affair.

I am not the "greatest administrator of all time" neither am I "the greatest executive a state ever had."

I have never fed the Belgians, nor have I kept Tammany Hall from starving for 8 years.

In fact so little is known about me that I must be just about a normal American. If defeated I will have less squawks, or alibis.

I have promised nothing, and am the only one of the three that can make good. So to offset Coolidge and McAdoo, I come out for myself.

Yours, WILL ROGERS.

2 HELD AS BANDITS IN MT. WASHINGTON HOLDUP

Walter Pearson, 31, of 1014 Epiphany street, and John Coleman, 27, of 1308 Lendon street, both Negroes, caught after a chase of several blocks by police of the Mt. Washington station for holding up Phillip Felicetti, 304 Terragonia street in front of his home Saturday night, were held for court by Magistrate John J. Sweeney in South Side Police Court, on the charge of robbery.

The two alleged robbers admitted that they had followed Felisetti from his place of business at Hazel and Logan streets to his home in Bon Air, where they held him up. Although Felicetti claimed that they took $58 and a gold watch, only $30 was found on Pearson and the watch was found on Coleman when searched at the police station. The arresting officers were: Lieut. James L. McDonough, Patrolman Harry M. Dixon, Wagonman Lawrence Deezen and Anthony Shell.

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

EACH IN HER SPHERE

By ANN HARDY.

HELEN GAINES was much surprised when she dropped into Eunice Marston's apartment to find the latter studying a cook-book. "Turned domestic, dear?" she asked mockingly.

Eunice's eyes, when she raised them from the pages she so intently studied, were full of trouble. "I've invited Fred Hollingsworth to dine here tomorrow," she said, "and I'm positively at my wits end to know what to do!"

Helen laughed.

"Of course, you don't understand how important it is for me to make a good impression on Fred," said Eunice at little stiffly. "I was invited to meet his mother last Thursday."

Helen took off her blue felt hat, fluffed out her yellow curls and sank upon the cushioned divan. She composed her features, seeing that her friend was in no mood for levity. "You're in love with Fred Hollingsworth," she accused.

Eunice flushed, but her dark eyes met Helen's blue ones defiantly. "I certainly am," she said. "But you needn't remind me of Agatha Simms—old Mrs. Hollingsworth did that. She extolled Agatha to the skies. I was positively sick, long before the end of my visit, of hearing what an excellent cook and housekeeper Agatha is!"

"And I suppose," said Helen, "you let Mrs. Hollingsworth understand that you are an expert housekeeper, too, and proficient in the culinary art?"

"Don't be sarcastic," Eunice said, but her flush betrayed her, and Helen knew she had guessed the truth.

"And to make a bad matter worse," she added relentlessly, "you've been foolish enough to back up your bluff by inviting Fred here to dine with you! Well, there's only one way to solve the problem—order a perfect repast from the caterer, and—"

"Lead Fred to believe I'd cooked it?" asked Eunice indignantly. "You think I'd lie to take him away from that simpering, stupid Agatha Simms?"

"Yes," said Helen. "It would only be carrying your deceit a bit further, for you told Mrs. Hollingsworth—"

"I didn't come right out and say I was a good cook, I simply hinted—"

"I know," said Helen dryly, "those female subterfuges."

"Well, I won't lie to Fred," said Eunice stubbornly. "I'm sorry I told you anything about it at all!"

"No, you're not," Helen exclaimed contritely, springing up and crossing the room to hug her chum. "You know I'm with you, darling, no matter what foolish ideas you have. I'm going to help you with the dinner. I can make biscuits—"

"The only way you could help," Eunice told her firmly, with a hopeless expression in her dark eyes, "would be to write out the biscuit recipe. I asked Fred he'd let him see what I could do—I'm going to cook every bit of that dinner myself."

Eunice never had been domestically inclined—even her smart little apartment had been designed to the smallest detail by an interior decorator. She was a popular girl, a good dancer, an interesting dinner partner, she played a fine hand at bridge. But in preparing a simple meal, in commanding the art of brewing a pot of tea, Helen Gaines had never seen anyone so distressingly stupid.

"Lettuce," she explained for the first time, "must be washed and then in a dry cloth on ice for several hours. I advise you to make the mayonnaise this evening. It must be very stiff. Drop the oil carefully. Some prefer vinegar, but I think lemon gives a better flavor. A dash of red pepper——"

"Oh!" exclaimed Eunice woefully. "My head is in a perfect whirl!"

Helen finally left her with many misgivings. Eunice would not agree to her coming around in the evening and helping out; she plainly was carrying conscientiousness too far.

The next day, which was a dreary, rainy one, was also a busy one for Helen. She worked in a law office, and as a long brief had to go to the printer early next morning, she did not finish until nearly 6. Putting on her hat to go, she thought for the first time of her friend. This was the hour of Eunice's dinner. Queer, this sudden notion to excel Agatha Simms, but Helen knew it had been the result of some cutting remarks made by Fred's mother. Women can be so harsh with each other, Helen thought. Anyway, she felt sure Fred Hollingsworth would choose his own bride, regardless of his mother's tastes. But would he? Mothers have a way of insinuating their opinions. Old Mrs. Hollingsworth's home was fault-lessly run. In all the years of Fred's life she had certainly instilled in his mind a wholesome respect for good housewives.

She rang Eunice's apartment next morning but no one answered the 'phone. Helen was disappointed, she had especially wanted to speak to her, not only to ask about the dinner, but to know whether or not Eunice would be at the tea Agatha Simms was giving at 5 that afternoon.

Agatha's tea was an elaborate affair, and Helen was astonished to see Fred Hollingsworth enter with his mother, instead of with Eunice, soon after her arrival. "I hear you dined with Eunice last night," she said to him, after she had greeted old Mrs. Hollingsworth. "Did you enjoy the meal?"

Fred Hollingsworth accepted a fragile plate, piled with a delicious salad of frozen fruit topped by whipped cream, a linen initialed doily and a cup of fragrant tea from the trimly uniformed maid. Seeing that his mother had been served as well as Helen, he took a seat next them and carefully arranged refreshments on his lap in an expert manner which fascinated the girl. Then he turned his serious gray eyes, rimmed by horned spectacles, upon her and answered her question.

"It was absolutely the most impossible meal I ever ate!"

Helen could only say "Oh!" very faintly.

"The tea had been boiled, the lettuce was wilted and the dressing had disintegrated on the salad. The steak was tough, and the biscuit—" Words seemed to have failed him.

Helen observed the sleek smile on old Mrs. Hollingsworth's round, placid face, and suddenly felt indignant at the solid front of complacency presented by the pair. "She worked very hard over that dinner," she began, "and I think—"

"Eunice is a charming girl," continued Fred, ignoring her interruption, "but it's absurd of her to imagine she can cook, and I told her so. Mother thinks—"

"Maybe Eunice can't cook," cried Helen with a flame in her eyes, "but I think it's despicable of you both to sit here and criticize her, after all the trouble she took getting that meal!"

"And when," asked Fred Hollingsworth, "has Eunice objected to honest criticism? That's been one of the things I admired her for—her honesty and sincerity. No sham about Eunice—absolutely no bluffing!"

Helen was astonished at the emphasis he put into his last words, and the curl of his lips as he looked across the Simms' crowded drawing room. Her eyes followed his and rested upon Agatha Simms, smiling coyly at old Maj. Warren, who appeared to be complimenting her.

"I've heard," said the acid voice of old Mrs. Hollingsworth in Helen's ear, "that the little thing has a man from the caterer's helping out, and that she really pretends—"

"And why should I marry a cook?" asked Fred Hollingsworth, rather irreverently. "I'd rather have a wife who's a good sport, knows things of common interest. Helen, I want you to meet my fiancee—coming in now through that door! She started to 'phone you last night, but waited to surprise you when she saw you. After her dinner, Eunice accepted me. Mother's awfully pleased!"

Helen looked into the radiant face of Eunice, who came across the room and bent to kiss Fred's mother. She was intensely bewildered for a moment, then smiled, understanding the new friendliness between these two. They would never encroach upon each other's spheres. And Eunice, being a confessed novice in household affairs, would be willing to sit at the feet of her mother-in-law and learn.

400,000 WILL CAST BALLOTS IN COUNTY

Optimistic statements from the rival Republican and Democratic leaders marked the close of the presidential campaign in Pittsburgh and Allegheny county today.

Tomorrow at more than 1,420 polling places in the county, about 400,000 voters will choose between Herbert Hoover and Gov. Alfred E. Smith. The polls will be open from 7 a. m. until 7 p. m., and all leaders have urged electors to vote early in order to avoid any congestion at the polling places.

The most optimistic prediction today was made by Commissioner Joseph G. Armstrong, who said:

"Allegheny county is going to stand by her Republican traditions and return a majority of from 80,000 to 100,000 for the Republican state and national tickets."

William H. Coleman, chairman of the Republican campaign committee, placed the Hoover-Curtis majority at "upwards of 60,000" and predicted the election of all state, congressional and legislative candidates.

David L. Lawrence, chairman of the Democratic County Committee, did not make any estimate of the possible vote, but said: "The fate of the candidate is now in the hands of the people, and I am confident they are going to send Alfred E. Smith to the White House."

"In order to prevent congestion at the polls and consequent disenfranchisement of voters in the closing election hours, I repeat my advice to housewives and all voters who can find time to vote in the early hours, to get to the polls as soon as possible Tuesday and leave the workingmen and women free opportuntiy to cast their ballots after they return from their work," said Armstrong.

Coleman urged that all voters have their mind made up on the constitutional amendments before entering the polls, so that the ballots can be marked promptly.

Three meetings will close the Democratic campaign tonight—in Clairton High School, Fifth Avenue School, Homestead, and Wall Public School. The Republicans also will hold three meetings — Robinson Township High School, Thaddeus Stevens School and McKees Rocks.

STOLEN LOVE

by HAZEL LIVINGSTON

Curtis Proposes to Joan, But She Refuses to Accept Him

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Joan Hastings, seventeen and beautiful, lives with two old maiden aunts and one of them, Aunt Evvie, tells her of her unmarried mother's tragic love affair and death. Joan falls in love with Bill Martin, a penniless young man, and she is sent away to school. Bill, an innocent victim of a bootlegging gang, is sent to jail and Joan, begging for bail money from the aunts, confesses everything to them. She is put on a train for school in charge of a woman friend of Aunt Evvie's. Bill, freed, bids goodby to his mother, leaving no address and befriending Rollo Keyes, a rich young spender, is given a job by his father. Joan, escaping from the train, reaches his home just after he has gone. Concealing her presence from her aunts she gets a position in a department store and later works as a model in a smart shop. There Mrs. Barstow, a rich society woman, sees her, likes her and asks her to tea. She meets Curtis Barstow who immediately becomes interested in her. Joan goes to see Mrs. Martin and learns that Bill has written but has not asked for her. She thinks he no longer cares. Bill comes home and discovers that Joan is close at hand. Joan meets Bill again and discovers Ruth Gillespie, one of the girls at the shop, is deeply in love with him. Mrs. Barstow puts herself out to be nice to Joan for her son's sake. Joan becomes hysterical when Bill visits her and offers to marry her. Mrs. Barstow invites her to spend a week-end at her cottage in the mountains. When she returns, Ruth questions her about her love affair with Bill. Bill disappears after he has an argument with Rollo's dad. Joan constantly thinks of him since he vanished.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

PLUMP little Mrs. Gray laughed comfortably. "Always. Poor as church mice, and much too haughty to associate with any of us. So Curtis is interested in the girl. . . . dear, dear. What's she like? I haven't seen her in years. Rather a beauty, isn't she?"

Mrs. Barstow nodded. "Yes, strikingly so. And I'm afraid Curtis is, well—serious. That's why I called—she has been so mysterious about them . . . what sort of girl was she, Lottie?"

"Oh, a quiet little thing. Not like the girls nowadays. They never let her play with the other children. Of course, I know how you feel about Curtis . . . still, some of the flappers are terrible . . . simply terrible. Did you hear about the Hammond girl? The Leslie Hammond Constance, you know. I had it from Carrie Pierson—you know what a gossip she is—so don't let it go any farther, but . . ."

Mrs. Barstow listened, sipping her hot tea . . . the Hammond girl, who had been Curtis' partner at his first cotillion . . . what was the world coming to? At least, Joan was good . . . that was something . . .

Joan lay on the couch near the window, with a magazine propped up before her. She couldn't read. She wanted . . . what did she want? She didn't know. Impossible to be lonely with Maisie bustling back and forth every few minutes, but she was lonely . . . as lonely as Robinson Crusoe on his desert isle.

"Again!" Maisie scolded. "All that doorbell does is ring, ring, ring!"

"Why don't you let it ring and not answer it?" Joan grinned, stretching a long, slender foot in its yellow Chinese slipper.

"Well, I don't know . . . habit, I guess," and she padded to the door, still grumbling.

"Oh!" It was Curtis, looking rather young and sheepish standing there in the doorway with his cheeks red from the wind and a long florist's box under one arm. Such a big box, with a hole cut in one end, and long stems sticking out, like tails. Roses, of course. "Oh—I wasn't expecting to see you!"

"Can't I come in?" he asked, laughing, and stepping into the hall at the same time.

"Joan kind of wanted to be quiet today," she began doubtfully, but Curtis always overawed her, and he was already pulling off his big coat.

"Why, Curtis Barstow! Didn't Maisie tell you to stay away from me and my cold!" But Joan held out both hands to him gladly, and her eyes, the color of the sea-green kimono, were flecked with happy light. "Curtis . . . I am glad you came . . . truly. And a box—what's in the box?"

"Open it and see."

"La France roses! I haven't seen them since—oh, for so long—" She buried her face in their cool, wet fragrance. "Not since . . . I lived in the old house, with my aunts — they're like — like home," she concluded shakily. And the loneliness came back. Overwhelming loneliness, crushing her, frightening her. Old memories. Memories of the La France roses in the old garden across the bay. Of love and laughter, and another spring. Of promises that would never be fulfilled.

"Dear, you're crying!"

"No, I'm not!" She tried to laugh, but she couldn't. She saw it all. Clear as crystal. All the years to come. All the years of loneliness. Growing older and older, like Hogan in the shop. "Getting ahead," as Francine promised, getting ahead, and what for? What's the good of success when you're lonely, when you don't really belong to anyone, and no one belongs to you. Just growing hard and dry, without any hope, all the sweet, soft things denied . . .

And through the loneliness, through the foreboding that chilled her, through the sweet, heavy scent of the roses, she saw Curtis reaching out his arms to her.

With a little sob she went into them, hid her face against the rough wool of his sleeve. This was peace . . . this was rest . . . everything she needed . . . "Curtis, don't ever let me go!"

"My dear, of course I wont . . . Joan, you've never kissed me . . . will you?"

So gave him her lips, crying still.

"Johnnie, don't cry! It's nothing to cry about . . . because you love me, is it? Is it so bad as that? Didn't you want to love me, Joan?"

She was quivering in his arms, quivering as if she were afraid.

"Johnnie, stop being foolish and smile at me . . . look up . . . tell me you do love me, Johnnie . . . You do, don't you?"

CHAPTER XXII.

"HOW does anyone know she's in love?" Joan whspered to Curtis. "How do you tell? I don't know—I don't know really!"

But she clung to him, pressed her wet face against his hot cheek, wouldn't let him go. "Joan, it means so much . . . answer me, dear, tell me the truth." She wouldn't answer, and he only knew that he loved her, and she was beautiful. She lay limp and relaxed in his arms, letting him kiss her again and again, her red lips parted, her wet eyes closed . . . Don't ever let me go, Curtis, don't ever forget me. . . ever . . . promise me you won't . . ."

She kissed him then, and where she kissed him his face was wet, so that he knew she was crying still, crying when he was telling her, trying to tell her of his love.

"Forget you, Joan? Don't you understand? I love you. I'm asking you to marry me, I'm not going away—"

"No, no—not that—not marriage, Curtis. Not now. Please, not now," she cried unreasonably, looking at him with haunted, swimming eyes. "I don't want to be married, not for a long time anyway. Please don't ask me, will you? Please don't Curtis—"

"Joan, don't play with me!" What was she saying, this girl he loved?

"I'm not playing," she went on in that small, tortured voice. "I just don't want—oh, please, don't be cross with me—pleas don't—I can't bear it when you look at me like that—"

"You don't want me to forget you, and you don't want my love. Do you know what you do want, Joan?"

The coldness in his voice frightened her. She clutched him tighter. "Please don't stop liking me—"

He looked down at her, silently.

"I won't stop liking you," he said at last. "I'm afraid I couldn't do that now. Not very easily. It's—too late. But you won't mind if I go now, will you? I have work to do, work that may keep me occupied for some time—"

"You're not coming back!"

He freed her clinging hands. "I'll come back, Joan." He must go . . . get away . . . while he could still keep his voice steady. . . . He stooped and kissed her once more. "Goodby—take care of yourself!"

He was gone.

Joan slipped to her knees beside the couch, buried her distorted face in the silk cushions Maisie had made, gorgeous, ticklish ones, trimmed with gold lace and flowers, remnants from the workshop.

Maisie came in from the kitchen, her hands all floury. "I heard the door shut. Isn't he going to stay for dinner? Oh, Johnnie, an' I was makin' biscuits!"

The young man from the newspaper was in the shop sketching costumes for the Spring Fashions Edition. He wore a very shiny old blue suit, and his nose was much too big. Still, he was a man, so Ruth hovered near him, chattering while he worked.

"Say, who's the tall blonde over there?"

The first sign of life from him, and that about Joan. "Well, you're wasting your time getting interested in that," she said tartly. That's Joan Hastings, and she's going to marry Curtis Barstow—so that's that. Period, paragraph. Anything else you want to know?"

He laughed, and patted her hand, conveniently near. "Young attorney weds shop girl, eh?"

"I should say not—she's Madame's protege, and she's supposed to be somebody or other—"

The young man had finished his drawings, he beamed on Ruth and went away.

His Letter -:- By Madge Geyer

© 1928, by Newspaper Feature Service, Inc. Great Britain rights reserved.

IS THERE anything in the world equal to the thrill which comes to a girl when she received her very first love letter? She reads it and then dreams! Then she reads it again—and by the time the day is but a few hours old, the poor little letter is so worn and crumpled and almost illegible that it—to an ordinary mind is just a bit of paper.

But not to her! It's HIS letter! And it's kissed and kissed and crooned over and tucked away close to her heart. The day takes on a brighter glow; she walks on clouds; she tries to answer and spoils reams of paper before she can find the right thing to say. And then she has to stop and read it all over again. Her most precious possession, that letter from her Beloved. And no matter how many more she may receive, none will ever be so precious.

LOVE'S AWAKENING

A Continuation of Love's Embers

By ADELE GARRISON

Harry Underwood Shows Skill and Coolness

I TURNED gropingly toward the bed where Junior lay unconscious, as Harry Underwood's telephone colloquy told us that Dr. Pettit must have met with an accident on the way to the farmhouse. Then Lillian's arm went firmly round me.

"Listen!" she commanded. "Harry will get somebody. You'll see."

Her voice held encouragement—and something else—a subtle reproach which was like the touch of a spur to my faltering spirit. I grasped her hand tightly.

"Thank you!" I whispered. "I'm all right."

She flashed a heartening smile at me, as we both listened tensely to Mr. Underwood's staccato phrases.

"Oh! Too bad. What's that? Yes, yes, anybody who's really good right away. Good girl! Thank you!"

He turned from the telephone, looked at his watch and jotted down something upon the back of an envelope which he took from his pocket.

"We'll have to do something for that girl," he said, and I guessed that he was putting down a reminder of the hour when he had called her so that he could identify her later in the office.

"She's a wonder," he went on. "Pettit's in an accident—taken to the hospital. She knew he was on his way here, and rang us the minute the news came through her wire. She's going to get us a doctor as soon as she possibly can."

He walked back to the bed and stood looking down at Junior. Suddenly he touched Dicky's arm, then stooping laid his fingers ever so gently upon the little lad's right shoulder, and then looked significantly at Dicky. I broke away from Lillian's restraining hand, and sprang between the two men.

"Oh, what is it?" I said, conscious of no restraint except that I must keep my voice low. "What are you hiding from me?"

"Keep quiet!" Dicky said angrily, but the next instant he jerked out an equally impetuous "Sorry!" I was not resentful, for I knew that his nerves were as raw as mine. But Lillian's voice in cool command, echoed my hysterical query.

"Tell her what you mean," she said. "She can stand whatever it is better than suspense. And it is her right to know."

"It's nothing to worry over," her husband said. "It's only that the little chap's shoulder is dislocated. When we thought Pettit would be here in 10 minutes we could afford to wait for him. But now that there's a delay, I think we ought to get it back while the boy's unconscious. It won't hurt him now, and it will be painful to him if it's done after he comes to himself."

I sternly pushed back a despairing wonder whether I ever should see my boy's eyes looking into mine again, and spoke quickly.

"Oh! do anything you think best to save him pain—don't you think so, Dicky?"

"Of course," my husband answered, and Mr. Underwood began to undress the little fellow with infinite pains.

"We might as well get him ready for the doctor's inspection, anyway," he said, and the rest of us stood literally at attention, handing him the things for which he asked as if we had been probationers in a hospital. In an incredibly short time he had stripped the little boy, and with Dicky assisting him, had skillfully put the dislocated shoulder back into place. Then he tenderly sponged the boy's face and body, and invested him in a loose night robe.

"I don't believe he has a single broken bone," he said. "Of course there may be a strained ligament somewhere, but I don't think there'll be anything to worry about when this slight concussion wears off.

I shivered at the dreaded word "concussion," even with the modifying adjective he had given it. But when the physician, Dr. Havens, arrived, his verdict was that of Mr. Underwood's.

"Only a slight concussion, I'm sure," he said. "You did a good thing in putting that shoulder back," he added approvingly. "The boy should be kept absolutely quiet for awhile after he wakens, and you have made that possible now. I'll look in again in a few hours. When he wakens call me, and I'll come right over."

Dicky accompanied him to the door, and Lillian, with her usual efficiency, was removing from the room the things which might be in our way. Mr. Underwood brought a low chair to the side of the bed and gently put me into it. With brimming eyes I looked up at him.

"A half hour ago," I said, "you told me I had straightened out a problem for you, and that if you ever could do anything for me, you wanted to. How royally you have made that wish come true! I never can thank you enough for saving my boy from pain."

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Daily Ventilation of Home Essential

TEN minutes good airing of the house after the children have gone to school or office, will get rid of the "dead air" and make the house more comfortable the rest of the day. Few of us get enough fresh air; nobody can have too much.

DR. COPELAND

Ventilation and sun light are essential to health. What are you doing to provide these for your family?

Not every home is so located as to get all the sunshine that we could wish. But few homes are so located as to make it impossible to get "sky-shine."

Scientists have taught us that in light there are certain rays that do more than illuminate our surroundings. These rays have almost magical power in rejuvenating and stimulating the human animal. Exposure to them promotes health. Not to have their action upon our bodies causes us to suffer defects we should not have.

Run up the shades and permit this life-giving light to flood the rooms. Never mind if the carpet fades. Its colors are far less important than the physical well-being of your family.

When cold days come there is a temptation to shut out the air. In olden times they used to nail the windows shut and tuck rags round them to keep out the cold.

Fortunately for us houses are better built now, and the means of heating much improved. But we must not forget the importance of having an abundance of air.

At least a third of our lives we spend in bed. There is no excuse for having that room unventilated. The bed coverings supply the warmth. The air of the chamber should be fresh all night.

Give a little thought today to the house in which you live, the place in which you work, the school where your children go. Good air is just as important as good food, good water, good milk and clean clothing. Certainly it is a heap cheaper! Perhaps that is the reason we don't prize it.

For years I hammered at the Senate, begging the members to make the chamber a healthful one in which to live. It was largely the effect of 37 deaths of Senators in 12 years that made my efforts successful. The plans are drawn and the contract let for a remodeling of that terrible prison-house.

The present Senate chamber is an inside room—entirely cut off from the outside world. No sunshine, no breath of natural air ever reaches it.

But now there are to be three great windows. Let us hope the country will be able to observe the effects upon legislation of a habitable place for the law makers!

Nobody can be normal if he lives and has his being in an atmosphere lacking in oxygen and natural light. Man was not made for cave-dwelling.

This is the season when living conditions become worse for the average family in a northern climate. It will pay in lessened doctors' bills and in increased efficiency to give heed to the ventilation.

Answers to Health Queries

M. M. Q.—What would you advise for a cold, chilly feeling of the flesh? Even when perspiring this condition persists. I am in good health, but have soreness and stiffness in the knees and hips.

A.—Due to a circulatory disturbance. Find the infection causing the rheumatism in the knees and hips. When this has been located and properly treated your system will benefit.

J. L. Q.—How many hours' sleep does a girl of 25 years need?

A.—Rest is absolutely essential. Eight hours of sleep every night should be the minimum.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

A Social Breach

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

Two ladies were invited to a wedding anniversary. The hostess, not having room at the table for all her guests, ate at the first table and left the two ladies, who were well beyond 60, to eat at the second table with the children. The guest of honor was the Mayor of a city near here. Do you think it a breach of etiquette for the hostess to eat while the guests waited? D. C.

I AGREE with you that the hostess did not do the gracious thing. Far from it, especially as concerned the two older women.

When a hostess has more guests to provide for than she has space to seat them informally, she usually provides a buffet meal, so that everyone can be served at the same time. There should never be a "first or second table" in a private house.

Birthday Plans

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

On my birthday I want to have my cousin and her friend and a friend of mine to my house for dinner and then go to the theater. Should I buy the tickets ahead of time or how should I go about paying all the expenses, including the transportation?

M. C.

BY all means buy your theater tickets beforehand and buy the best seats that you can afford. If the dinner is to take place at a hotel or in a restaurant, you can get there early and arrange to pay for the dinner at the desk. It is a simple matter to pay the taxi at the door of the theater, and it is not likely that your friends will dispute your privilege. They should not.

First Anniversary

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN: Will you please tell me what is given for the first year anniversary? Is it lace or does that come on some other year?

H. D.

THE first anniversary is usually considered the "paper" anniversary, although many people consider it the "cotton" anniversary.

Meditations of a Wife

By HELEN ROWLAND

Hints to the Gentlemen

THE most beautiful qualities in man have always been his altruism and his imagination.

Whenever a man finds it convenient, comfortable or pleasant to do something, he invents a deity in his own image and calls it his "Conscience" or his "Reason."

* * *

For instance, ever since tobacco was discovered, men have been assuring women that cigar ashes will keep the moths out of the rugs.

HELEN ROWLAND

Just why they have to be HOT ashes, and just what good burning stubs and lighted matches do a Persian prayer-rug, no man has ever yet explained; but no doubt he could tell you, if you could spare him a few minutes to think it over.

Bending, as any man will assure you, is a wonderful exercise for the figure; and to bend over until your finger-tips touch the floor, and pick up 14 different parts of his Sunday newspaper, will make a Venus of any woman.

Sweeping, the masculine doctors tell us, is the ideal exercise; and bed-making will turn a baby hippo into sylph.

After you have found a husband's shoes, collar-button, hat, cane and gloves, in the morning, you need not waste your money on a gymnasium.

All these things have been discovered by Man—the creature with the Big Imagination.

Oh, very well! Cross my palm with silver, and I'll tell you a few magic cures that have been discovered by WOMAN!

A solitaire diamond placed on the third finger will cure heart-trouble.

An ermine coat will ward off pneumonia.

A 12-cylinder car—or even a little sedan—will ease tired feet.

A $20 bill placed on the palm of the hand will sometimes save a man from sudden baldness.

To cure melancholia there is nothing like a pair of seats at the latest Broadway hit—and supper afterward.

Terrapin and alligator pear salad will drive away that "all gone" feeling.

A Paris hat will turn gray hair back to red, in a day.

A box of orchids will cure a complex, and has even been known to revive dying love.

The trouble with Woman is that she lacks Vision—and that broad, altruistic outlook.

She wants things and does things for "selfish reasons," when she might just as well have nice, noble altruistic ones.

* * *

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Tuesday, November 6

THE situations and affairs for this day continue the subtle influence of Neptune, the mysterious and secretive; but great ambitions may find their fulfilment through tact, diplomacy or secret arrangements or contracts with ring-mergers, or secrets societies. It is a time to push for such goals with boldness and energy under the fine stimulus of the engergizing position of Mars.

Those whose birthday it is are likely to find ambitions fulfilled during the year through agreements with secret societies, closed corporations or mergers. It is a time to push deals through diplomacy or benefic intrigue or subtle measures rather than open-handed methods.

A child born on this day may be active, energetic and adventurous and may attain its desires and goals through secrecy and tact or diplomacy rather than open methods.

Make assurance doubly sure and take a bond from Fate.—SHAKESPEARE.

Business Girl and Society Bud Have Common Woes, Fay King Finds

I NEVER HAVE TIME TO DO THE THINGS I REALLY WANT TO DO!
YOU DON'T HAVE TO PLEASE TIRED SHOPPERS
FAY KING

By FAY KING

THE girl who works often envies the girl of means who lives at home and, it would seem, could do as she pleases.

But could they come together, they would both say in duet they never have time to do the things they really want to do.

Social life is as trying as business life.

Socially ambitious mothers can be harder to please and more domineering than the grouchiest boss.

Competition is keen in the smart matrimonial market, and it is often as tedious to entertain desirable guests as it is to please and retain desirable customers.

Wealth and influence involve many duties.

The social calendar is something of a time-clock, too!

LIBERAL CHOSEN NICARAGUAN PRESIDENT

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, Nov. 5.—(AP.)—The people of Nicaragua have elected Gen. Jose Maria Moncada president of the republic by a large majority. Latest returns today indicated that it might reach 25,000. The returns from 275 precincts out of a total of 432 gave the Liberal leader 56,434 ar against 37,060 for the Conservative—an actual majority thus far of 19,374.

Bluefields, on the Mosquito coast, which is strongly Liberal, has not yet been reported. The indications are that the Conservatives will control the next Congress, although insufficient returns have been received to form a trustworthy estimate.

The elections, which were held yesterday, were under the supervision of United States officials especially appointed for that purpose, and were carried out throughout the country with no sign of disorder.

ETNA ERUPTION CEASING

CATANIA, Sicily, Nov. 5.—Eruption of Mount Etna which has been in progress for several days has nearly stopped. The principal streams of lava from the volcano menaced the countryside about San Talfio and Rornazzo, but stopped many kilometers away. However, lava again is flowing high on the mountain but parts which are not inhabited or cultivated. The natives are not alarmed.

Weather Conditions.

The high pressure area that produced the cold weather over the Plains states during last week is now over the Atlantic coast and the Gulf states. Highest barometer, 30.22 inches, at Elkins, W. Va. It caused a change to colder east of the Mississippi, but there is no freezing weather except in the Appalachian Mountain section.

A low pressure area of marked intensity appears over Manitoba this morning, lowest barometer, 29.36 inches, at Winnipeg and Minnedosa. The low extends down over the northern plains. It is causing some cloudiness and light snow in the far North, but its principal influence has been in raising the temperatures.

River Conditions.

There were slight rises in the upper Allegheny River, elsewhere the rivers are stationary or falling slowly. Stage at Pittsburgh is 10.6 feet; Dam No. 2, 8.8, and Dam No. 6, 7.4. The dams are up.

Moving the Business of AMERICA

ON the control charts of every business of America, one line keeps edging ominously upward—the cost of doing business. To hold that line down—to keep it in right relationship with gross business—forms one of the major problems facing executives today.

Production has become simply a matter of the blueprints of the engineer. But volume production demands volume sales, and volume sales demand adequate distribution and adequate advertising.

Before adequate distribution can be secured, the dealer of today insists on knowing what manufacturers plan to do to move merchandise from his shelves in the quickest possible time.

The year 1921 taught both manufacturer and dealer a drastic lesson as to the value of turn-over. That year emphasized the necessity for sales pressure by the speediest, most flexible, and most efficient methods. It established for all time the value of newspaper advertising as the most powerful sales lever that can be employed to keep production moving speedily and in orderly channels from maker to dealer, from dealer to user.

No other advertising forms so large and so vital a part of the routine life of the American citizen. No other medium enables the seller to place his offering so promptly, so quickly, so rapidly, so forcibly, and so economically, before the eyes of the buyer.

In eighteen of the key markets of America, white spots of prosperity on every sales chart, the twenty-eight newspapers of the Hearst Organization sell the products of the nation's industry.

These dominant newspapers contact one out of every five readers of American newspapers. They go into more than 5,000,000 homes. They bring to more than 20,000,000 people, from Boston to Seattle, from Milwaukee to San Antonio, the advertising news of products of every kind, price, and use. These people represent every income class, every need, every taste. They are in the market for all commodities—buyers of merchandise of every price-range. They are so large a part of the newspaper reading public of America that Hearst Newspaper circulation represents a true cross-section of the general public—the advertiser's public.

Counting as their readers one-fifth of America's enormous buying power, Hearst Newspapers offer the largest single market in the country—more than 20,000,000 representative buyers of advertised products—more than 20,000,000 people whose needs and purchases play an essential part in moving the business of America.

GOOD TIPS ON CONTEST FOUND IN PRIZE-WINNING ADS

WRITERS' CHANCE BETTER IF THEY VISIT STORES

Specimens of the advertisements by amateur writers that won the 235 prizes awarded by The Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph during the fifth period of the $15,000 Zain Ad-Test are published today. Study them. They embody bright ideas, but there is nothing formidable about them. With a little thought you should be able to write advertisements equally good.

Try it. There are hundreds of prizes yet to be won, among them the $100 prize for the best ad of the sixth period, now under way, and the $1,000 grand prize for the best ad submitted during the entire course of the test.

The ads must be written about the business, products or service of 39 local business concerns, a list of which, with the rules for the test, will be found elsewhere in the paper. Your ad may take the form of a plain statement of fact, a letter, slogan, jingle or anything else that will serve to direct attention to the merits of the things advertised.

Write many ads. Get your friends to help. Writing Zain ads makes a good game for parties.

MAKE IT A GAME

Ads for the sixth period must be in the office of The Sun-Telegraph not later than midnight, Wednesday night. Better not postpone writing them until Tuesday night, as you may be too interested in getting the election returns. Write your ads tonight.

You should, of course, be acquainted with the stores and products that you advertise. The winners heretofore have been in most cases persons who called at the stores of the co-operating firms and asked questions about their goods.

Before writing your ad about the Roosevelt Hotel, why not have a meal there? Then you will be able to speak with authority about the prompt and courteous service, the good food, the reasonable prices, the cleanness and other points that should be emphasized in an advertisement about a dining room. Its central location, at Penn avenue and Sixth street, deserves consideration, too.

The Lewin-Neiman Company, 305 Smithfield street, specializes in women's, misses' and children's coats. A visit to Lewin-Neiman's will be a revelation to you. They carry huge stocks and because of their great buying power obtain extraordinary concessions, which they pass on to their customers. Lewin-Neiman coats are real bargains.

The B. K. Elliott Company, 126 Sixth street and 4010 Fifth avenue, dealers in "everything optical," will welcome a visit from you and will help you with suggestions for your ad. Any of the many interesting things in the Elliott store is a proper subject for an advertisement and you will enjoy learning about them.

JUST TRUTH

The pleasure derived from good tobacco has been the theme of several writers of classic literature. But one does not have to be a brilliant author to describe the pleasure given by Arco Specials; for no flight of imagination is necessary to give a vivid description of the good qualities of these excellent stogies. A plain, unvarnished statement of the truth will suffice. They furnish "all the joy of a good cigar."

Write each ad on a separate sheet of paper, which should be at least as large as a postal card, and preferably commercial letter size. Put your name and address on the back of each sheet, and also on the flap of the envelope in which you mail them. SEND THE ADS TO THE ZAIN AD-WRITING TEST, CARE OF THE PITTSBURGH SUN-TELEGRAPH, PITTSBURGH, PA.

Rules for Sun-Telegraph-Zain $15,000 Ad Test

1—$15,000 in cash and prizes distributed over seven weeks. Grand prize, $1,000. Grand weekly prize, $100. Five prizes each week for six weeks for best ads written for each concern participating—195 each week, 1,170 prizes in all.

2—$1,000 for best ad submitted during entire campaign. Winners to be selected by committee of Pittsburgh advertising men and women.

3—Ads for sixth period must be received by midnight, November 7, at the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, Pittsburgh, Pa. Ads arriving after that time will be automatically entered for the next period, and so on.

4—Ads submitted for the grand prize must be received before midnight on November 15, 1928. In order to compete for grand prize, contestants must have submitted at least one ad on each concern listed.

5—One person may submit any number of ads. The test may be entered at any time. Ads may be written about any one or all, or any product or all, of the concerns listed. A person may win more than one prize.

6—Write only one ad on one piece of paper at least postcard size. Place name of advertiser at top, write words, phrase, poem, slogan, essay or letter. Sign YOUR name and address plainly on BACK of each sheet. Also on the flap of each envelope. SEND TO THE ZAIN AD-WRITING TEST, CARE OF THE PITTSBURGH SUN-TELEGRAPH, PITTSBURGH, PA.

7—Ads are to become property of advertiser to use in any manner he sees fit. No ads returned. No subscriptions necessary. No blanks to sign. No entrance fee required. No coupons to clip. All professional ad writers and newspaper employes barred.

8—In the event of a tie, the prizes will be awarded to EACH winner.

Tells Dyspeptics What To Eat

Strict Diets Often Unnecessary

Many foods have a strong tendency to produce excessive stomach acidity and consequent indigestion. By omitting from daily meals those foods that experience proves do not agree and limiting the diet to certain tasteless unappetizing foods, stomach troubles may, in many instances, be slowly overcome.

A more popular plan, however, is to eat the foods we like best and follow them with a good safe alkaline that will free the stomach of its excess acidity, thus preventing gas, sourness and all distress and permitting normal, painless digestion.

Thousands of people who used to find meal time a nightmare now eat as they please and keep their stomachs strong, sweet and free from acid and their digestion perfect by using a little Bisurated Magnesia—powder or tablets—after every meal.

Bisurated Magnesia instantly neutralizes excess acid in the stomach, stops sourness, breaks up gas and ends dyspepsia pain. Hearty meals digest as naturally as in the stomach of a healthy child. It must do this for you or May Drug Co. or any reliable druggist will return its small cost. Make the test today.

2 HELD FOR SHOOTING '4TH' ROCKET HITTING GRID STAR

WASHINGTON, Pa., Nov. 5.—The mystery surrounding the identity of the person who shot a skyrocket along a street car rail in Main street, last Fourth of July, resulting in serious and near-fatal injuries to Jap Douds, star Waashington & Jefferson College football player, has been partially cleared up through the arrest of Arthur Chivers and Gordon Knestrick on a charge of assault.

The arrests were made following an investigation made by the district attorney's office covering a period of several months. Chivers and Knestrick admitted they both fired rockets along the street and exonerated Thomas J. Tiernan, Jr., arrested at the time, but discharged for lack of evidence, when arraigned before Alderman A. A. Cummins.

The men were held under $500 bail each. Knestrick pleaded guilty to assault, but Chivers entered a plea of not guilty, claiming that he fired the first rocket which did not strike anyone.

Both men said Tiernan had a rocket ready to shoot but did not light it. It is likely that the case will be settled by Chivers and Knestrick paying hospital and surgical expenses incurred by the football player, as Douds does not desire to bring criminal prosecution.

ACID KILLS THOUSANDS

No more dangerous condition can exist in the human stomach than too much acid. It leads to sourness, gas, ulcers, colds in head, rheumatism, poisoned blood and pains of all kinds. ACIDINE gives sure results in killing these acid conditions. Demand ACIDINE when again troubled by sour stomach, gas, or indigestion. It is the supreme remedy.

UPSETS MARK WEEKLY GRID WARFARE

MICHIGAN DOWNS ILLINI

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—(A.P.)—Old Man Upset, with an assist here and there from Pop Weather, spilled the championship football of three of the foremost contenders by way of celebrating the start of the crucial November gridiron campaign.

There were others who fell by the wayside in the storm and strife of Saturday's scramble for the slippery oval, but nowhere was the detonation so terrific as that accompanying the downfall of Illinois, 1927 Western Conference champions; Stanford, pace-setters for the past two years on the Pacific Coast, and New York University, one of the East's mightiest arrays.

Illinois was the victim of the Michigan Wolverine, which decided it had been kicked around enough and broke a losing streak of four straight with a little booting of its own, the final score being 3 to 0.

Stanford's Cardinals, big favorites to ride the Far Western crest once more, ran into the Trojan wall and took a 10-to-0 licking from Southern California to help scramble the coast situation.

SLIPPERY BALL DISASTROUS

New York University's hitherto undefeated eleven, squandering its opportunities by inability to handle a muddy ball, bowed to a Georgetown team that cashed in on its big chance to score and won 7 to 2, to keep its own slate clean.

Add to these reversals the overthrow of the University of Texas hopes in the Southwestern Conference by Southern Methodist, plus the defeats of Texas Christian and Clemson College, after each had won six straight games, and old man upset's main accomplishments are about complete.

Texas Christian's horned frogs ran afoul of the Baylor Bears, who had snapped Centenary's long winning streak previously, and lost a one-point decision. Clemson was dumped unceremoniously from the top of the Southern Conference heap by "Ole Miss" to the tune of 26 to 0. In the East, Temple University, after an impressive streak of victories, was knocked over by little Schuylkill College in another conspicuous reversal.

It wasn't all rough going for the favorites, however, at least so far as the final results were concerned. Two of the country's mightiest arrays, University of Utah, and Nebraska, virtually clinched the respective Conference races in which they are involved.

The Utah Tigers, scoring their third straight triumph over an unbeaten rival, turned back the challenge of Colorado College in a 27-to-21 thriller and just about clinched the Rocky Mountain title for the second time in three years.

HOWELL STARS

Nebraska, led by their candidate for of All-America fullback honors, Blue Howell, rallied in the second half to beat Kansas, 20 to 0. The Cornhuskers now stand alone at the top of the Big Six since Oklahoma fell before Iowa State.

In the Southern Conference, although Clemson suffered its first setback, the Big Five, composed of Georgia, Tech, Vanderbilt, Tennessee, Florida and Georgia, rode along triumphantly. Florida rolled up an impressive total of 71 points against Suwanee. Tech's 32-7 triumph over Oglethorpe indicates there will be plenty of trouble for Vanderbilt's Commodores in the outstanding clash this week at Atlanta.

The net result of Saturday's struggles on muddy Eastern gridirons leaves Georgetown out in front with the Army and Carnegie Tech among the major undefeated and untied outfits, with Boston College and Villa Nova in the same class. This week the Cadets, after a good workout in beating DePauw, face Notre Dame in the main intersectional spectacle, while Georgetown debates the issue with Carnegie on a neutral gridiron at Albany.

The Big Ten race, with Illinois dropped by the wayside, is narrowed down to a brace of contenders, Iowa and Ohio State, who meet in Columbus this week for the decisive test. Iowa had an easy time with South Dakota Saturday, while the Buckeyes were held to a tie by Princeton after beating all previous opposition.

On the Pacific Coast, California, by beating Oregon, 13 to 0, moved along with Southern California. These two are the only elevens unbeaten in Conference competition.

New York was the general favorite to win.

PENN SCORES ON CHICAGO

The University of Pennsylvania eleven defeated Old Man Stagg's Maroons in the intersectional battle at Chicago Saturday, 20-13, in a thrilling finish. Above, Wilner, the Quaker quarterback, is seen scoring the first touchdown for his team from the three-yard line in the first period.

PAULINO BOXES VON PORAT TONIGHT

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—(A.P.)—Otto Von Porat, hard-punching Norwegian heavyweight, invades Eastern fistic society in a 10-round bout against Paulino Uzcudun, Basque woodchopper, at Madison Square Garden, tonight.

Von Porat has done most of his campaigning in Chicago, where he had compiled an imposing knockout record, his victims including Sandy Seifert, Ted Sandwina and Tiny Herman. Von Porat hits about equally well with either hand, but he may find that it is easier to hit Paulino's elbows than any vulnerable spot.

The so-called experts are figuring that Paulino is too rough and tough for Von Porat and have made the woodchopper an 8-to-5 favorite.

Pitt's Interference Feature of Play

By HARRY KECK, Sports Editor

A FEW aftermath observations on Pitt's sweeping 18-0 victory over Syracuse in the Stadium and the general outcome of the football battles of Saturday:

Have you noticed the splendid interference of that Pitt eleven in the battles of the last few weeks? Smoothly functioning and a reminder of the palmy seasons of Pop Warner as coach of the Panthers. Quick to form and moving in solid phalanx fashion as it protects the runner. It was just coming into its own in the battle with Carnegie Tech a week ago, and against the Orange Saturday it was almost perfection itself, despite the soggy underfooting.

On both of his touchdown runs Josh Williams was able to get clear of all but the safety man and pick up speed under cover of this wave that swept before him. Then he had the resourcefulness to complete the dashes. On the first he exhibited a beautiful backward straight-arm to ward off the only tackler that got his hands on him, on the 10-yard line, in that 47-yard dash. On the second he dodged the last man.

There is no prettier sight in football than the working of such interference, with the backs leading the way and the guards swinging in after them to screen the runner. It is the stuff of which steamroller machines are made—and Pitt certainly steamrollered the Orange in no uncertain fashion.

DEVELOPS SLOWLY

In the early-season games that interference could be seen gradually developing. But it lacked the precision that it now has. And the halfbacks, Williams and Uansa, also failed to follow it as closely as they do now. A little hitch and the interference piled up, or the runner left it and was smeared. The wrinkles have been ironed out now, however, and there is nothing but smooth, chain-lightning decisive action in both quarters, with

PHIL GOLDSTEIN MATCHED WITH GOODRICH

Phil Goldstein, local lightweight boxer, left last night for New York to prepare for a battle next Monday night with Jimmy Goodrich, of that city, former lightweight champion, who recently won by a technical knockout over Sammy Mandell, present titleholder, in a no-decision battle in the mid-west.

Phil scored a hit in a bout with Freddie Mueller in Buffalo some time ago and will be welcomed back there. He has a faculty for pleasing the crowd with his willing mixing, even when he doesn't win, as was the case in his recent bout here with Cuddy DeMarco. Before leaving, Goldstein said he hoped to break the jinx that has kept him from making his best showings before his home folks. A cut on the lid of one of his eyes partially blinded him in the last two rounds of the DeMarco bout, he said. Up to that time the bout was closely fought.

WAGNER VS. RUDY

Eddie (Kid) Wagner, of Philadelphia, who boxes Young Rudy, of Charleroi, in the main bout of next week's card at Motor Square Garden, on Monday night, is one of the real veterans of the division, a smart boxer and a fairly hard puncher. He is a clever ring general and Rudy will have to force the fight at a hard pace to pull out a victory in his first appearance in the top spot on a card at the Garden. Two out-of-town middleweights, Frankie Palmo, of Cincinnati, and Henry Firpo, of Louisville, who has been fighting great guns in New Castle, will box the eight-round semi-final.

Floyd Hybert, of Ashtabula, O., and Henry Firpo, of Louisville, middleweights, box the main bout of the weekly show in the Jolly Bowl at New Castle tonight. They met a few weeks ago in a hectic affair, with Hybert getting the decision. Joey Goodman, of Norfolk, Va., meets Tony Lupica, of Toledo, in the semi-final tonight, and Louis Adair, of Toledo, and Frankie Rio, of Cleveland, box the other six-rounder. Tom O'Leary, of Wilkes-Barre, meets Bernie Dugan, of Toledo, and Elmo, the Mighty, of New Castle, faces Steve Brown, of Elyria, O., in the four-round bouts.

Mike Moran, of Mt. Washington, and Johnny Wilde, of East Liverpool, O., meet in the eight-round main bout of a show at East Liverpool tonight, with Dominick Profio, of Cecil, and Jack O'Keefe, of Alliance, battling in the six-round semi-final. SPORT COMMENT by JAMES J. LONG Skibos Will Stand Out As Title Bidders If They Beat Georgetown—Strong Pitt Finish Probable—Steffen Recalls Carnegie Victory Over Notre Dame — Dempsey Plans Sharkey Match.

CARNEGIE TECH will loom larger than ever as a candidate for the intercollegiate football championship of the East if the Skibos succeed in defeating Georgetown in Albany, N. Y., at the end of this week, when a city far removed from the beaten football trail thus gets one of the year's most important games.

Chick Meehan

For the Georgetown gridders themselves became strong bidders for the title by handing the mighty New York University team an unexpected defeat last Saturday, and if the Tartan warriors manage to overthrow the undefeated Blue and Gray they will rank right up alongside the Army as a first-place prospect in the East.

BEATING the powerful eleven coached by Lou Little will be a considerable job, as may be judged from the fact that Georgetown has scored 247 points in six games thus far, and has allowed only one touchdown by West Virginia Wesleyan and a safety for N. Y. U. to be registered for its opponents.

However, getting away with tough jobs is the specialty of the Schenley Park lads. And they will not be tackling the contract blindly, as Capt. Howard Harpster and other wise football heads of Carnegie were on deck in New York Saturday to get a first-hand line on both New York and Georgetown, and the Schenley Park lads are likely to profit quite a bit by the information picked up by those smart observers.

THE downfall of Chick Meehan's stars on Saturday after they had made a showing that caused them to be acclaimed as perhaps the strongest team in the East, kept up a peculiar record. Despite the power of the teams he has developed at N. Y. U. since he started to coach there in 1925, Meehan has not yet been able to go through a season undefeated.

In 1925, the Violet lost to Fordham and Rutgers. In 1926, the Gothamites won every game until they met Nebraska, and then they went down to defeat. Again in 1927, though tied by Penn State and Colgate, they remained unbeaten until the final game of the year, when they suffered another beating at Nebraska's hands in spite of the fact that they scored 18 points. Now Georgetown has marred their heretofore clean slate for 1928.

FROM present indications, Pitt isn't going to look so bad, after all, at the close of the season, notwithstanding the two defeats already administered to them by West Virginia and Carnegie Tech. Following their unexpectedly fine showing against the Skibos, Capt. Alec Fox and his mates, after only a week's rest, and with Fullback Tom Parkinson still missing, came back with a smashing victory over Syracuse on Saturday in one of the most impressive exhibitions seen anywhere this season. It is a difficult task to bring a team up to the right pitch again within a week after a major game such as Pitt played against Carnegie on October 27, but Dr. Sutherland accomplished it in fine style.

Alec Fox

THE achievement of the Panthers in making three touchdowns against Syracuse, rolling up 20 first downs against only five for the Orange, and holding the visitors to two first downs after the opening quarter, demonstrated once more that Sutherland teams cannot be fairly judged before November. Anything that they may do, or fail to do, earlier in a season, is no indication of the heights to which they rise in the latter part of a campaign.

In the Syracuse game, the Panthers functioned offensively and defensively better than at any previous stage. The line was so good that Lou Andreas' players were unable to make a single first down through it; the interference was greatly improved; the backs, particularly Josh Williams, followed it in a much more satisfying style than formerly, and a finer pair of halfbacks than Williams and Uansa proved to be could hardly be desired.

Uansa deserves an extra word of praise for his brilliant defensive work. He spoiled two forward passes for Syracuse that might have resulted in touchowns, and he prevented a certain score by driving a Syracuse runner out of bounds when only a few more steps were needed to carry him over the goal line.

DURING a discussion of football with Frank Graham, Judge W. P. Steffen waxed reminiscent on his coaching career at Carnegie Tech, and among the high spots he recalled was the memorable game of 1926, in which the Skibos startled the country by beating Notre Dame, 19 to 0.

"Almost up to the day of the game I could not bring myself to believe we could beat Notre Dame," he said, "although I knew we had a very good team. We lost to W. & J. early in the season and

CARNEGIE NEARS TOP

By JESS CARVER

RELIABLE scouts have brought the word that it was entirely possible to cut the gloom around New York City and New York University with the dullest of knives on Saturday night. They tell me that Mr. Chick Meehan walked about Van Cortland Park for five hours, talking to himself in a low voice.

The Georgetown triumph at the expense of New York University's Violets was one of the big surprises of Saturday's hectic gridiron program. It was the upset of the day in the East, just as Michigan's 3-0 win over the bounding Illini was the hot one of the Middle West and Southern California's 10-0 bump-off of Stanford caused a furore on the West Coast.

The triumph of Lou Little's Hilltoppers means a great deal to Pittsburgh and to those folks who are backing the Carnegie Tech-Georgetown game at Albany, N. Y., this coming Saturday. It means that Albany will be entertaining two of the three undefeated and untied elevens of the East, and by entertaining such will attract the vast crowd that strings along with the winners.

According to reports, the Violets earned an edge on Georgetown in everything but the final score. It was a tough break for the genial Chick Meehan and a good one for Lou Little.

TARTAN CHANCE BRIGHT

Tech has a wonderful opportunity ahead in this game. A win will put the Tartans right at the top of the Eastern title list, at least on a par with the Army. Such a rating is not to be sneezed at.

Pittsburgh is celebrating today the stirring triumphs of Pitt and Duquesne. The Panthers astonished the gridiron world by the ease with which they whipped Syracuse. Entering the game on the short end for no good reason, Pitt carried the fight right to the Orange, scored within three minutes of the opening gun and continued to outplay and outgeneral the visitors from the North throughout the entire ball game.

Toby Uansa, Josh Williams and big Mike Getto and the Panther ends covered themselves with glory and not a little mud. The entire Pitt team played fine football, not up to the standard they set against Tech, but good enough to make them look like the usual tough November Pitt outfit.

Just to show you how tough this Pitt line was on Saturday, let it be known that Syracuse gained less than 30 yards by carrying the ball during the afternoon, and that the Orangemen were unable to get more than seven yards at a single crack.

The Dukes are right on the tail of Geneva in the conference ratings. They had a tough battle with Westminster and were held even until the final period, when they broke through for two touchdowns and the game.

Andy Kerr wasn't going to take it on the chin forever. He caught Herb McCracken's Lafayette Maroons on the rebound after their defeat at the hands of West Virginia and, with a crippled team, held the Leopards to a 13-13 deadlock.

That is as good an example of the old fight you read so much about as I can think of right now. Wash-Jeff won't be any setup for Pitt this Saturday. Aschman, Douds and Robinson will be back in there, and the whole team will play at top form against Pitt—Wash-Jeff always does just that.

Grove City is pretty certain of the tri-state minor college title, and, whether they eventually win it or not, the season is a success. A victory over Geneva wipes out 10 lickings at Grove City. Geneva put up a good fight against Charley Berry's embattled Crimson at Beaver Falls on Saturday — but Grove City was not to be denied, and the Covenanter colors were

Only Offside Play Costs Wash-Jeff Maroon Game

WASHINGTON, PA., Nov. 5.—Washington & Jeffersen was offside once, the only time that a member of either team was over the line of the ball during the afternoon, and it cost the Presidents the game with Lafayette at Easton Saturday. Following Lafayette's only touchdown, Right Forward Thompson tried for a placement goal. The ball went wide, but a W. & J man was offside and the Leopards automatically recieved the point after touchdown.

Lafayette made two field goals in addition to this touchdown, while Wash-Jeff garnered two touchdowns and kicked one touchdown goal making the score 13-all. The extra point awarded, it develops, gave Lafayette the tying point.

TOOTS HOLWAY — BERT M'CAFFERY — JOHNNY M'KINNON — ROGER SMITH

There are several fights for regular berths on the Pirate Hockey Club of the National Professional League, but the closest, most interesting and most "wide open" is among these four stalwart defense men. Last season Burke and McCaffery were the regulars. Burke has been recalled by Les Canadiens and this act appeared to pave the way for a regular job for McKinnon, but the acquisition of Holway from the Maroons has complicated matters. Smith is a veteran among vets who will be a rugged reserve star and still may beat out the younger stars for a regular position.

COBB, SPEAKER, BUSH MAY GO

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

CONNIE MACK is just about ready to admit that shining luminaries of the diamond are not a big help to a ball club once they lose their punch. Ty Cobb, Tris Speaker and Joe Bush, 'tis said, will leave the Athletics via the waiver route.

Bullet Joe and his famed fork-ball is ready to call it a day so far as hurling is concerned, but the sturdy athlete, who did a short trick for the Pirates, thinks he can play the outfield. So far as batting is concerned there are a lot of the game's followers hereabouts who will agree with Joe that he can do his share on the offensive to hold down a job.

Bush, however, would have to show a lot on defense to win a pasture berth on a major league team. True, he has plenty of speed and chasing fly balls probably would be right in his alley, but he might not have the finesse necessary to an outfielder.

Joe, however, would have to take the game more seriously if he were playing every day. His tendency to step around the disciplinary rules of a club would hardly be condoned any further.

Cobb is said to be almost pathetic as an outfielder now. Never a ball hawk in the garden, according to American Leaguers, this great offensive star is unable to deliver when his club is in the field. Philly fans state that he still is a feared baserunner and batter, but when he puts on the gloves and takes up his position, it is "just too bad."

TRIS STILL PLAYER

Speaker, always a ball player probably would be a bearcat in the outfield as long as he wishes to play. Tris probably has loost a lot of his drive. It is said he will buy a minor league team.

Cobb was unsuccessful as a manager. Speaker seemed to have many of the traits necessary to successful leadership, qualities he displayed in leading the Indians to a flag and world championship in 1920. Cobb is reported to be a millionaire and doesn't appear to be worrying.

CHILLYSAUCE

A Sturdy young man is Ruskowski;
At tackle he must be a wowski;
They were sure he could bust
Each Princetonian thrust—
He's a sadder but wiser boy nowski.

The Twentieth Century Limited goes through Syracuse every day. But not like the Panther did on Saturday.

"Well, that's news to me," quoth Hugo Bezdek when informed by a staff correspondent that Notre Dame was having a bad year.

There is no verification of the rumor that Chick Meehan will take a post-graduate course in coaching at Georgetown.

The gallant lads who trimmed Geneva are glad to be in the hands of a receiver. Charley Berry, coach of the Grove City team, is a star catcher for the Boston Red Sox.

It used to be that Grove City teams didn't gain much more ground than a Bessemer passenger train, but that's all changed.

The Grovers defeated Geneva, who defeated Duquesne, who defeated Wash-Jeff. What if the Presidents should trim Pitt!

Well, if that should come to pass we Mercer countians hereby challenge Carnegie Tech to a post-season game.

CHICAGO, Nov. 5.—(AP.)—The championship of Illinois, pre-season favorite to repeat in the scramble for the 1928 Western Conference title, are scattered to the winds, leaving Ohio State and Iowa, both undefeated, to war over premier honor.

Wisconsin, also undefeated, is hanging on the ragged edge of a championship rating, trailing the Buckeyes and Hawkeyes because of a 19 to 19 tie with Purdue.

When hostilities are resumed in the title race Saturday, the affray involving Ohio State and Iowa at Columbus, must be rated as the critical conflict of the race as it stands at present. The battle, which will fill the Buckeye stadium with upwards of 72,000 for the third time this season, appears to be anybody's game and presents the unique situation of Dr. John W. Wilce and Bert Ingwersen, the leading coaching martyrs of 1927, directing the battle of teams fighting for championship acclaim.

Supporting the Ohio-Iowa game will be the Purdue-Northwestern contest at Evanston, Chicago-Wisconsin at Madison, and Minnesota-Indiana at Minneapolis. Illinois will invade Indianapolis to participate in the dedication of Butler's new stadium, while Michigan will go to the Atlantic seaboard to tangle with the Navy at Annapolis.

While the Wolverines were blasting Illinois' championship aspirations, Northwestern was wrecking whatever title hopes that still lurked in the hearts of Minnesota's gallant crew by chalking up a 19 to 9 victory.

PENN BEATS CHICAGO

In the intersectional battles of the day, Ohio State upheld the West by holding the undefeated Princeton crew to a 6-6 tie, while Chicago, beaten in four of its five major starts this season, scored what the Maroon followers term a "moral victory" over Pennsylvania, even if the Quakers finally bagged the game, 20 to 13.

The battered Maroons twice came from behind to push over touchdowns to tie the score, but with less than two minutes remaining before the end of the game, Capt. Paul Scull of Pennsylvania grabbed a 58-yard pass and dashed away for the touchdown that broke the tie and brought victory to the Eastern invaders.

Alabama's Crimson Tide fell before Wisconsin, 15 to 6. The Southerners threatened but once, when they had the ball within a foot of the Badgers' goal in the first period.

Iowa and Purdue, playing out of Conference competition, walked away with victories. Oran Pape again took the lion's share of glory in Iowa's 19-to-6 triumph over South aDkota. Purdue topped Case, 19 to 6.

W. VA. WESLEYAN MEETS SALEM ELEVEN NEXT

BUCKHANNON, W. Va., Nov. 5.—The next gridiron tussle on the West Virginia Wesleyan schedule will be with the ancient and time-honored foe from Salem College. The annual game will be played on the Washington-Irving High School field, Clarksburg, Monday, November 12, in celebration of the Armistice Day program to be sponsored by the Roy E. Parrish Post No. 13, American Legion.

Last season the Tigers fell before the attack of the Bobcats by a lone point after touchdown, 7 to 6.

The Salem-Wesleyan game in Clarksburg will vie for honors with the Davis & Elkins-Wesleyan game, which will be played here November 17. Two big interstate clashes for the Methodists in one week, a task that would cause any football coach heaps of worry and extend a football eleven to the limit.

STATE MAY LOSE STAR HARRIERS FOR PITT RACE

The initial round of West Penn cup ties played yesterday came out very much as expected, Heidelberg, the defending champion, winning by a 3-goals-to-0 score from the Corinthians and Westinghouse, keeping true to form, stopping Douglas, 3 goals to 1. The big upset came at Turner Park when the Keystone Club nosed out the German Sport eleven by the odd goal in five.

Heidelberg did not show much form but flashed enough to defeat the Castle Shannon boys; Keystone must have played a little rough at West View for four of the Sport club's players finished on the side lines.

The only game staged in the American Soccer League found Dunlevy up to its scoring tricks against the National Tube of McKeesport, and the Charleroi aggregation won by a 6-goals-to-0 score. Which means the Tube defense is still weak and Billy Montgomery will have to be found to tighten up the eleven.

In the Chartiers Valley League, Bridgefille Owls played Thoms Run to a tie score, each club finding the net twice. Heidelberg Juniors, following the footsteps of the seniors, started scoring fast against Canonsburg and won, 4 to 0.

In the Monongahela League, Gallatin stopped its rivals from Dunlevy, 4 to 1. Vesta provided the surprise of the day by defeating Sunnyside, 1 goal to 0. Monongahela City had Donora on the short end of a 2-goals-to-1 score, and Vesta, playing Mather, finished in a scorcless tie.

Fine Interference Flashed by Pitt

the result that the Pitt eleven, despite reverses at the hands of West Virginia and Carnegie Tech, today is one of the most powerful in the East. Watch its smoke from now on until the end of the season.

BAKER PITT'S KEY MAN

Is Eddie Baker the key man in the rejuvenation of the Panthers? This player was slated to be the regular center when the season opened, but didn't get off on the right foot, and it required the incapacitation of Pug Parkinson, the fullback, to give him his chance to break into the lineup as a regular. With the shifting of Charley Edwards to fullback, Baker was given the latter's place at quarterback in the last two games, and he came into his own in the Syracuse battle Saturday, in which he piloted the eleven like a veteran. He mixed up his plays in a manner that baffled the enemy, and kept his team going at top speed all the time.

Meanwhile Edwards was showing plunging ability in his new role of fullback that was pleasing to behold, and Uansa and Williams were running wild at the halves. Williams stood out as the scoring ace, but, if anything, Uansa, the former McKees Rocks lad, was even more valuable. His catching and running back of kicks was one of the best exhibitions ever seen at the Stadium. Several times he slipped and fell, only to regain his feet and dodge back many yards before he could be brought down. He has a shifty manner of running and a change of pace that make him hard to tackle effectively.

PITT ENDS HAVE CLASS

One has only to watch the play of the ends of some of the highly touted elevens that come here to appreciate the worth of Donchess and Guarino, the Pitt terminals. Game after game they go their way outplaying the opposition in such slick fashion that I fear we have come to accept them as a matter of course and are inclined to overlook their fine play in the heat of action. They were so superior to Syracuse's ends Saturday that there was no comparison. If there are two smarter or more capable ends playing together on one team than Guarino and Donchess this season, we should like to see them perform. A finer combination probably does not exist.

BAYSINGER A STAR

Harold Baysinger, the Syracuse captain and quarterback, is a much finer all-round player than he appeared to be in the debacle of his team against Pitt. His long passing and punting thrilled the spectators from time to time, but the memory did not linger long in the face of the Panthers' general excellence, and the visitors did not have the ball often or long enough for Baysinger to star in the running game.

The fact that Syracuse did not make a single first down through the line or around the ends is the answer. All five of its first downs came via the aerial route, and here Baysinger starred, as he did in kicking. His long punts, which several times covered 60 to 65 yards, prevented the rout from being more complete, and only the almost uncanny alertness of Pitt in defending against his passes in the scoring zone rendered him impotent at these critical moments. Several of the visitors' passes fell incomplete into the end zone for touchbacks, as did also a few of Pitt's later.

On one occasion Baysinger had a pass from Fullback Constantine almost in his grasp on the goal line when the ball was knocked down by Uansa. Later this same Uansa cut across in front of two eligible receivers and intercepted a surprise pass by Baysinger from behind his own goal line and placed the ball in position for Pitt to score its second touchdown.

SYRACUSE NO CARD HERE

The crowd at the Pitt-Syracuse game was a disappointing turnout, numbering not more than 15,000. The bad weather, of course, kept many away, but it is doubtful if, even under the most favorable conditions, more than 25,000 would have attended. There is no use talking, Syracuse never has been a drawing card here and probably never will be, in view of the fact that it seldom is able to flash its best brand of football against Pitt. Just another argument in favor of the fostering of district natural rivalries if consistently large crowds are desired for the splendid local battleground.

GOOD BREAK FOR TECH

Georgetown's victory over New York University Saturday, 7 to 2, gives Carnegie Tech hope of going through the season undefeated. The battle undoubtedly took a lot out of both teams, and at the same time the Plaid got a good line on what to expect from each. Inasmuch as its day of rest afforded it ample opportunity to thoroughly scout the big battle, Tech meets Georgetown at Albany, N. Y., next Saturday and New York University here two weeks later, with a battle with Notre Dame at South Bend coming in between.

Both New York U. and Georgetown were reputed heavy scorers, yet in their clash only one touchdown resulted, and that from a fumble and an 87-yard run. Proving what? That when two rivals that fear each other's power clash, they generally are so absorbed in holding each other in check that each is unable to put forth its best offensive efforts. Perhaps, after all, the best defense is a strong offense, when it comes to a matter of winning football games, and it would be better for teams in crucial contests to be more concerned about going out and doing their stuff than in worrying about preventing the other team from doing its best.

WARNER'S DREAM FADES

Pop Warner's dream of winning the National collegiate championship this season by popping Army on the button when they meet in New York, December 1, went blooie Saturday when Stanford tumbled, 13-0, before Southern California at Los Angeles. . . . Villanova turned in a good win when it slapped Bucknell, 20-6. . . . Grove City's 12-6 defeat of Geneva was the highlight of the Class B race in Western Pennsylvania. . . . Geneva is the only team that has beaten Duquesne so far. . . . The East certainly socked the West when Notre Dame came back to beat Penn State at Philadelphia, 9-0; Princeton halted Ohio State's winning streak with a 6-6 tie and Penn nosed out Chicago, 26-13, at Chicago. . . . Georgia Tech is rambling right along. It walloped Oglethorpe Saturday, 32-7. Incidentally, the talk is that the Golden Tornado will appear against Carnegie Tech at the Stadium here next season. . . . Navy finally has found itself. Since going scoreless in its first three games, it has walloped Duke and Penn by one touchdown each and on Saturday showed real strength in overpowering West Virginia Wesleyan, 37-0, a larger score by the way, than either N. Y. U. or Georgetown was able to roll up on this team. . . . Anything may happen now that the abnormal Michigan eleven has beaten Illinois, 3-0. . . . Speaking of tough ones, wonder how Fat Spears feels about Minnesota's 10-9 defeat by Northwestern?

Something that doesn't stir the imagination is Cornell's 0-0 tie with Columbia. . . . The Lafayette-W. & J. 13-13 tie amounted to a moral victory for both of these out-of-luck elevens. . . . Drake's 6-0 victory over Missouri was worth writing home about. . . . If you don't think Nebraska still is tough, look at that 20-0 victory over Kansas. . . . Schuylkill 10, Temple 7. Wow! . . . Alabama isn't what she used to be, judging from that 15-0 defeat by Wisconsin. . . . Don't overlook the fact that both St. Olaf and Millsaps won Saturday.

Public Shut Out Of French Net Tourney Final

PARIS, Nov. 5.—(AP.)—Rene De Buzelet, who campaigned in the United States last summer, yesterday won the annual covered courts tennis championship of France, but the general public was not there to see it.

Spectators not only were not invited, but were refused admittance, officials of the tournament decided to defeat the tax collectors who insist on levying 22½ per cent of the gross receipts of tennis matches by hoding the championship in secret. The general public did not even know the tournament was being conducted until announcement was made last night that De Buzelet had defeated Charles Augustin, 6-4, 6-1, 6-1, in the final round.

LOCAL CUE LOOP OPENS TONIGHT

THE Pittsburgh Three-Cushion Billiard League, which has enjoyed surprising success since its organization one year ago, will pry the lid from its second championship race this evening. The inaugural match of the 1928-29 campaign is to be played at 8 o'clock this evening at the Crookston parlors in East Liberty, with Matthew McClure and William Eichenmiller, both Crookston representatives, providing the opposition.

No matches will be played tomorrow, Election Day, but on Wednesday every other league player will swing into action. The lineup of matches for Wednesday is as follows: Robert Carter, of Kalmer's vs. George Pitfield, of Dimling's, at Kalmer's in Oakland; McClure vs. Joe Mackin, of Clark's, at Crookston's; William Greenwood, of Ellis', vs. Dale Campbell, of Ellis', at Ellis' parlors.

On Thursday evening Carter will meet Campbell at Ellis' and on Friday Pitfield will entertain Greenwood at Dimling's and Eichenmiller will meet Mackin at Clark's in McKeesport.

Carter is the defending champion and Greenwood is the only scratch player. Greenwood will play for 53, Carter for 48, Eichenmiller and Campbell for 45 and Pitfield, McClure and Mackin for 40.

BILLY GREENWOOD

Greenwood, former Interstate Leaguer, is the only scratch player in the Pittsburgh Three-Cushion Billiard League, which opens its second season this evening. Eichenmiller and McClure pry off the lid at Crookston's and Greenwood swings into action Wednesday against Campbell at Ellis', the parlors which both represent.

VOTE ON SUNDAY BALL TO FIX ROG'S PRICE

CHICAGO, Nov. 5.—(INS.)—The inside story of the proposed purchase of Rogers Hornsby, of the Boston Braves, by the Chicago Cubs was claimed to be revealed today in a story by Harry Neily published in the Chicago Evening American.

According to the American, the vote on whether or not Massachusetts is to have Sunday baseball will determine largely whether Hornsby comes to the Cubs. If Sunday baseball is permitted in the Bay State, the Braves may want a larger sum for Hornsby than the Cubs will pay. If Sunday baseball is defeated, the Boston club, it is believed, will let Hornsby go to the Chicago club at a price now agreed upon by the Cubs.

The American states that no official of the Cubs has intimated this is the real situation, but points out it appears reasonable that this is the "low down" on the Hornsby deal.

A statement as to the deal is expected to be made probably Wednesday, after the result of the vote in Massachusetts is known.

DETROIT AND ST. LOUIS MAY SEVER RELATIONS

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 5.—(AP.)—A report from Detroit that Coach C. E. Borias, of the University of Detroit, was going to recommend to his board of athletic control to sever football relations between his school and St. Louis University met with the response here from Coach Heartly Anderson that "the feeling is absolutely mutual."

Coach Anderson charged the University of Detroit team with unnecessary roughness in Saturday's game, when St. Louis was defeated 38 to 0, as the chief cause for his willingness for the break.

The teams have been playing on a six-year contract which ended this fall.

SMITH SCORES ACE

OKLAHOMA CITY, Nov. 5.—(AP.)—Horton Smith, Joplin, Mo., pro, scored a hole in one during the final 18 holes of play in the Oklahoma City open on the Country Club links here yesterday. The ace was on the 119-yard second hole. It was Horton's second cuckoo.

BRIDGEVILLE OUT OF GRID RACE

By TOM BIRKS

THE 1928 independent gridiron titular race found two more clubs entering the discard among the defeated clubs in yesterday's battles. Bridgeville Firemen found McKeesport Olympics in championship form and lost, 25 to 0. Coraopolis found the going too tough at West View, losing to the Parkers by the creditable score of 6-0. East Pittsburgh kept in the race by coming from behind to tie Burns, 6-6. Port Vue had little trouble with the undefeated Charleroi Scholastics, winning, 20 to 0. McChesneytown defeated St. Michaels, 18 to 0.

The battle at the quarry grounds was a real fight, with a wonderful crowd lining the new enclosure. Burns scored right from the start. Stein crossing the line for the touchdown. The Firemen came right back in the second period and, as usual, Wambaugh was the boy who tied up the game. Burns had Davis and Sharkey of the backfield injured, while Henri went out with a broken hand.

But the battle waged hard in the third and last quarters. The final part of the battle found both clubs resorting to long forward passes in a desperate effort to pull the game out of the fire. Moran and Wambaugh starred for the Firemen, while Sharkey did plenty until hurt, after which Stein had to carry the burden.

The Olympics started out like Burns by marching down the field and scoring, Garrison going around the end for the touchdown. Four first downs led to that score. Bridgeville hade more of the play in the second period, and when the interval was reached the score was: Olympics 6, Firemen 0. Fritz Quinn scored the second touchdown for the Tube City outfit in the third period and Hymie Goldburg added the extra point. In the final period, Hetler took a long forward pass for the third tally, while Bache, substituting for Evans, scored the final touchdown.

The day started out poorly from a weather standpoint, and some of the bigger games were nearly called off. Around noon King Sol made a welcome appearance and attendances were large, especially at East Pittsburgh and McKeesport.

The McChesneytown machine won the championship of Cambria county by defeating St. Michaels at McChesneytown, 18 to 0. It seems as though it will be up to East Pittsburgh next Sunday to try and cross the Latrobe line. It has not been crossed yet this season.

West View played on a muddy field and the only score came in the initial quarter when Boots Klinzing went around right end for the only score and, incidentally, Mose Kelsch missed the try for point.

Coraopolis played a stubborn game, holding within its 10-yard line on numerous occasions. Sweeney was the outstanding star for the Park Club.

Georgetown's Win Boon to Tech

THIEL HOLDS ALLEGHENY

One of the big upsets of the day in this locality was the 6-6 tie that Thiel and Allegheny battled to at Greenville. Thiel has been smacked on the whiskers by Pitt, Tech, Westminster and Geneva and was figured as certain loser against the Methodists. Tommy Holleran found all his cripples available, and Allegheny suffered. This won't set Mel Merritt any better in Meadville.

Notre Dame hung it on Penn State at Philadelphia, and the Lions kept their record of never having won a football game from the Irish unsullied. The Irish don't seem to have a great deal, but they are getting by fairly well. Rockne has one or two tricks in reserve—always. All he needs to do is to tell the boys that one of his aunts is dying and that the only thing that will keep her from knocking at the Pearly Gates is a Notre Dame victory, so the boys will go out and win.

Illinois is still wondering what happened at Ann Arbor. Ohio State, Wisconsin and Ohio Wesleyan all took a fall out of the Wolverines, but of course they had to rise in their insulted might and beat Zuppke. It won't be surprising to see an announcement from Fielding Yost most any time now, in which he declares that he is head coach again.

O. S. U.-TIGERS TIE

The Princeton Tiger refused to let Ohio State twist its tail and held the vaunted Buckeye eleven to a 6-6 deadlock. Ohio State had to rush a touchdown over in the closing minutes of play to land even the draw. Princeton, therefore, will be a favorite to whip Yale.

Northwestern and Minnesota must have had a fine game at Evanston. The Purple won, 10 to 9, giving Fat Speers his second setback in as many weeks and causing gobs of gloom to settle about Minneapolis.

The East came off best in the intersectional contests of the day. Old Penn kept its superiority over Chicago by beating Amos Alonzo Stagg's Maroons 20-13 at Chicago. With Princeton tieing O. S. U., the edge for the day goes to the Atlantic Seaboard.

The South lost prestige when Alabama's Crimson Tide spent itself to no avail on the rock shores of Wisconsin, the Big Ten eleven copping a 15-0 decision.

Pop Warner won't bring an unbeaten team east to meet the Army. South California spoiled all such chances by manhandling Pop's Cardinals 16-0 on the Coast. That makes it all the tougher for the Cadets. Wait and see!

Tomorrow, West Virginia and Fordham will clash at the Polo Grounds in New York in Gotham's election day classic. The Mountaineers have been hitting 'em hard and often since losing their opening tussle to Davis-Elkins and figure to beat Fordham.

FARRELL-HAGEN WIN

SALT LAKE CITY, Nov. 5.—Johnny Farrell and Walter Hagen defeated Charles Foley, intermountain amateur champion, and Alex Stevenson, Salt Lake Country Club pro, 2 and 1 in an 18-hole exhibition golf match here yesterday. Hagen scored three birdies on the first nine. The winners left last night for Spokane.

WILLIE HUNTER TAKES COAST TITLE IN PLAYOFF

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 5.—(AP.)—Wee Willie Hunter is still the open golf champion of Southern California as a result of successfully beating off the attack of Fred Morrison, Midwick Club pro, in a 36-hole playoff here yesterday.

The two had tied with scores of 284 in the 72 holes of the tournament play last week, but Hunter won by a two-stroke margin, finishing 76-73—149, Morrison's card was 78-73—151.

WELCH STOPPED; BEARS CRUSH YANKEES, 27-0

CHICAGO, Nov. 5.—(AP.)—The Chicago Bears flashed a brilliant passing and driving attack yesterday and crushed the New York Yankees, 27 to 0, in a National Professional Football League game before 15,000 spectators at Wrigley Field. The Bears scored a touchdown in each period, and at no time did the Yankees seriously threaten. Gibby Welch, Yankee star, did not get into the game until the last period, but was stopped.

W. PA. GRIDDERS HELP TIGERS GET TIE

By LESTER J. BIEDERMAN.

COLUMBUS, Nov. 5.—Old Bill Roper can thank Western Pennsylvania in particular for the brilliant showing of his Princeton Tigers here Saturday when the intersectional game with Ohio State ended in a 6-6 tie.

Eddie Wittmer, formerly of Allegheny High School, Captain Chuck Howe, who starred for Beaver Falls High School and was declared the finest center in the W. P. I. A. L. when his schoolboy playing days were over, and one Holmes (Trix) Bennett, who once tore up and down the whole length and breadth of the fast W. P. I. A. L. for dear ol' Crafton High School, stood out for the Princeton horde in that stirring tie game.

Wittmer, who vanquished Ohio State last fall at Palmer stadium almost by himself, scoring all three touchdowns against the Buckeyes, went wild and his ball episodes finally bore fruit in the third quarter when he squirmed six yards past three Ohio State men for Princeton's touchdown. In two years of competition against the Wilcemen, Princeton has made four touchdowns, Wittmer being on the scoring end every time.

Saturday young Mr. Wittmer rambled for a total of 95 yards in 30 attempts at carrying the ball and he proved to be the hardest man on the Nassau team to stop. Time and again he ripped the famous Ohio line to shreds and it invariably took more than two men to bring the fleet Pittsburgher to the ground.

Besides lugging the leather, Wittmer threw two passes, both being completed by Mike B. Miles, of Bellaire, O., for a total gain of 14 yards. Miles incidentally, was almost unstoppable during the first half, but he slowed down considerably during the latter stages of the fray. Wittmer certainly earned himself serious consideration on Grantland Rice's All-America team and Rice was present and can hardly afford to overlook Wittmer in his selection.

Another Western Pennsylvania boy who should come in for his share of credit is none other than Captain Chuck Howe. Howe was opposed by big Fred Barratt, 235-pound Ohio pivot man, and repeatedly both boys took time out to nurse their injuries. Howe outshone Barrat and if the Tiger boy can take the measure of Charlesworth, of Yale, when they meet later in the season, he will have earned for himself a niche in the All-America hall of fame.

Howe, by his charging tactics, completely carried away the Ohio line, which was regarded as well nigh impregnable before this game. Princeton made most of its yardage through the famous Ohio line, mainly through the work of Captain Chuck Howe at center.

The last of the Pittsburgh district gridders in Saturday's east-west battle was Trix Bennett, and he kept the stands in an uproar during his stay in the game. Bennett came into the battle late in the second half and in six tries with the ball went for 23 yards.

Two passes with Bennett on the throwing end netted a total of 46 yards for the Tigers. All in all it was a great day for Western Pennsylvania here in this massive Ohio stadium and had Wittmer, Howe and Bennett been out of the Tiger lineup, one shudders to think what would have happened to the good old sons of Nassau.

MADISON, Wis., Nov. 5.—(AP.)—The athletic council at the University of Wisconsin has decided to continue rowing as a major sport. After the death of Dad Vail, veteran crew coach, there were reports that the sport might be dropped.

MOUNTAINEERS IN GOTHAM FOR GAME

MORGANTOWN, Nov. 5.—The West Virginia University football entourage, 36 strong, accompanied by half a hundred followers, left Morgantown last night and are due to arrive at the Waldorf Astoria, West Virginia headquarters in New York, at 9:15 this morning. A practice session will be staged at the Yankee Stadium, scene of the Election Day game with Fordham, this afternoon. Every member of the West Virginia squad, save Eddie Stumpp, is in first-class condition.

Stumpp's knee failed to respond to treatment during the latter part of the week and Trainer Art Smith and Coach Rodgers, gave this brilliant triple-threat performer a leave of absence until Thursday. Stumpp will go to his home in Wheeling, where he will have his injured knee thoroughly examined by his family physician.

Cassie Ryan, fleet veteran, who played such a stellar game against Lafayette, will probably again take over Stumpp's job of signal calling from the left-halfback post.

ST. VINCENT'S COACH LOSES FAITH IN DREAMS

LATROBE, Pa., Nov. 5.—Gene Edwards, former Notre Dame captain and now backfield coach of St. Vincent's College eleven, will have no reason to believe in the potency of dreams. He dreamed Friday night that St. Vincent's had whipped St. Francis, 7 to 0. The next day St. Francis whipped tS. Vincent's

SPORT COMMENT

By JAMES J. LONG

the result of this game gave a false line on our ability, as if ever a team should have won a game we should have won that one. Then we began to come on and the week before the Notre Dame game we defeated West Virginia, 20 to 0. We were clicking then and the score might have been 40 to 0 and still not have indicated how much of an advantage we held. After the game Ira Rodgers, the West Virginia coach, rushed into our dressing room and said to me, 'Judge, you're going to beat Notre Dame. Do you know it?'

"DR. SUTHERLAND, the Pittsburgh coach, came in to tell me the same thing and even wanted to make a speech to my players and tell them how he felt, but I was fearful what the result of such a speech might be and induced him not to do it. A day or so before the game I was convinced that Rodgers and Sutherland had been right and that we would win. I knew the sort of team I had and I knew we would catch Notre Dame overconfident—and the easiest team to beat is one that is overconfident. Eventually the Notre Dame players knew we were the best team they met that year, including the Army and Southern California. It was the best team I ever have coached and one of the best I ever have seen.

Judge Steffen

"CAPT. YODER, at right tackle, was as fine a tackle as there was in the country, yet he had little, if anything, on Cooper at left tackle. The center was Mamby; not a big man, but a splendid player. Cowan, at left guard, was one of the greatest linemen I ever have seen, and Goodwin, at right end, had become a star in his last year on the squad. The quarterback was Harpster, captain of this year's team.

"We had weight and power and, above all, a high average speed. That is what makes football teams—what made the 'Four Horsemen' teams at Notre Dame great. A 10-second man or two in your line and one or two more in your backfield help a lot, but the test of all great teams is its average speed, which makes for smoothness of play. I could have sent that team of mine off in a 100-yard dash and covered them with a blanket at the finish."

NOT only is it true, as the fight fans of Pittsburgh and other boxing centers have believed for some time, that Jack Dempsey is planning a return to the ring, but it appears that he has gone so far as to pick his opponent.

That opponent will be Jack Sharkey. Dempsey had a friendly chat with the former gob in Boston recently, and though Sharkey generally insists upon doing all the talking, it is a safe surmise that on this occasion he had to do a lot of listening. For Dempsey outlined his plans for meeting him in a come-back match next summer.

Jack Dempsey

"IF I decide to fight next year, I will prefer Sharkey as my opponent," Dempsey is quoted. "I consider him the best of the heavyweight contenders. He is the only one who has class. I rate Paulino behind Sharkey. Stribling and Hanson come next. I wouldn't be interested in boxing again unless I thought I could draw another million-dollar gate, and Sharkey is the only heavyweight in sight who would attract that much money with me. I guess if Jack and I were to meet again the public would accept the winner as the new champion. I won't make any definite decision to return to the ring for some time. I've advised Sharkey to keep busy, meanwhile, meeting all comers, and I feel sure he can win every match. Then next summer if I decide to come back we would do quite a business at the box office. We also would give the fans a real fight. There was nothing slow about our last scrap."

More Billions Borrowed. Lively Action Predicted.

By B. C. FORBES

THE New York stock market is breaking so many precedents, and going so contrary to reason, one can only guess what may happen after tomorrow. The higher brokers' loans go, the higher go stocks. The lower becomes the income yield on stocks, the more furiously are they purchased.

This unnatural, illogical, unparalleled condition has continued so long that many assume it will continue forever. It won't, but how much longer it may continue, no mortal can foretell.

BORROWING to keep the speculative circus going is expanding at an unprecedented rate. September and October have swelled brokers' borrowings by more than $820,000,000. The total borrowed to fan the speculative flame has now reached the colossal sum of $5,879,721,062. This represents an increase of $1,933,583,688 above one year ago and of $2,768,545,137 above two years ago.

Not only so, but this gigantic inflation of speculative loans has occurred entirely in money callable without notice. Time borrowings ($763,993,528) are substantially below the total of a year ago and two years ago. This is the first time that call borrowing has exceeded $5,000,000,000. Indeed, not until the end of August did call loans come near even $4,000,000,000. The last two months have swollen demand loans by more than a billion.

SUCH figures stagger conservative bankers. They throw up their hands when asked how they would proceed to handle the situation should outside, unregulated, non-bank lenders start pulling their money out of Wall Street. Bankers confess they would be powerless to furnish funds to take the place of the more than $2,000,000,000 of "irresponsible" money now being rented out from day to day in Wall Street.

The New York Reserve Bank's ratio of reserve has fallen more than 10 per cent under the total of a year ago, and for the whole system the ratio is down more than 7 per cent. Gold imports are not of sufficient volume to help appreciably.

Overstraining of credit in the past invariably invited either a relapse or a collapse in furious stock speculation for the rise. So far it has failed to do so on this occasion. Many of those whose experience in finance goes back only a few years declare cocksurely that "the war has changed everything," and that it is utterly useless to pay the slightest attention to precedent—indeed, worse than useless, they point out, for has not all the big money been made by those who were wise enough to forget the past entirely and plunge ahead in the present and bank confidently on an uncheckered future?

FORTUNATELY or unfortunately, the writer is too old-fashioned to be able to cast all financial and speculative precedents and logic to the winds and revel blindly and intoxicatingly in whoopee.

The present temper of those active in stocks suggests that the election will be conducive to plenty of action. Were Wall Street to wake up on Wednesday morning to find that Gov. Smith had been elected, unquestionably there would be action galore, but, assuming that the result will be as Wall Street expects, violent dealings seem probable.

If the public rush in to buy, quotations can conceivably shoot up spectacularly. Even if there should be no public orgy, the market's powerful manipulators may see to it that the election result is adequately "interpreted."

But it can be taken for granted that the main objective of the giants heading enormous pools will be to unload extensively. Speculators do not borrow money at 7 per cent to carry as investments stocks netting a return of half that rate. And, as already shown, speculation recently has been carried on more than ever before on larger and still larger borrowing of funds callable on the spot.

OUTSIDE of the Stock Exchange, developments are, on the whole, encouraging. The final quarter of the year has brought distinct increase in general activity, the lead being taken by the steel industry, the motor industry, the construction industry, the copper industry, the electrical industry and, in numbers of sections, by retail trade.

Price inflation is notable by its absence: October actually brought a modest decline in the commodity price level. Railway traffic is well maintained. So is employment, so far as reported. Practically all predictions are that this betterment in general conditions will continue at least throughout the year.

The 1928 presidential election will go down in history as having brought not one stock market "scare" or any depression in trade and industry.

IT WILL not take long to get a line on what the result of the election is destined to bring.

ELECTION FAILS TO DISTURB MARKET

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—(AP.)—The last session of the stock market prior to the national election found the general course of prices still headed upward today. Some irregularity developed during the morning but the lowering of the call money rate from 7 to 6 per cent, with a corresponding easing of time money rates, rekindled bullish enthusiasm. Trading was moderately heavy for a session sandwiched in between Sunday and a market holiday, total sales crossing the 2,000,000-share mark before the end of the third hour.

Buying orders were distributed over a fairly broad list with the merchandising, oil, copper, public utility, airplane and investment railroad shares giving the best demonstrations of group strength. Directors of the Tobacco Products Corporation recommended a 5-for-1 stock splitup and a 75 cents extra was declared on William Wrigley (Jr.) Company.

National Tea soared 20 points to a new high record of $60, Utah Copper moved up 10 points on odd sales to a new top at 220, and Kennecott, American and Foreign Power and Buffalo and Susquehanna also moved into new high ground, the last named touching 64½, or just double the year's low.

Adams Express ran up 14½ points, Brooklyn Union Gas 8¾, Radio 8¼, and Coty, Victor Talking Machine, American Bank Note, and Greene Cananea Copper sold 4 to nearly 7 points higher. Airplane stocks were heavily bought on reports of large orders, Wright and Curtiss each soaring nearly 9 points.

Union Pacific crossed 211 to the highest price in about 20 years, and Atchison, Canadian Pacific and Kansas City Southern sold 3½ to 4¼ points higher.

DuPont dropped 5 points in the early trading but quickly made up its loss. Barnet Leather dropped 4 points to 27, as against a high of 47⅜ only last week. Case Threshing Machine and Midland Steel Products preferred each dipped nearly 5 points in the morning reaction.

1928 GREATEST YEAR IN G. M.'S HISTORY

By GEORGE H. SNYDER.

THIS year will be the greatest in the history of General Motors Corporation. Net earnings in the first nine months of 1928 not only exceeded by far any similar period but they were also larger than in the entire year of 1927 which showed the greatest earnings ever reported by this giant of the automobile industry.

Net earnings, including equities in the undivided profits of subsidiary operations, not consolidated, for the nine months were $240,534,613. This compared with $193,758,302 for the corresponding period a year ago, an increase of $46,776,311 or 24.1 per cent. After deducting dividends on the preferred and debenture stock this was equivalent to $13.42 a share on the common stock against $10.75 a share in the first nine months of 1927.

IN THE entire year of 1927 net earnings, figured on a comparable basis, were $235,104,826 which was equivalent to $12.99 a share on the common stock.

Earnings for the third quarter, including all equities, totaled $79,266,639 as compared with $64,508,095 for the third quarter of last year, a gain of $14,758,544. This was equivalent to $4.42 a share on the common stock compared with $3.57 in the same quarter of a year ago.

The third quarter showed some seasonal decline since earnings were not as large as in the second quarter of the year when $91,799,398 was reported.

Retail sales by General Motors dealers to users were 1,576,708 cars in the nine months, an increase of 24.5 per cent. Dealers' stocks increased to some extent since sales of the corporation to dealers were 1,606,902 cars, an increase of 22 per cent. Sales to dealers and dealers' sales to users both exceeded the total figures for the entire year of 1927.

A VERY attractive January extra dividend is indicated by the phenomenal records of this year. It has been the practice of directors to pay extras in January and July. An extra of $2.50 was paid on January 3, 1928, and of $2 on July 3, 1928.

Regular quarterly dividends of $1.25 a share and the July extra dividend of this year totaled $100,056,001. The amount earned on the common stock, including equities in subsidiaries, was $233,364,193 which covered these dividend requirements more than twice over.

EXCLUDING the share in profits from General Motors Acceptance Corporation, Yellow Truck & Coach Manufacturing Company, Ethyl Gasoline Corporation, General Exchange Insurance Corporation and Vauxhall Motors, Ltd., General Motors earned $233,417,453 in the nine months compared with $189,707,808 in the same period of 1927. On this basis earnings on the common stock in the nine months of 1928 were $13.01 a share.

The large margin of earnings over dividends has enabled the corporation to greatly improve its current financial position. Current assets of $507,450,707 were $75,170,584 more than at the end of 1927 while current liabilities of $144,705,288 showed a decrease of $14,850,859.

GENERAL MOTORS CORPORATION has been a large buyer of securities this year. Its holdings of United States government securities increased from $75,542,698 to $133,020,823 during the nine months. Its other marketable securities increased from $361,282 to $15,542,243.

County officers, given the alarm, joined Warden A. A. McCorkle and a posse in pursuit of the prisoners.

Don't Forget Yourself In Casting Your Ballot

Tomorrow, election day, is the day of days this year. What it should be every year, a second day of American Independence, it appears to be this year.

You will vote because you are a good American citizen.

It has been suggested that some may not be able to vote because of the large increase in registration and the liability of congestion at the polls.

Do not let the fear of that possibility lead you into making a too hurried vote. Your favorite candidate for the presidency surely needs your support, but your own interest needs your support also. Nobody will be justified in voting for the presidential candidate alone and ignoring the matters which are of equal importance to him, personally.

There will be a President no matter whom you vote for, but there may be no voting machine permit if you neglect to vote for the amendment No. 13, which would allow its use. The White House will have an occupant in any event, but a Metropolitan charter for Pittsburgh may be rendered impossible if you neglect that important matter, amendment No. 14.

There are 14 amendments—all of them important quesions to the voters of this state and several of them especially important to the citizens of Pittsburgh and Allegheny county. Among them are the Pittsburgh improvement tax, No. 7, allowing district benefit assessment, a distribution of the cost of public improvements. The Citizens Committee on City Plan, among others, urge its adoption.

Then there is the second-class city debt limit, No. 8, opposed by the Civic Club of Allegheny county, but declared by Council members to be a necessity if contemplated big improvements are to be carried out. There also is No. 6, permitting division of an election district in cities of more than 100,000 when it contains more than 250 voters.

These are questions on which you can vote "Yes" with a clear conscience. There are a number of others, the decision on which appears to be a matter for the individual, several of them having both strongly organized support and strongly organized opposition. It is for the voter to decide which is right.

But these recommended here are to your own personal interest locally.

Do not let them fail because of neglect.

It is important to study and know the amendments before entering election booths.

Also be a good citizen in a general way on election day. If you see anything that appears to be an intent to thwart the will of the people notify the fraud investigating committee of the Allegheny County Bar Association.

Seven Amendments Are Under Organization Fire

The Pennsylvania Taxpayers' Association has come out in opposition to seven of the 14 amendments to the constitution, to be voted on tomorrow. Included in the list for rejection by this society, which the Philadelphia Evening Bulletin comments, "is said to speak the thought of the state Republican organization," are all five state bond proposals. The two others opposed by the association are No. 1, proposing a state owned printing plant, and No. 5, permitting exemption from inheritance tax certain specified properties. In an editorial article, "Tagging the Amendments," the comment of the Evening Bulletin on No. 1 and No. 5, follows:

"It may be assumed that the latter amendment would have been approved had it not been for its unfortunate construction, which seems to wipe out the constitutional amendment ratified five years ago granting exemption from taxation to property of veterans' associations used for meeting purposes. And it is also likely that Amendment No. 1, authorizing the state to do all or part of its own printing, might have been approved had there not been introduced into the text of that amendment, for some undiscoverable reason, a similar authorization for state production of 'furnishings and fuel for the Capitol buildings and paper and stationery for the state government.'"

There has been opposition voiced in Allegheny county also by members of veterans' organizations relative to No. 5 because the amendment, as worded, would not include properties inherited by their societies as subject to exemption.

Relative to the Welfare Bond Issue of $50,000,000, the Bulletin states "the need for greater accommodations at state institutions for the care of defective dependants is so great and existing conditions are so pitiful that there will be strong dissent from the council of this 'Pennsylvania Taxpayers' Association.'"

Which is true, since there is a well organized Citizens' Committee for the Welfare Bond Issue, the state-wide membership of which includes Mayor Charles H. Kline, Edwin W. Smith, Mrs. William Thaw, Jr., and J. Rogers Flannery, of Pittsburgh, as vice presidents and executive committee members.

Dr. T. G. Greig, speaking for the Allegheny County Medical Society, informs the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph that the Welfare Bond Issue was originally sponsored by medical men of the state and that it has the support of local medical societies.

The Taxpayers' Association contends that matters contemplated in the welfare and other bond issues can be taken care of through current revenues.

"State College's needs," according to the Bulletin article, "are no less obvious and pressing. But the amount asked for in that amendment, No. 2, is so small that there is no reason why provision should not be made to the full of its requirements out of the current revenues at the next session of the Legislature."

State College, itself, has something to say about that, in the following language:

"The college authorities, however, accepting this proposal in good faith, feel that there is no assurance that such aid will extend beyond the present administration and see the only guarantees for the future provision for the college resting in the passage of the bond issue."

Stressing the need for what it requests, $8,000,000, a communication from the college states that it is forced to refuse admission to more than 1,000 boys and girls each year.

Visioning the possible defeat of the State College issue at the polls, the Evening Bulletin states that "public opinion may assent to the rejection of this bond issue, but it will insist that the Legislature shall fulfill its obligation to supply the needed funds."

Other issues frowned upon by the Pennsylvania Taxpayers' Association are those for state forests and state highways. The latter issue has the support of the Chamber of Commerce of Pittsburgh. The only reason for refusing support for these issues is the argument that the state will be able to accomplish the needed improvements out of current funds, without the bond issues.

Tales That Are Told

No Laughing Matter

HE WAS an elder of his kirk in a small Scottish town, and had consulted a specialist about his health. Told that he had a floating kidney, he was much disturbed, for the complaint had all the terror of mystery.

He went to the minister of his church with a request that the prayers of the congregation might be offered.

"I don't know," said the minister. "I'm afraid that at the mention of a floating kidney the congregation might laugh."

"I see nothing to laugh at," replied the sufferer. "It was only last Sunday you prayed for loose livers."

Muddled

A MAN came to the door of the church and beckoned to a neighboring policeman.

"Come in," said he, "and remove a man. He's creating a disturbance."

"What's the matter?" asked the policeman.

"It's this way," was the reply. "You know Hock and Hick, the Simultaneous Dancers. Well, Hock came here to be married, and he brought Hick along as best man. But it's no go. Everything Hock does, Hick does too, and the parson says if somebody doesn't interfere the girl will be married to both of them."

Worst Story I Have Heard Today

By WILL ROGERS.

IF IT wasn't for the movies, some women would have to do all their crying at home, and home would be pretty sad. I think one thing the movies have done for us is to make our homes brighter by giving the women a place to cry outside the home.

Well, there was a woman that was looking at Al Jolson's "Singing Fool" picture, and she was just bawling her eyes out. Her husband was a nice guy, and he was afraid people would think he was pinching her. He says, "Say, if you bawl like this, I won't bring you to shows any more."

She says, "Oh, shut up! You're a regular wet blanket, and you never want me to enjoy myself in my own way at all. I'll get even with you the next time you want me to go out and play golf!"

The Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELIS

Allegory

ALL dimmed by dust a white rose lies,
Frail house of fainting memories
Of moon-lit skies and lovers' eyes!

Across its heart spilled blood and wine
Its petals pale incarnadine.
Where late morn's dews shone crystalline.

Yet, upon this broken loveliness
That once knew Summer's swift caress,
And heard the winds their love confess,

Still faint, exquisite perfumes rise,
And fragrance that all stain defies
In every fading petal lies.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By Elsie Robinson

EVEN the smallest bridge is a strange and stirring sight. There one may read the whole story of human evolution and each man's little tale of gain or loss.

A bridge—think of how much happened before that bridge was built. Think far, far back—

Little men standing jabbering on the shore of a stream. Little hairy men with low foreheads and almost empty eyes, jabbering because an obstacle stopped their restless feet. Two shores and nothing by which they could cross. Then slowly an idea forming in their narrow brains. Little men fumbling with thought like monkeys with a strange fruit. Monkey brains starting to build—starting to build a picture of something that would make a trail from shore to shore. And, presently, out of that need, out of that idea, a crude fabric of tree trunks lashed with thongs.

So the bridge grew. So all bridges have grown. First the need—then the picture shaping in the brain—then the will to do—and finally an arc outflung against the sky, that arc which first took shape within the fumbling brain.

Bridge building—that is the story of human evolution. Spans that would carry men from one shore to another. Each onward effort that man has made in his long progress was a bridge. When the first, feeble scaly creature grew a pair of gills so it could breathe the air, that was a bridge. A bridge between the slime and freer life. When fins became a tiny pair of legs, another bridge was built—and life climbed higher toward the sun.

LIFE CLIMBED AS FAST AS IT COULD WISH AND THINK. When men came to the place where they desired something better than dirt caves, and set themselves to plan a finer form of house, then they went forward on the bridge of their desire. WHAT MAN IMAGINES AND DESIRES HE CAN HAVE—that is the story of human evolution.

That is the story of your life and mine. Life is a series of gaps and obstacles from birth to death. We progress according to our ability to bridge those gaps. Some of us stop very early in the game. Bridge building is hard and dangerous. We refuse to take the risk. We are content to stay on our safe, accustomed shore. The farther shore seems very beautiful. We envy the people who are there—we envy the people who have achieved power and freedom and success. But we cannot throw out a bridge from our own minds and hearts and grapple that farther shore. So we stay where we are and for us the trail is ended. It is ended quite as effectually as if we had died. But others go on and on, facing gaps and building bridges to their last gasp.

Think of the struggle that lies behind bridges the next time you see one. Think of the bridges you have built in your life—and of those you haven't built. Think, too, of all those dead men and women who built the bridges by which you cross obstacles today, and be grateful.

PERSPECTIVE

By Garrett P. Serviss

"Is it true that all tall buildings actually are narrower at the top than at the base? Such difference is noticeable when looking at the top of the building from below. Is it a trick of the eyesight? I have also noticed that when I look at the top of a building, facing its front, it looks as if it slightly leans backward and narrows at its roof. —E. W. Niebergall, Chicago."

IF you had studied the art of drawing—the elements of which ought to be taught to all school children—you would recognize that the appearances that you speak of are due solely to the effects of "perspective." This is a good enough word when once it is understood, but its Latin root, perspicere, "to see through or across," does not make the English meaning very clear.

The meaning of perspective when used to explain the apparent narrowing of a tall building at the top, or its apparent leaning backward, involves the geometrical principle that two parallel lines when viewed lengthwise seem to approach one another, and if the distance is sufficiently great they appear to blend into one. A practical application of this principle on a stupendous scale causes a star which, like the celebrated Betelgeuse, may be 250,000,000 miles in diameter, to appear a mere point of light. If Betelgeuse were shaped like a square column a quadrillion of miles in height, with its base centered on the sun, it would be wide enough at the bottom to cover nearly the whole solar system inside the orbit of Mars, though to an eye looking upward from near the base (as you look up the tall building) its top would be a point that you could hide behind a needle.

A familiar example of linear perspective is the apparent closing together of the rails of a track as the eye follows them for a long distance over level ground. Another very picturesque and beautiful example is exhibited whenever the sun behind the clouds seems to send out in every direction radiating shafts of light. Astonishing as it may seem to some, these shafts are really parallel beams, and their resemblance to spokes having the sun for a hub is an optical illusion. The seeming radiation of meteor showers from a fixed point in the sky is also an instance of this deception. The real paths of meteors are practically parallel.

A word about the "leaning back" of the tall building. This appearance arises from the same perspective effect that causes the top to be narrowed. For the very reason that the bottom looks broader than the top, it seems farther away, not only in a vertical direction, but horizontally also. Looking up the face of a lofty building, one sees the side lines apparently approaching each other, like the rails of a track stretching away over the plain. But there are caprices of vision which sometimes cause the top to appear to impend over the observer; these depend upon circumstances of place, lighting, distance, etc. It is never safe to trust implicitly to the reports of our eyes. They are, by all odds, the best and most comprehensive of our senses of observation, and to their verdict we habitually refer nearly all doubtful causes, yet we have always to test with reasoning and logical inference every new thing that they show us. It would take a large volume to contain a full account of all that the brain, in a way that we cannot explain, does in correcting and co-ordinating the raw information brought in by the uneducated senses.

Bible Passages

Ten Pieces of Silver

(Luke 19: 12-26.)

HE said therefore, A certain nobleman went into a far country to receive for himself a kingdom, and to return.

And he called his ten servants, and delivered them ten pounds, and said unto them, Occupy till I come.

But his citizens hated him, and sent a message after him, saying, We will not have this man to reign over us.

And it came to pass, that when he was returned, having received the kingdom, then he commanded these servants to be called unto him, to whom he had given the money, that he might know how much every man had gained by trading.

Then came the first, saying, Lord, thy pound hath gained ten pounds.

And he said unto him, Well, thou good servant; because thou hast been faithful in a very little, have thou authority over ten cities.

And the second came, saying, Lord, thy pound hath gained five pounds.

And he said likewise to him, Be thou also over five cities.

And another came, saying, Lord, behold, here is thy pound, which I have kept laid up in a napkin:

For I feared thee, because thou art an austere man: thou takest up that thou layest not down, and reapest that thou didst not sow.

And he saith unto him, Out of thine own mouth will I judge thee, thou wicked servant. Thou knewest that I was an austere man, taking up that I laid not down, and reaping that I did not sow:

Wherefore then gavest not thou my money into the bank, that at my coming I might have required mine own with usury?

And he said unto them that stood by, Take from him the pound, and give it to him that hath ten pounds.

(And they said unto him, Lord, he hath ten pounds.)

For I say unto you, That unto every one which hath shall be given; and from him that hath not, even that he hath shall be taken away from him.

New York Day by Day by O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—Diary of a modern Pepys: Out early to carry a neighbor's sick bird to a bird doctor and somehow felt silly. Breakfasted with Ray Long, who has been to Europe again, then to call on beautiful Elizabeth Young recovering from a benzine buggy accident. Home to work on my biography for a magazine.

Later to an auction and being sufficiently funded acquired an early American chair, but where I will find space for it I do not know. And among those along the streets were Carl Van Vechten, Montague Glass, Katherine Howard and Sime Silverman.

Musical revues are now planting what appears to be extemporaneous bits of repartee in their productions and almost invariably they click. It seems to the audience to be an accidental peep behind the scenes, although actually rehearsed for weeks. Recently at a musical show rehearsal a piece of scenery fell with a loud crash. Bert Wheeler, a comedian, cried: "It's the mice!" It got such a grand laugh among the performers it was kept in the routine.

Burlesque has a sure fire laugh in one of those face smacking contests. A burlesque show on the East Side never fails to insert this bit of buffoonery. Incidentally, the comedian with baggy pantaloons, green whiskers and splay feet is still a beloved institution down there. I was in one of the East Side's burlesque houses recently when a Junoesque blonde in tights stooped to pick up a handkerchief and was immediately magnificently whanged with a slap-stick. And among those doubling up in the aisle with unrestrained laughter was Mrs. O. O. McIntyre's sedate boy friend.

The Bowery seems the last stand in Manhattan for buxom burlesque queens with peroxided hair and a bright gold tooth. The Bowery is not interested in lithe young things with slinking walks and demure expressions. It likes its show ladies fair, fat and forty. The average salaries of burlesque ladies range from $30 to $40 a week. They are usually married "in the profession." An old trouper tells me burlesque folk are thrifty and rarely need a benefit.

East Side burlesque houses still feature the peanut, popcorn and soft drink vendors who circulate the aisles between acts dispensing gimcracks. Who'll have a Horton? Here y'are—fresh soda pop? Popcorn five a package! In other days ladies sat only in curtained boxes, wearing heavy veils. Today they occupy prominent seats along with men. There is a burlesque house in the Broadway district that has its potpourri of full dress suits and decollette gowns.

* * *

Smutty cracks are rarely tolerated in burlesque. Many of the jokes are far less risque than those in $10 musical revues. There is a more jovial commonness in dress and makeup and more broadly exaggerated situations, but burlesque cleaned house long ago. One of New York's famous Wall Street operators is a consistent patron, as is a novelist who writes lavender and old lace romances.

FRENCH PROVERBS

By Dr. Frank Crane

Absolute liberty for everybody would be absolute autocracy for the strongest. Order has limits, disorder has no limits.

Places die as well as men.

The worst thing about error is not that it is untrue, but that it is blind, passionate and egotistic.

When you act, observe the rules; when you pass judgment, observe the exceptions.

If virtue makes good manners, good manners also make virtue.

Good taste is an essential part of good morals.

The attention of the listener in a conversation is like the accompaniment in music.

Every mind should keep a "spare room." It is intolerable to discuss with a mind every room of which is taken. Hospitality is the charm of intelligence.

Where one is not understood one is always confused. We cannot pleasantly discuss with anyone who is not already half of our opinion.

We should pride ourselves on our sincerity, not on our infallibility.

People are persuaded by their own reasons, not by yours.

It is not another's opinion that displeases you, but his disposition to make you adopt it.

Nothing does a woman so much honor as her patience; and nothing does her so little honor as the patience of her husband.

The wish to be under no obligation to anyone is the subtlest form of egotism.

The heart should go before the mind, and tolerance should always march before truth.

Those who are busy making themselves loved have no time to make themselves unhappy.

It is our impotences that irritate us, never our powers.

It is a man's petty pleasures that make him petty.

Questions mark the force of the mind; answers mark its skill.

Two classes of people are equally charming and equally needed; those who do and say beautiful things, and those who appreciate them.

The body shows the species; only the face shows the personality.

OH, THESE WOMEN

By Leola Allard

MOST of the divorcees are brunettes. In all the years in divorce courts, I have seen mostly brunettes, some blondes and a few red heads.

The women in the courts of domestic relations fighting with their husbands are mostly brunettes.

The supposition is that blondes are easier to get along with.

Blondes are vainer than brunettes. Some New York author was quoted the other day as saying that a man's underwear indicates the man's opinion of himself. It's the same with women. If they take care of their hair, their skin, their nails, and their clothes, and make themselves lovely, there's no question about it, they will be popular with men.

It always seems like advertising their poor judgment, and their failure in life to be seen with a carelessly dressed, poorly groomed woman, no wonder men object to it. Brunettes are much more inclined to be serious and money-saving, and to do more for the family and less for themselves. And the pity is that it too often makes them the losers. The man wanders off with a dainty blonde who realizes the importance of a carefree look and some dainty clothes.

Not that men are ungrateful of a wife's efforts at helping when difficulties arise, but a woman doesn't have to make a slave of herself and then be forever hating herself because she is one. After all wives set their own price on themselves, and if it's cheap no one is to blame but themselves.

I've noticed many brunettes looking in show windows while the blondes were inside—buying.

I'm a brunette, but as I think back over the folks I know I can't deny the blondes are the gayest, the happiest and the most desirable company for an evening when one wants to forget work.

A pretty girl just walked in and said she was glad she wasn't a brunette, and her eyelashes are black and her hair dark brown.

"What do you call yourself?" I asked her.

"A brown-ette," said she, gayly, and she had the blonde laugh that tells me there may be a difference.

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

DO YOU feel antagonistic toward the driver of a low-powered car that prevents you from driving at your desired speed?

You think such a car should not be allowed on the road.

Do you ever take into consideration that the driver may be operating the car at as fast a speed as he thinks safe?

Perhaps, on account of its age, it is the fastest pace the car can make with safety, or perhaps it "suffers" from some mechanical defect known only to the owner.

You are fortunate if you can drive a better car.

The one of which you complain is in all probability, the best the driver can afford.

It is not his fault that he cannot have a speedy new car.

What right have you to blame him for that which he cannot avoid?

However, there is no room for condoning the attitude of a man who has a good machine and who insists upon driving traffic lanes at a snail's pace.

The driver who deliberately loafs on a busy thoroughfare is a menace.
